WAR VETERANS AID CAMPBELL WITH COUNSEL

Baker Suspect Cheered by Action of Federal Post, V. F. W.

ATTORNEY H. S. WARD WILL HELP DEFENSE

Talks by Long Distance With Smith, Absent on Mystery Visit.

EXTRADITION HEARING SET FOR TOMORROW

Rover Aid Willing to Allow Examination of Gun by Ballistic Expert.

The defense of Herbert M. Campbell has been augumented by the entry of Attorney Herbert S .Ward, of Arlington County, who will tomorrow aid in the fight against removal of the suspect to Washington for trial in the murder of Mary E. Baker.

Together with this announcement came the consent of Government attorneys to permit Albert H. Hamilton, defense ballistics expert, to examine the gun which, it is claimed, was used by Campbell in the slaying.

At the hearing tomorrow morning before United States Commissioner J. Barton Phillips in Alexandria the Government plans to call no witnesses but to rest its case upon the warrant and indictment against the prisoner.

On the other hand, an array of witnesses, numbering 10, will be called by defense Attorney Charles Henry Smith to rebut any moves by the Government calculated to show the likelihood of Campbell's guilt.

Designated by Veterans.

Mr. Ward, the new defense counsel, was designated by Federal Post, No. 824, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to assist Mr. Smith. In a long distance conversation with the chief defense counsel, Mr. Ward discussed the nature of the Campbell defense.

Mr. Ward explained that he was appointed a special advocate of the Veterans Post by J. C. Strobel, post commander, upon passage of a resolution by the group, of which Campbell is a member. The new counsel declined to say where Mr. Smith was when he talked with him on the telephone. From a reliable source it is understood that he has been in Auburn, N. Y., discussing the case with Mr. Hamilton.

The Veterans Post announced the appointment of Mr. Ward following passage of a resolution of confidence in which the members assured Campbell of their belief in his innocence. To Mr. Ward's recollection no such action has ever been taken before by a Veterans of Foreign Wars Post.

Mr. Smith welcomed the additional counsel, it was said by Mr. Stroebel.

Gun Examination Allowed.

Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins, who will conduct prosecution of the Arlington County real estate man, said last night that he would allow Mr. Hamilton to examine the pistol in the presence of Dr. Wilmer Souder or Lieut. John Fowler, who, with Col. Calvin Goddard, identified Campbell's revolver as the death weapon.

Mr. Collins expects to leave today for a month's vacation to New England and will not participate in the removal proceedings before Commissioner Phillip. Legal aspects of the proceedings tomorrow will be handled by Assistant United States Attorney Callom B. Jones, of Richmond, Va.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, interviewed last night regarding issuance of consent for Mr. Hamilton's examination of the gun, declared that he would be glad to consider any such request of the defense counsel. He intimated, however, that the decision would rest with Mr. Collins, in whose hands he has placed the case.

Attitude of Rover.

Campbell's admissions to Commissioner Phillips, that he is the man named in the warrant and that he was in the District on April 11 abtablishes a prima facie case, according to Mr. Rover, which is the only requisite for removal.

One of the defense's principal arguments—that the place of the crime's commission had not been established—Mr. Rover believes, is eliminated by the indictment which is conclusive of the venue. In short, the Government's case will be merely arguments on points of law.

Opposed to the legal arguments of the Government, Mr. Smith intends to present alibi witnesses to overthrow the Government's case. Included in the group are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Green, of Arlington County; Mrs. Ruth Callahan Campbell, wife of the suspect; Edwin Callahan, his stepson, and several others, who will give testimony in support of Campbell's alibi.

Frank G. Campbell, brother of the prisoner, last night explianed that his brother is desirous of facing trial, but insists upon his right to trial by a jury of his peers, in the jurisdiction in which he lives and where he is known.

HALT TONG WAR

Dr. C. C. Wu (upper), Chinese Minister to the United States, and Ta-Kwang Wu (lower), secretray of the legation.

LEGATION'S WARNING SEEN IN TONG TRUCE

FORMAL SIGNING TODAY

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Acting under advice believed to have been received from the Chinese legation at Washington, representatives of six Chinese societies will meet tomorrow to sign a pact permanently ending tong warfare here, District Attorney Crain announced today.

The announcement came from a conference among Ta-Kwang Wu, second secretary of the legation; and J. S. Town, acting consul here, and Chinese leaders. Ta-Kwang Wu came from Washington yesterday, supposedly under orders from C. C. Wu, Chinese Minister to the United States, to put a stop to disturbances in Chinatown.

The Chinese officials expressed confidence the agreement would insure lasting peace, District Attorney Crain said. And Police Commissioner Mulrooney has been invited to attend the signing.

Earlier in the day, Crain issued an ultimatum that tong warfare must cease. After a conference of representatives of the six organizations broke up in an argument over differences that led to the shooting of five Hip Sing Chinese last night. Declaring peace treaties no longer seemed effectual, the district attorney gave the leaders a week to answer to his fiat.

Two On Leong Tong members were held in $7,500 bail today on charges of felonious assault and violation of the State antigun law, as a result of last night's shootings. A third is in a hospital.

Peace Group to Hear Hoover.

President Hoover yesterday tentatively accepted an invitation to address the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches, which meets here November 10, 11 and 12. The invitation was extended by the Rev. Fred B. Smith, chairman of the organization's executive committee.

GANDHI OFFERS TO MAKE PEACE ON KEEN TERMS

British Cabinet, Viceroy, Must Make Dominion Status Aim.

FORMAL DECLARATION MAHATMA'S DEMAND

Personal Pledges Held Not Sufficient by Jailed Leader.

PLANS STIRS DISMAY IN RANKS OF LABOR

'Diabolically Clever,' Asserts One; Agreement Might Cause Crisis.

London, Aug. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Mahatma Gandhi, from his prison cell in India, has offered, on conditions, to call off the noncooperative movement and end the passive resistance of his followers which is paralyzing the whole country.

Gandhi's proposal has been made to Viceroy Lord Irwin and sent by him to the government here. The mahatma made it after consultation with other imprisoned leaders of his party, and it is regarded here as representing the policy of the whole Congress party.

Gandhi says he recognizes that the strength of the Conservative and Liberal opposition to home rule for India will make it impossible for the round-table conference, set for November in London, to grant India dominion status.

Amnesty Also Sought.

If, however, the British Labor government and the viceroy will definitely declare that they adopt dominion status as their aim and policy for India, then Gandhi offers to call off the noncooperative movement, provided the government will declare an amnesty and free all political prisoners.

Gandhi's declaration, it is understood, makes it clear that no personal pledges of support from the viceroy or prime minister will do; that he demands a declaration of government policy in so far as the government is able to carry it into effect.

The gist of this proposal is as yet known here only in an extremely limited circle, but it is clear that the description given to it in a high labor quarter as "diabolically clever" will be widely echoed. Conservative and Liberal leaders here, and the rank and file of their parties, will repudiate Gandhi's suggestion, but he had placed the MacDonald government in a hole.

Labor Party Committed.

Labor here is committed by preelection pledges to dominion status for India and the viceroy himself proclaimed this last year as Britain's goal. Gandhi now simply asks MacDonald and Irwin to commit the government in the coming conference to this aim and promises peace if they will do so, while admitting that dominion status can not be granted at once because of the strength of the opposition in the ranks of the other parties.

For labor to make such a pledge would create a political storm and might precipitate a general election here. But whether Gandhi's suggestions can be turned down without a revolt of the Labor rank and file is uncertain. The first impressions in informed circles of the mahatma's move in reply to the effort to get him to make peace, and perhaps come to the London conference himself, are that MacDonald will have great difficulty in deciding how to

Calvin Coolidge

Says: Our own interdependence and that of the rest of the world is emphatically exemplified by the present unrest in India. It has not only affected our direct trade in that region but by reducing Indian imports of manufactured goods from England has reduced our sale of raw materials that would go into such goods, and by injuring British business has lowered its general purchasing power.

While we have every sympathy with the aspiration for self-government, we realize from the historical development of our own institutions that self-government can not be conferred upon one people by another people but must be acquired by long and painful experience. It is only of gradual growth through many intermediate grades, none of which can be omitted. When India is unified, educated and equipped for self-government it will come with benefit to all concerned.

At present the problem is how the people of India can best be helped to progress along that pathway. Undoubtedly the British Empire furnishes them with guarantees of order and stability which are their first requisites in working out their own destiny. Meantime hope lies in such an adjustment of governmental and trade relations as will insure domestic tranquillity.

LAW MAY BALK USE OF ZUTA STRONG BOX

Limitations Statute Looms As Stone Wall Against Slaying Inquiry.

PAPERS BEAR 1927 DATES

Chicago, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The Jack Zuta "strong box," containing records of transactions between the slain gangster and persons prominent in Chicago politics, became tonight a thing of cards facing collapse beneath the statute of limitations.

"Most of the papers are dated 1927 or earlier," said State's Attorney Swanson tonight. "The statute of limitations in any of these cases is not more than three years, and that bars the grand jury from taking any action on evidence revealed in the box."

Former Judge Emanuel Eller, son of Morris (Boss) Eller, city sealer, appeared before the State's attorney and explained the $250 check drawn to him and found among the Zuta papers. The check, Eller said, was a campaign contribution when he was a candidate for municipal judge in 1922. The check was brought in by workers, he said, and he indorsed it without knowledge of its signer.

Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the State's attorney, who, with Charles F. Rathbun, special assistant State's attorney, found the slain gangster's deposit boxes, said important developments were expected. Zuta, business director of the North Side gang of George Moran and the Aiello brothers, was slain at Delafield, Wis., two weeks ago.

"We are following the trail of Zuta's dollars and there is no telling where it will lead," Roche said.

"A lot of men will be leaving town soon."

Roche today turned the investigation to a $500 campaign contribution to the "regular Republican organization" as shown on the accounts of Zuta, slain several weeks ago at a Wisconsin resort.

Another item found in Zuta's possession was a membership card in the William Hale Thompson Republican Club, signed by "Homer K. Galpin, chairman." This, too, Roche said, was being carefully investigated.

In Zuta's balance sheet items of $80,693.60 and $22,775 were shown

ELOPER IS ARRESTED ON MANN ACT COUNT

TYPIST TRIP COMPANION

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—An elopement with his pretty 19-year-old stenographer tonight threatened to send Bert N. Garstin, 48, former advertising solicitor for a Pittsburgh newspaper, to Sing Sing Prison for the rest of his life.

Garstin, arrested by Federal officers in a small hotel here, is under $1,500 bond pending hearing on removal to Washington to face a Mann act charge following arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Cochrane.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney W. J. McDermott said a Federal warrant issued in Washington charges that Garstin ran away from Pittsburgh with Miss Esther Hoefer, his stenographer, and lived at a Washington hotel with her, as Mr. and Mrs. Garstin. It is alleged the real Mrs. Garstin lives with her son in Rockville, Md.

Since coming here some time ago Garstin had become advertising manager for a local concern.

Records show, McDermott said, that Garstin had been sent to Sing Sing for life in 1926 from New York under the Baumes law dealing with habitual criminals.

Federal investigators are puzled as to how Garstin obtained the parole that set him free in 1929, inasmuch as Massachusetts, New York and Illinois records show a list of bad check and embezzlement charges against him, McDermott said.

When Garstin was arrested the girl was gone and is believed to have returned to her home in Pittsburgh, McDermott said.

Return to Washington and conviction there on the Mann act charge will mean that Garstin will be surrendered to New York State authorities upon completion of Federal sentence for return to Sing Sing as a parole violator, and that he probably will finish out his life term, the Federal prosecutor said.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Garstin last night told a Washington Post reporter that she knew nothing about her husband's arrest.

"There must be some mistake," she said.

She declined to discuss the case or her present relations with her husband further.

OPENING GUNS FIRED IN FIGHT FOR FALL VOTE

Shouse Hurls Defense of Tariff Act Back Into Teeth of G. O. P.

TILSON CALLS TALK HALF-TRUE CRITICISM

Hebert Defends Levies Against Attacks of King, Connally.

DEMOCRAT CHAIRMAN POINTS TO DEPRESSION

Says Hoover Ought to Take Blame for It as Well as Properity Credit.

Opening guns in what promises to become the most intensive newspaper-radio political offensive in years were sounding on a widening front last night. Chairman Jouett Shouse, of the Democratic national committee, touched off the opening salvo with a radio address anything but complimentary to the "Hoover-Grundy tariff," Republican "prosperity," and Republican efforts at farm relief.

Scarcely had Mr. Shouse's accusations died in the millions of loudspeakers tuned in on the National system when the Republican national committee started its stenographers on bristling replies for the morning press. In a committee broadside, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, House Republican floor leader, termed Mr. Shouse's address "an amazing collection of half-truths, misstatements, abuse and criticism."

Senator Felix Hebert (Republican), of Rhode Island, als released a statement yesterday in reply to Senators William H. King, of Utah, and Tom Connally, of Texas, who in turn had replied to charges made by Robert Lucas, the new chairman of the Republican national committee. All of these were interpreted as indications that the coming congressional elections will be preceded by the most voluminous statement-making in the history of the two major parties.

Produce Slump Cited.

Addressing himself to the subject of farm relief, Mr. Shouse said in his speech last night that the price of farm products had steadily declined since the passage of the farm relief act. Farmers who took the administration's advice to hold their crops for better prices, he said, were compelled to market their produce at a much lower price than the levels prevailing when the advice was given, or else they have on hand today the crops of last year, "which they can not possibly dispose of at anything like the actual cost of production."

"The Senate had a very difinite farm relief program in mind," he said, "formulated with the assistance of the great agricultural organizations of the country. It did not suit the President. So the Senate bill was rewritten in accordance with Mr. Hoover's ideas and the present farm relief act is a Hoover measure absolutely.

G. O. P. Overturn Predicted.

"I do not hesitate to predict that the administration on November 4 next will be given the most substantial and startling evidence of what the farmers of America think of Hoover Republican farm relief."

Touching on the tariff bill, Mr. Shouse said that some administration apologists had contended the President should not be blamed for the bill.

"I can think of nothing Democrats have said so derogatory of the President's intelligence and courage as this apology from his own party," he said.

DRY AGENT FACING CHARGES BY WOMEN

Golding, Called 'Hardboiled,' Accused by Employes of Albany Office.

TWO MEN SUSPENDED

Suspension of three dry agents, among them George E. Golding, was announced here yesterday by Prohibition Director Amos W. Woodcock. Golding, who is known throughout the country by his picturesque nickname "Hard Boiled Golding," was assigned to the Washington territory during the liquor clean-up of the city in 1924.

Golding has been suspended and charges have been filed against him with the Civil Service Commission accusing him of misconduct with several young women, employes of the Albany office, where he has been stationed. If these charges are sustained before the Commission, Golding will be dropped from the Government service.

The other agents suspended are Basil N. Quinn, of the local force, and Robert F. Merkle, of Milwaukee, Wis. Quinn is said to have struck a Washington man in the face during a quarrel over personal traffic violations.

Merkle also is charged with misbecoming conduct during an argument over a traffic tangle. It is said that while in the Wisconsin city he attempted to arrest the man for a traffic violation. When the man asked for his authority, Merkle, it is charged, drew his gun and threatened the man.

Quinn and Merkle were suspended for five days, which will cost them about $35 each. Quinn may be remembered as one of the agents who

13 OF 25 TAKEN IN LIQUOR RAIDS ARE LIBERATED

Hart, Aid of Prosecutor, Cites Lack of Evidence and Warrants.

POLICE RESENTFUL AT SWEEPING ACTION

FOUR OF DEFENDANTS ENTER GUILTY PLEAS

Eight Houses Were Entered Without Papers; Word of Informer Spurned.

Police operating over the week-end in Washington booked 25 persons on liquor charges, but when Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart, in charge of liquor prosecution in Police Court, looked over their reports yesterday he decided that more than half of the defendants had been illegally arrested, and as a result issued no papers against them.

This caused the release of 13 of the 25 and the arraignment of the remainder. Four of this latter group gave credence to the raids by pleading guilty, while the remainder pleaded not guilty and demanded trial by juries.

Mr. Hart's decimation of the cases was the most wholesale in months and completely nullified work of raiders in five precincts. While making no comment, Mr. Hart announced that in eight of the cases, involving 11 defendants, the police had forgotten to arm themselves with warrants, while in two cases, involving two defendants, the accused had had forethought enough to destroy the evidence. Oddly, in the two cases in the latter category the police were armed with search warrants sworn to by informers. In one of these cases police asserted they had saved at least two and one-half gills of liquor. But the case was thrown out. Mr. Hart declined to state whether his action in that case was prompted by the use of informers or because of the small amount of evidence.

Policemen Resent Action.

Mr. Hart's action in throwing out so many cases was resented by many of the raiding policemen and many of them were heard to address other policemen coming in to make reports: "It's no use. Your case won't stand up. It'll just be no papers."

The assistant United States attorney for several months has been trying to compel raiding police to resort to the legality of search warrants, believing, he says, in the sanctity of the American home. He also has been a bitter opponent of stool pigeons, special informers and the like.

No papers were issued against James J. Barry, 51 years old, of G street northwest near First street, and the following Negroes: Rose May Jones and Robert Valentine Jones, of B street northwest near Second street; James Roy Hayden and William Cabell, of Eighth street northwest near R street; Leonard Roscoe Harris, Eighth street northwest near T street; Lee White, of Fairmont street northwest near Sixth street; John Delaney, of M street southwest near First street; Josephine Thompson, of G street northeast near Second street; Isaiah Carter, of Third street southwest near B street; Daisy Bumbrey and Mary Scott, of Fourth street northwest near G street, and Harry Lampson, of Third street northwest near I street.

Lacked Warrants for Raids.

Four of these raids were staged by Sixth Precinct policemen, two by Fourth Precinct police, two by Eighth Precinct police and the others by Tenth and Ninth Precinct raiders.

All the thirteen persons liberated were seized in ten raids. In eight of

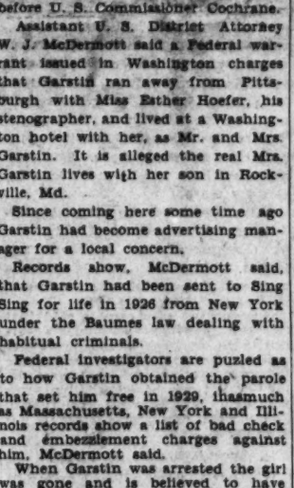
Foul Play Is Feared As Woman Vanishes

Mrs. Bergen, of Alexandra, Seen Week Ago in Capital.

Missing since Tuesday afternoon, when she was last seen talking to an unidentified man in front of the downtown Washington department department store where she worked, Mrs. Eleanor Gates Bergen, 23 years old, of Alexandria, Va., was sought last night.

A quiet search has been in progress since early Tuesday night, when Mrs. Bergen failed to return to her 1-year-old baby, her husband and her parents at their home, 630 North Washington street, in Alexandria. Police were called into the case and a private search also was launched by a neighbor, Herbert Taylor, chief of the identification bureau of the Navy Department.

Mrs. Bergen's mother, Mrs. Joseph Schwarzmann, wife of the proprietor of the Alexandria Laundry, reported that she saw her daughter about 4 o'clock last Tuesday afternoon talking with a man unknown to her in front of the department store, where a check revealed that the missing woman had failed to report to work that day.



MRS. ELEANOR BERGEN.

Relatives, expressing fear that Mrs. Bergen met with foul play, described her as being 5 feet 5 inches tall, and weighing 120 pounds. She has greenish-gray eyes, dark brown curly bobbed hair, and when last seen she was wearing a dark blue felt hat, tan dress, tan stockings and light tan oxford shoes. She left her home with a small amount of change.

Baby One of Four Drowned As Ferry Upsets and Sinks

Married Couple and Infant Trapped in Auto, While Foot Passenger Also Perishes in Accident on Connecticut River.

Westmoreland, N. H., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Four persons, including a baby, drowned when a ferry plying the Connecticut River from East Putney, Vt., to Westmoreland, upset and sank in midstream tonight. There were two automobiles on the ferry.

The drowned were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Austin, a young couple, and their one-year-old baby and William Clark, 60, all of Putney, Vt. The Austin family was trapped in their automobile as it slipped off the careening ferry. Clark was a foot passenger. Thomas Carpenter another foot passenger, and Harry Pierce driver of the other car aboard, swam ashore.

The ferry, an old-fashioned type propelled by a cable which was pulled by hand from the deck, showed a decided list as it left the east Putney shore due to the uneven balance caused by the automobiles being on one side. It tipped over in midstream.

The river is 800 feet wide where the ferry crossed. The craft capsized so quickly the Austin family had no chance to jump from their car. A. M. Cushing, the ferryman, and his grandson, Charles Frederick, were the last to strike the water. The ferryman swam for the shore, but Frederick dived several times in an effort to locate the drowning persons. Unsuccessful, he too struck out for the New Hampshire side to summon help. Boats manned by men who heard the frantic cries as the boat sank immediately set out for the scene. None of the bodies had been recovered late tonight.

Klan Wizard Takes Stump For Walsh's Catholic Rival

Evans Backing Galen Because Incumbent Senator Is Abler Man, Hence More Efficient Aid of Pope, Is Report; Fess Wet Reversal Linked.

Hiram Wesley Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan is campaigning in Montana against Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, and for the Republican candidate, Albert J. Galen who, like aWlsh, is a Catholic and is also a wet, according to word reaching Washington yesterday.

The Evans Republican speaking tour in Montana is regarded here as unique almost to the point of being incredible. He is campaigning for a wet Catholic, while the klan is officially dry and anti-Catholic. But the wizard has an explanation for that. According to reports of his speeches received here and the reports are from reliable sources—he takes the ground that Walsh is by all odds an abler man than Galen and hence would be able to render greater service to the Pope, if elected.

In addition, Mr. Evans has made much of Senator Walsh's advocacy of American adherence to the World Court, an institution that is anathema to the klan. But Mr. Galen is also on record publicly as favoring the court.

The Montana situation is interpreted here by some as having had something to do with Chairman Fess, new Republican national chairman, recently asserting that prohibition is not the issue in the present campaign. Previously, it had been assumed by these observers that this was due to consideration for the candidacy of Dwight W. Morrow in New Jersey and one or two other wet senatorial aspirants in the East.

Only two months ago when the Ohio primary campaigns were getting the raids police entered the premises without a warrant, while in the others they did not have sufficient evidence, although armed with search warrants sworn to by an informer.

Josephine Thompson, whose home was raided on an informer warrant, was alleged, according to the report of Ninth Precinct police, to have tossed two half-gallons of red liquor out a second-floor window.

Carter, whose establishment also was raided on a warrant, was alleged by Fourth Precinct police to have attempted to pour a pitcherful of liquor on the floor. The Fourth Precint police said they saved two and one-half gills, but Mr. Hart did not consider the evidence valid.

The dozen persons charged and the complaints booked against them by Mr. Hart are Jack Norwood, of Fourteenth street northwest near W street, possession; Alchester Chialastic, of Tenth street southwest near B street, possession, and the following Negroes: Clifford S. Allen, of Half street southeast near N street, possession; Melvin Brewer, of Three-and-one-half street northeast near F street, possession; Lewis Jackson and Sam Fletcher, of Ninth street northwest near S street, possession; Margaret Bailey and Horlense Douglas, of Fourth street northwest near I street, possession; Crine Roberts and Pauline Briscoe, of I street southeast near Second street, possession; Sadie Childs, of P street northwest near Ninth street, possession, and Minnie Price, of First street southwest near C street, nuisance and three counts of possession.

Sadie Childs, Melvin Brewer, Clifford S. Allen and Alchester Chialastic pleaded guilty; the others demanded trial by jury.

took part in the raid on the Ambassador Oyster House in 1928.

Golding is suspended indefinitely, until the Civil Service Commission can hear the charges against him. He has been assigned to the Albany office for about two years, being the head of a special force of agents who are said to have spied on other agents. The six men under his direction are alleged to have had instructions to be particularly on the lookout for evidences of unbecoming conduct and dishonesty on the part of their brother agents. They worked throughout the New England section.

The basis of the charges against Golding are complaints made by young women in the Albany office. When Golding disappeared from the office about the middle of last month, it was said that he was on a vacation. No one would deny, however, that charges against him were being investigated. He will, of course, be allowed an opportunity to reply to the charges at the hearing before the commission.

Golding came to Washington in 1924 from the West to help in the big clean-up which also engaged the attention of the famous J. L. (Lone Wolf) Asher. After about a year of service here he was transferred.

Mr. Woodcock said yesterday that while the five-day suspension for Quinn and Merkle might appear slight for the offenses they are alleged to have committed, he was going to refrain from heavy sentences to give agents time to mend their ways. Then, he indicated, the punishments will become severe. He refused to comment on the charges brought against Golding.

Bloodhounds Trail Assailants of Girl

New York State Police Aid in Search of Escaped Fugitive.

Stony Point, N. Y., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—State and Bear Mountain police, aided by bloodhounds, today were scouring Harriman Park for William Horrner, 24 years old, of New York, who was alleged to have assaulted a girl encamped near here last night.

The man hunt began this morning after Horrner escaped from Bear Mountain police headquarters under unexplained circumstances. Police said they had captured Horrner as he was shoving off in a rowboat shortly after the alleged attack about midnight. He dove into the water but surrendered when a policeman threatened to shoot.

Three hundred West Point "plebes," on a march through the park, originally were reported as engaged in the search. Academy officials later said, however, the cadets could not be put to such a task, except by orders of the Secretary of War, and that they were merely keeping watch for the fugitive while going about their ordinary routine.

Hungarian Pretender Back, Budapest Rumor

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Society circles today were gossiping about a report that the Archduke Albrecht, at one time pretender to the Hungarian throne, had returned to Hungary from South America under an assumed name.

The young archduke, who in monarchist circles for a time rivaled Archduke Otto, was sent to South America by his mother, allegedly because he had become entangled in a love affair with the divorced wife of the Hungaran mnster to Bulgara.

The office of Samuel A. Wyvill, clerk to the supervisors of elections, remained open until midnight to allow any other candidate who wished to file.

With the arrest of five Negroes yesterday, Prince Georges County police believe that they have apprehended the perpetrators of a series of robberies in the Brandywine district. Four of the men, Thomas Wood, James Savoy, Fred Dorsey and Charles Bassen, all of near Croom, Md., have admitted several of the robberies, police say.

Wilmer Hawkins, colored, of Washington, also is being held for investigation in connection with the robberies. The men are in the county jail at Upper Marlboro.

Among the places robbed are the general store of Bean & Early, of Brandywine, which is the store of Sheriff Charles C. Early, where jewelry, clothing and groceries, valued at $300, are missing; the T. B. Mercantile Co., where clothing, shoes and groceries valued at $100 were stolen; the Ellis Garage at T. B., where automobile supplies valued at $50 were taken, and the residence of Mrs. A. Reno at T. B., where clothing valued at $30 was taken. The men also admitted an attempt to rob the store of H. Bruce Burrows at T. B., where they were frightened off after they had sawed off locks with a hacksaw, police say.

The men were arrested by Sheriff Early, County Policeman Frank P. Prince, Deputy Sheriff Henry Morris and Constable John F. Wilson.

Robbery of the Black and Gold shop at College Park, Md., during the week-end was reported yesterday to Sheriff Early. The loot included many fine gold high school rings, 39 gold high school pins, 24 gold college rings, a bracelet, two belt buckles, two pendants, three compacts bearing the University of Maryland seal, and 21 fountain pens, valued at $1,000. Entrance was gained by sawing a panel from the back door. County Policeman Claude Reese was detailed to investigate.

Seventy-fice colored men and women were arrested in a raid Sunday night at the Flower Inn, Sheriff road, 1 mile from the District line. Henry R. Thomas, colored, alleged proprietor, was charged with operating a disorderly house and released on bond for his appearance Friday at county police court in Upper Marlboro. The others were released on bond to appear as witnesses. The raid was made by Deputy Sheriffs A. W. Hepburn, L. E. Dutrow, David Jones, Earl Blackwell and V. M. Nichols.

Seven Workmen Find $47 in Tools Stolen

Seven workmen, employed in the construction of new buildings at Thirty-ninth and T streets northwest, yesterday asked police to look for the men who looted a toolshed at the above address and took the implements of their trade. The articles stolen were valued at $47 and included trowels, hammers and bricklayers chisels.

Dogs Must Be Leashed In Parks, Police Warn

A warning was issued to dog owners yesterday by Capt. Ray C. Montgomery, superintendent of the United States Park Police, that the park regulations require that all dogs must be held on leashes in public parks in the District, whether muzzled or unmuzzled.

Capt. Montgomery explained that he has received numerous complaints about unleashed dogs being allowed to run at liberty in the parks and called attention to the fact that whereas elsewhere in the District dogs need not be leashed, the park regulations are more stringent.

WORST OF DROUGHT PASSED, HYDE FEELS

Agriculture Secretary in Jovial Mood Following Talk With Hoover.

BOARD MEMBERS CHOSEN

(Associated Press.)

Recent rains in drought areas yesterday led Secretary Hyde to say he believed the "corner" had been turned, and at the same time word came from the White House that President Hoover expects to name his national organization for relief this week.

The Agriculture Secretary also announced that Southern railroads would put into effect emergency rates for the parched belts today. He said the Western railroads were expected to take similar action in a few days. The rates, amounting to 50 per cent on live stock and feedstuffs, are already operating in the East.

Mr. Hyde was in a genial mood after a call at the White House. He jovially remarked in commenting on general rains that "the Weather Bureau had seen and done its duty." He said he believed the precipitation had taken the edge off the emergency.

President Hoover has been awaiting the shaping of State relief committees before designating the national organization, but reports from the States have convinced him he can name its members before the week is out. The national committee will be composed of representatives of the Federal Farm Board, the Federal Farm Loan Board, the American Railway Association and the Red Cross, together with members of the crop reporting board and the extension service of the Department of Agriculture.

State Groups to Cooperate.

The committee, under the organization outlined at the White House conference last week, will cooperate with State organizations in relief work.

The Virginia drought relief committee, the first State group to be named, conferred with Government officials yesterday and proposed that the estimated 75,000,000 bushels of wheat held by the Grain Stabilization Corporation be made available to stricken farmers for live stock feed. The group was headed by Harry F. Byrd, former governor.

This, Mr. Byrd contended, would help toward increasing the price of wheat and would benefit farmers who need feedstuffs for stock.

The Virginia group also urged that temporary suspension of payments due farm loan banks be considered.

The Weather Bureau said rains had given "substantial relief" in many sections. Additional rains were forecast for today in the wide territory between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains.

Red Cross Gets Appeals.

J. B. Kincer, agriculture meteorologist, said pastures in many sections were revived, truck crops and gardens aided and late corn, particularly in the northern portions of the belt, benefited.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, told President Hoover yesterday that only a few appeals had been received from dry sections. He said, however, he believed an expenditure of $5,000,000 would be necessary later for relief.

Secretary Hyde yesterday designated more than 150 additional counties in five States, Arkansas, Virginia, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri, as eligible for the emergency freight rates on feed and live stock authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission. More than 300 counties were named last week.

No Dealings With Individuals.

Chairman Legge, of the Federal Farm Board, said that the Grain Stablization Corporation could grant credit advances to responsible wheat-purchasing cooperatives, but that it could not deal with individuals. He also expressed the opinion that the corporation could make advances through county or community organizations set up for drought relief.

If any wheat is sold, he added, the corporation would probably replace it. Mr. Byrd's estimate of corporation holdings of 75,000,000 bushels of wheat were said by Mr. Legge to be a little too high, fixing it at between 60,000,000 and 65,000,000 bushels.

The Farm Board has recommended to live stock growers in central Montana, where feed is short, that they ship stock to eastern and southern parts of the State, where it is more plentiful. It would be too expensive, Mr. Legge said, to ship feed to the stock. He added that feed crops were good in northwestern Kansas, eastern Colorado and western Nebraska.

RAIN SQUALLS CHEER ARKANSAS FARMERS

Three Month Drought Ends as Mercuries Fall in Southern States.

CATTLE SALES REPORTED

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Hope was instilled in Arkansas farmers today as a three-month drought of serious proportions appeared to have been broken by rain squalls over the State last night and today.

Mercuries dropped generally for the first time in many weeks. The temperatures have been at and above the century mark.

Searcy recorded the greatest rainfall of 4.97 inches last night and at Georgetown the fall was 3.40 inches. Heaviest rains appeared centered throughout the northwest central portion of the State.

Government crop experts said that late fall plantings, particularly garden truck, assumed a more promising aspect than at any time during the summer. Cotton and corn were for the first time benefitted by rains sufficient to growing conditions. There were continued forecasts for showers.

Speculation as to Effect.

Whether the rainfall will materially aid those crops most seriously affected by the drought remained a matter of speculation. From McRae came the only doubtful note, farmers expressing belief that much cotton acreage was beyond aid. It was generally reported that pasturage was saved, while farmers were preparing to sow late hay and feed crops for the winter.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The full extent and seriousness of the drought situation in Kentucky were emphasized today when the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture made public a preliminary drought report based upon surveys of farm agents from 77 counties throughout the State.

Farmers in 65 of the 77 counties from which reports had been received have been forced to sell some or all of their live stock on account of the lack of water or feed, or both, the report said.

Reports of Cattle Sale.

Other statements showed that 40 per cent of the farmers in 50 counties have been compelled to sell hogs, 40 per cent of the farmers in 57 counties have sold all or part of their beef cattle, 25 per cent of the farmers in 48 counties have been forced to sell dairy cattle, 22 per cent of the farmers were forced to sell all or a part of their sheep and only 8 of the 77 counties have sufficient supply of small grain to meet fall seed requirements.

Inadequate credit facilities for farmers were reported in 74 of the 77 counties.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Rain last night and early today brought relief from the drought to sections of north central Mississippi but a light shower was all that Memphis got from the passing clouds.

West Point, Miss., reported the first "real rain" in 93 days in the prairie lime belt of Mississippi, and at Tupelo, Miss., an inch and a half of rain fell last night.

Dyersburg, Tenn., reported a seasonal rain over the week-end, but at Paris, Tenn., only a few drops fell.

ANNAPOLIS MAYOR SEEKS STATE POST

SEVERAL FIGHTS LOOM

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 18.—With midnight marking the deadline for candidates announcing for the Legislature and the several offices in Anne Arundel County, Mayor Walter E. Quemstedt of Annapolis sprang a surprise in this section by filing as a Republican candidate for the State Senate.

Reports have been in circulation for weeks that he would make this move, but until this morning he had denied the rumor. Simultaneously, William C. Coleman, who about two weeks ago had filed as a Republican candidate for the Senate from the Second District, withdrew and announced his candidacy for the county commission.

As the deadline neared, there was an eleventh-hour rush, which foreboded warm factional fights in both Democratic and Republican ranks for practically all posts at stake.

Petition Moves Likely.

Aside from those who filed to enter the primary election of September 8, it is not unlikely that a number of others will take the course of having their names placed on the official ballot at the November election by petition, believing that their chances in a primary battle are slim with "organization" forces arrayed against them, but they will muster sufficient votes in and out of their party, running independently.

A particular instance of this is the candidacy of Sergt. William Curry, of the city police department, who seeks the Democratic nomination for sheriff.

Curry was turned down cold by "organization" leaders and his friends already are organizing campaign committees in the several districts.

At all odds there will be a three-cornered fight for this nomination in the primaries. Organization leaders are backing R. Glenn Proult, of the Eighth District.

Perry Also Candidate.

T. Lee Perry, also from the Eighth, is a candidate, and the third aspirant is Stephen M. Smith, First District. The Democrats also will have factional contests on their hands for county commissionership nominations in all seven districts.

The local ticket of the Democratic organization will be headed by Ridgely P. Melvin, Annapolis lawyer. Frank S. Revel, Fifth District, recognized as Democratic leader, is a candidate for renomination as clerk of the circuit court, next most important post, and so far he has no opposition within the party. His Republican opponent in November will be Frank A. Monroe, retired merchant, of Annapolis, and indications point to the warmest fight that has been waged for that office in many years.

SWEENEY RITES SET.

Former Captal Resident Died After Accident at Beach.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Lake F. Sweeney, a former Washington resident, who was killed Sunday when he fell at Chesapeake Beach. He will be buried in Forestville, Md., after services at Ritchie's funeral parlor at Ritchie, Md.

The ceremonies will be at 2:30 o'clock. Sweeney was returning to his house when he fell, and the stump of a small sapling pierced the back of his skull. He was 65 years old.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

WITH 317 RESCUED, TAHITI SINKS IN SEA

Ventura Steams for Pago Pago With Passengers and Crew Aboard.

WILL CONTINUE TO U. S.

Wellington, New Zealand, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The British steamer Tahiti, which had been in distress three days, went down in the South Pacific today after her 317 occupants—passengers and crew—were safely aboard the American steamer Ventura.

The Ventura immediately headed for Pago Pago, the American naval base in Samoa, to discharge its island passengers. Then it will go to San Francisco, to land the Americans and Europeans.

After leaving Wellington for San Francisco, due there August 29, the Tahiti lost its starboard propeller and sprang a leak about 460 miles east of Rarotonga, Cook Islands. While the wireless sent out calls for aid and ships in those waters raced to the position, the large vessel drifted about 60 miles with a strong current before other ships came up.

Officers Loath to Leave.

The Penybryn, a Norwegian freighter, was the first to reach the disabled vessel, but passengers were not evacuated to it because of the limited accommodations, while no immediate danger threatened.

Today the Ventura, which had raced hundreds of miles to aid the Tahiti, arrived alongside at 9:30 a. m. (local time) just as a bulkhead gave way and the passengers began taking to lifeboats. The 175 passengers first were launched upon the heaving ocean, and although they were endangered in the heavy swell and by an approaching storm they were picked up by the Ventura without accident.

Meanwhile, the ship was listing badly, but the 142 officers and men remained aboard, pumping desperately to keep her afloat. Eventually they were forced to launch boats and go to the Ventura.

Little Mail Lost.

The mail aboard the Tahiti suffered somewhat. Six bags of letters were lost during the transfer to the Ventura and all newspapers and parcels went down. About 50 other bags were water-soaked but were saved.

When the Tahiti called for assistance, ships over the South Seas sped in her direction. The Penybryn was the first to arrive, and although the Tahiti's officers preferred to wait for the more commodious Ventura, the freighter stood valiantly by all night. Among others which headed for the stricken ship was the Antinous, of the United States Shipping Board.

Reports from the Tahiti early yesterday said that all aboard had taken to lifeboats before the arrival of either the Penybryn or Ventura, but later advices said an order to that effect had been countermanded. Wireless communication was difficult because of atmospheric interference.

CARL HANBACK RITES.

Funeral of Capital Man Who Died in Pittsburgh Set.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at his late residence, 3118 Rodman street northwest, for Carl D. Hanback, superintendent of field construction for the Putman Construction Co. of Washington, who died of a heart attack yesterday in the Argon Hotel in Pittsburgh where he was engaged in construction of a new theater.

Mr. Hanback was born in Warrenton, Va., in 1885, but had lived in Washington for the last 25 years, during which time he was engaged in fireproof construction work, specializing on theater buildings, in which field he was recognized as an expert.

Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery, where Masonic rites will be conducted following the services at the home. Mr. Hanback was a member of La Fayette Lodge, No. 19, of the order. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucy E. Hanback; a son, Bryant L. Hanback, and six brothers.

Britons Patiently Continue Vigil for Duchess of York

Beacon on Hill Ready, Also Plenty of Ale, While Home Secretary Cools Heels Near Glamis Castle, Waiting to Attest Birth.

Glamis, Scotland, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The good folk of the British Isles have concluded that royal babies, like the rubicund morsels which come to other people, are born when they are born and not before.

For two weeks they have waited breathlessly for the news that the Duchess of York, daughter-in-law of King George and Queen Mary, has presented Britain another heir presumptive to the throne.

J. R. Clynes, the home secretary, must officially attest the birth, and he has cooled his heels in Scotland for two weeks while awaiting the great event. He has taken frequent rides through the countryside, but has been careful to remain within call. So likewise has the Duke of York, who now and then goes out—but not far—to play golf.

For a fortnight, too, there has been erected high on Hunter's Hill a beacon that will blaze the news to the countryside as once word of peril was spread. A great heap of wood was piled there by peasants and villagers, and bits of it disappear with souvenir hunters daily.

At the foot of the hill lie great casks of ale, provided by the Earl of Strathmore, father of the duchess, for Glamis Castle retainers. It has not been tapped but many of the thirsty are hoping that the new baby appears soon.

Despite the waiting, however, there is no anxiety for the duchess. The birth is expected any day.

Suit for $11,500 Result of Crash

Autoist Says He and Wife Were Hurt in Collision on April 18.

Declaring that he and his wife had been injured in a collision between his automobile and one owned by Louise W. Miller, of 1205 Fifteenth street northwest, John Raines, of 113 Elm avenue, Takoma Park, Md., filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court, seeking to recover $11,500 damages. He seeks $10,000 for alleged personal injuries and the remainder for loss of his wife's services.

Raines declares that he and his wife were riding in his automobile April 18 last, when at Rhode Island avenue and Tenth street northwest, the defendnt's automobile crashed into his car. Negligence on the part of the defendant is alleged. Mr. Raines states that he suffered many injuries, including the loss of his little finger, and that his wife was incapacitated for some time. Attorneys J. Bond Smith and Lucius Q. C. Lamar appear for the plaintiff.

WOMEN AIR RACERS ARRIVE AT PHOENIX

Hollywood Entrant Fails to Put in Appearance From Calexico.

MRS. O'DONNELL IN LEAD

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Continuing their nip and tuck race for the lead in the national women's air derby, Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Calif., and Margery Doig, Danbury, Conn., finished the third lap of the Long Beach to Chicago flight here today separated by less than five minutes elapsed time.

While Mrs. O'Donnell completed the lap, which began in Calexico, Calif., first, she was followed 20 seconds later by Miss Doig, who gained 40 seconds during the flight. Mrs. O'Donnell's time from Calexico was one hour 24 minutes. The distance is approximately 180 miles.

Half an hour after Mrs. O'Donnell arrived, Jean La Rene, Kansas City, the third to arrive, set her plane down. She was followed half a minute later by Mildred Morgan, Beverly Hills, Calif., who started a minute ahead of Miss La Rene.

Ruth Stewart, of St. Louis, sweeped down at the airport 15 minutes later, Ruth Barron, of Hollywood, Calif., last to get away from Calexico because of motor trouble, had not landed at 5:15 p. m., nearly two hours and a half after the take-off.

B. F. Leenisch, race official, landed at that time. He said he waited until 20 minutes after Miss Barron took off, and hoped to follow her on the lap. He said he did not sight her between Calexico and here, but felt sure she traversed the desert without difficulty as he had clear vision over many miles on either side of the route across it.

Total elapsed times for the 400 miles of the race unofficially was compiled as follows:

Mrs. O'Donnell, 2:37:53; Miss Doig, 2:42:23; Miss La Rene, 3:32:37; Miss Morgan, 3:38:33; Miss Stewart, 4:29:49; Miss Barron, undetermined.

The fliers took off from San Diego, Calif., this morning, stopping at Calexico, 120 miles west, at noon. They reported good flying conditions over the route traveled so far, but complained of intense heat over the desert between Calexico and the Arizona border. Tomorrow's night halt will be made at Roswell, N. Mex.

NAVY BELOW PACT MAXIMUM URGED

Chairman French, of House Body, Says Japan Will Build Few Ships.

BRITISH FEELING CITED

(Associated Press.)

Chairman French of the House naval appropriations subcommittee said yesterday on his return from London that there was a strong sentiment in England and Japan against building up to the limits set by the London Naval Treaty.

He said Japan had decided upon a program involving only about one-third of the construction possible under the pact and urged a similar moderate policy for the United States and England.

"Many regard the treaty provisions as a maximum limitation and not as a mandate to build to capacity," he said, "there also is a feeling that if another conference is held in 1935 its accomplishments would be greater if the participating nations had not gone ahead with great construction programs in the intervening five years."

French said that if one nation initiated a maximum building program the others probably would follow.

French, an Idaho Republican, added that a maximum program for this country would cost about $1,800,000,000 in the next five years. He predicted the naval construction appropriation of the United States for the next fiscal year would be limited to funds for the replacement of destroyers and submarines and possibly for building one or two cruisers.

EVANS TAKES STUMP FOR CATHOLIC WET

under way and R. J. Bulkley, the successful aspirant for the Democratic senatorial nomination had advocated repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Senator Fess was enthusiastic about Republican chances to win on that issue.

"Let them do it and the Republican victory is assured before the campaign begins," Mr. Fess said in a statement given to Ohio newspapers when it was suggested that the Democrats might embrace the wet cause.

But after Mr. Fess became national chairman while on a visit to Cleveland last week, fresh from conferences with President Hoover and other party leaders, he issued a statement saying:

I do not believe that the prohibition question will be an issue in the fall campaign in Ohio or anywhere else."

Joseph R. Nutt, of Cleveland, national treasurer of the Republican party, who was with the senator at the time, concurred in the latter's statement.

Alleged Rival Is Shot At Hospital by Man

Oklahoma City, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Ed Martin, 62, was near death today from gunshot wounds inflicted by A. M. Harris, 48, while Martin was visiting Harris' estranged wife in a hospital here. RED CROSS EXPERTS TO DISCUSS DROUGHT Nutrition Group Will Hold Parley in Capital on Dry Spell Effects.

PUBLIC HEALTH IS TOPIC

The effect of the drought on food supplies and consequent influence on public health will be discussed by Red Cross nutritionists of the Eastern part of the United States in a ten-day conference at national Red Cross headquarters in Washington. The first session will open tomorrow.

At the same time nutritionists of Midwestern States will gather in St. Louis. Miss Clyde B. Schuman, national director of this service, will open the meetings here and will then go to St. Louis.

The Red Cross nutritionist is a community worker, employed by local Red Cross chapters to improve individual and community food habits. She works through schools, health departments and social service agencies.

The first session will open at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in the first aid room of the District chapter house on E street, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets. The conference will continue through Friday, August 29.

Prominent experts on nutrition are scheduled for talks throughout the meetings.

Capt. Page to Seek Thompson Trophy

Marine Corps Flier to Use 200-Mile-an-Hour Plane in Race.

(Associated Press.)

A Navy plane capable of attaining more than 200 miles an hour will be entered in the Thompson trophy free-for-all event at the Chicago national air races.

At the controls will be one of the sea service's foremost pilots—Capt. Arthur H. Page, of the Marine Corps, who won the Curtiss marine race in May by flying a seaplane an average of 164 miles an hour for 100 miles. The winner of last year's 10-mile Thompson race averaged 194 miles an hour.

The plane is a modification of a fighter built four years ago. It has been used in numerous experimental flights. Tests for the Chicago races were concluded Sunday on Long Island.

The Navy also will send to Chicago an 18-plane fighting squadron from the aircraft carriers Saratoga and Lexington while a twelve-plane Marine Corps Squadron from Quantico, Va., will represent that branch of the service.

Mrs. Joyce Tells Of Death Reports

Slain Senator's Widow Is Advised on Phone of Mate's Demise.

Chicago, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Telephone calls which told her of the purported death of her husband were related today by Mrs. J. T. Joyce to a coroner's jury investigating the death of her husband, State Senator John T. Joyce, found dead Saturday in his bed.

Joyce was to have appeared today before the grand jury to elaborate on his charges that armed squads of hoodlums toured his ward, the Forty-second, on the Gold coast, during the primary election, terrorizing voters.

Mrs. Joyce testified her husband retired Friday night about midnight and awakened her Saturday morning by his screams. She rushed to his bedroom, she said, but the senator had died.

Almost a score of phone messages had been received the previous night, she testified, all of which told her her husband had been shot and killed, but she paid no attention, she said, and did not tell Joyce when he came home.

Taxi Man Reported Missing.

Disappearance of Eugene C. Winters, 40 years old, of Ballston, Va., a Taxi driver for the Bell Cab Co., after last having been seen in the machine late Friday afternoon, was reported to Second Precinct police by the firm. Foul play is suspected, according to the report. The machine he used also is missing.

ENDURANCE PILOTS WILL FLY AT FAIRS

Total Earnings of Jackson and O'Brine $43,000, but They Complain.

CALL GAME PLAYED OUT

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, new holders of the world's airplane endurance record, tonight were preparing to cash in with a series of refueling demonstrations at State fairs.

The fliers landed at Lambert-St. L is Field yesterday after 647 hours 28 minutes and 30 seconds aloft in their monoplane, Greater St. Louis, and thus exceeded by 93 hours and 47 minutes the record of 553 hours established by the Hunter brothers, who landed at Chicago July 4.

Despite their complaints of a lack of financial interest in their achievement, indications point to a larger clean-up for Jackson and O'Brine this year than there was after their endurance flight last year, which netted them $37,000 and an airplane.

$30,500 for Five Appearances.

William Pickens, the fliers' manager, announced he had closed contracts totaling $30,500 for five appearances at fairs, the first to be Jackson-O'Brine day at the Missouri fair at Sedalia next Saturday.

This will be followed by appearances at the Iowa, Minnesota, Ohio and Indiana fairs.

In addition to these contracts, the fliers earned $8,800 while in the air and will have about $3,500 left from their public subscription flight fund, giving them total earnings of about $43,000.

Despite their manager's contract report, both fliers declared: "There is no money in endurance flying."

"St. Louis did as much for us as any city would have, but it seems that endurance flying is played out," O'Brine explained.

Differ on Cause of Landing.

The fliers and their manager differed as to the cause of the landing.

"It was time to come down and gather in some dough," Pickens said. "I guess some motor trouble developed, but they would have come down any way, so why hold an autopsy on a dead horse?"

"Oil was coming out of the breather pipes, spraying our windows and getting into the magneto," O'Brine said. "We could have continued, but it would have been inconvenient to go on. So I brought the ship down."

No demonstrations or public receptions were planned for the fliers. After their flight last year, they were honored by the city and Chamber of Commerce by a parade and luncheon.

Army Will Retire Three Generals

Promotions by President to Fill Vacancies in Next Few Weeks.

Retirement of three generals of the Army will be effected at the end of this month and their vacancies will be filled by President Hoover by promotion of field officers in the next few weeks.

They are Maj. Gen. Henry D. Todd, recently in command of the Coast Artillery School and district at Fort Monroe, Va.; Brig. Gen. William W. Harts, military attache of the United States Embassy at Paris, and Brig. Gen. Golden L. H. Ruggles, assistant chief of ordnance, War Department.

Each of the officers served with distinction in the World War and was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal by this country and decorations by foreign nations. Gens. Todd and Harts are retired automatically because of age, while Gen. Ruggles is to be retired on his own application after 44 years' service.

Police Raid Cigar Store On Charges of Gaming

Ten men were in the cigar store on Tenth street northwest near D when it was raided yesterday by headquarters detectives on charges that bets were being placed in the establishment. Only one man was arrested, however, and the others were allowed to leave the place.

Harry C. Manning, 39 years old, of Longfellow street near Ninth street northwest, was charged with permitting gaming.

$173,002 Is Street Extension Verdict

Albermarle, River Road and Thirty-Ninth Street Jury Files Report.

If the verdict of a condemnation jury is confirmed it will cost the District $173,002.84 for the proposed extension of Albemarle and Thirty-ninth streets and River road northwest. The jury made its report yesterday to Justice William Hitz in District Supreme Court.

The land necessary for the improvement was estimated by the jury to be worth $232,003.96, which, with costs of proceedings, brought the total cost to $235,455.24. Benefits totaling $62,452.40 were assessed against adjacent pieces of property.

J. Franklin Page, F. G. Offenbacher, Samuel C. Gross, Samuel C. Redmon and Appleton P. Clark, jr., composed the jury.

Woman, 75, Injured When Struck by Auto

A 75-year-old woman was seriously injured yesterday when she was struck by an automobile which is said to have been backing out of an alley on F street northwest near Tenth street. The woman, Mrs. Annie Owens, of Arlington, Va., was taken to Emergency Hospital, where it was said that she was suffering from bruises and shock.

The driver of the car, Harry A. Wood, colored, 57 years old, of Brentwood, Md., was arrested by Private R. A. Walker, of the Traffic Bureau and taken to the First Precinct. He is being held pending the outcome of the woman's injuries.

Three Women Held in Raid.

Three colored women were arrested on charges of operating a numbers game in a raid by Eighth Precinct police yesterday morning on a Ninth street house near V street northwest. They gave their names as Marion Starks, 33 years old; Ameriza Fountain, 23 years old, and Addie Harris, 43 years old. Numbers slips and $1.31 in cash were reported seized.

Strong Spirits Bring Strong to Punishment

A strong case was made out against Harry Strong, Negro, in Police Court yesterday.

Strong was arraigned on a charge of intoxication and, when questioned by Judge Gus A. Schuldt as to what he had been drinking, said "Strong liquor."

"That makes a strong case against you," said the judge, "and we will see if you are strong enough to dig up $10 to pay your fine."

Strong, however, was not so strong, and will have to spend his strength in jail unless his friends or relatives come to his rescue.

LOOT WORTH $5,982 TAKEN FROM STORE

Robbers Use Packing Case to Carry Goods Away From Gaffin's.

OTHER THEFTS REPORTED

By far the largest of the week-end series of robberies was reported to police yesterday by S. B. Gaffin, proprietor of a clothing store at 929 G street northwest, who said that garments valued at $5,982 had been stolen from his shop since Saturday.

The store was almost completely cleaned out. Only the show window was left untouched, and a few cheap dresses and hats had been left behind by the thieves. The loot included 50 hats, 100 coats and about 300 dresses.

Enter Through Basement.

The robbers apparently entered through a basement door. A large packing case was missing, and it is thought that the clothes were packed into that and carried through the front door, to be taken away in an automobile. A sum of money in the cash register had not been molested.

Gaffin said that he would immediately order a new stock from New York by express. "You have to expect something like this every so often in business," he said. "But the drought has nothing on this."

Annie B. Hart, of 1015 Sixth street southwest, told authorities that some one had stolen from a trunk at that address, a diamond ring valued at $125. The theft has occurred in the last two months, she said, though it was discovered only yesterday. She gave the police the name of a man whom she suspects.

Bowling Alleys Robbed.

Breaking glass out of a side window at the Coliseum Bowling Alleys, over Center Market, thieves entered and stole $50 worth of cigars, Harry B. Bailey, the manager, said yesterday. From the stand of Fritz H. Weisman in the market below, about the same time, 15 pounds of boiled ham were taken. The meat was valued at $5.

The Robert Brookings School, at 1724 I street northwest was entered and $20 was stolen from a desk drawer. Entrance was gained by the use of a duplicate key.

The cash register of the store at 912 New Hampshire avenue was robbed of $20 by thieves who also took $1 in change from a pair of trousers hanging in the rear of the store. The report was made to police by Mrs. Annie Kolken, proprietor of the store.

Bridegroom Kills Self During Quiz by Police

Kansas City, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—James Kelly shot and killed himself in a hotel suite while being questioned today by detectives in connection with the alleged theft of a motor car in Wichita, Kans., and impersonation of a Federal officer.

Walking to a corner of a room in the suite, he and his bride of less than a week had engaged last Friday, he drew a revolver from his pocket and shot himself in the chest.

"Well, I've done a good job this time," he said, before he died.

Body of Slayer Found; Suicide Theory Upset

Dequeen, Ark., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The body of Ernest Arnold, 26, who early today shot and killed his estranged wife's grandfather, John Smith, 75, and probably fatally wounded her, was found this afternoon in a dry creek bed about 100 yards from the Smith home. A shotgun charge killed him.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide. Later, however, Sheriff Roy Hooper found a shotgun fully loaded and the trigger cocked 25 feet from where Arnold's body was found. This caused authorities to doubt that he killed himself.

Woman Asks $20,000 Charging Auto Injuries

Lula B. Burchell, of 1300 C street northeast, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against John P. Young, of 2034 I street northwest, seeking to recover $20,000 damages for alleged personal injuries said to have been suffered April 7 in an automobile accident.

The woman, through Attorney Harlan Wood, tells the court that she was riding with her son in an automobile near Gum Springs, Va., on the date in question when she espied some friends in a car passing in the opposite direction. Both vehicles stopped several hundred feet apart, she states, and she alighted for the purpose of conversing with her friends. While walking across the highway, she asserts, she was struck down by the defendant's automobile. Negligence on the part of the defendant is charged.

Three Burn to Death After Automobile Crash

Veedersburg, Ind., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Two young women and a young man were burned to death when an automobile caught fire after colliding with a tree along a highway 4 miles south of here early today. The dead are Julia May Eckhart, 19, of Buck Creek; Opal Heinlach, 19, of Frankfort, and Blazee Metzger, of Lafayette.

Truman Cline, of Camden, a fourth passenger in the car, was severely burned and is in a critical condition. The accident occurred while the party was returning home from a trip to Nashville, Tenn.

Man Stabbed in Affray.

Rennick Calhoun, colored, 19 years old, was stabbed yesterday in a fight in an alley near Thirteenth and H streets northwest. At Emergency Hospital, where he was treated, it was said that his condition was not serious, though he had been stabbed in the back. His assailant, also colored, escaped.

SLAYER OF THREE DRAWS LIFE TERM

W. R. Carver Is Sentenced for Killing Wife, Son and Servant.

CLAIMS HE IS INNOCENT

Sebring, Fla., Aug 18 (A.P.).—William Raymond Carver, former Philadelphia real estate operator, convicted last May on a charge of first degree murder for the death of his wife, was sentenced to life imprisonment today by Circuit Judge W. J. Barker.

Judge Barker ordered Carver returned to the county jail to await a decision on an application for a writ of habeas corpus which W. D. Bell, chief defense counsel, said he would make to the State Supreme Court within the next few days.

Carver, also under indictment for the hatchet slaying of his 2-year-old son, Lee Townsend Carver, and the fatal shooting of Ben Whitehead, Negro servant, has been held in jail here since his conviction last May on a charge of killing his wife. The triple slaying occurred at the Carver home on April 2 last.

Graduate of University.

The convicted man is a University of Pennsylvania graduate and a World War veteran.

Asked by Judge Barker if he had anything to say before sentence was imposed, Carver replied:

"Yes, sir. This sentence should not be pronounced. I swear before God and man that I am not guilty of this hideous crime."

"Well," replied the judge, "the jury was the one to consider that, and inasmuch as both the jury and the Court have judged you guilty, the case now is out of the hands of this court."

Few Hear Sentence Passed.

Only a few courthouse employes, officials and newspapermen were present when the sentence was imposed.

At Carver's trial, the State attempted to prove he killed his wife for a $10,000 double indemnity life insurance policy and then slew his infant son and the Negro servant in an effort to have it appear that Whitehead committed the crimes.

The defense contended that Whitehead was shot by Carver after the Negro had hacked Mrs. Carver and her son to death with a hatchet while robbing the home.

U. S. Starts Quiz In Plane Bombing

Federal Judge Gives Order to Prosecutor to Act in Case.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—A definite move on the part of the Federal Government to assume charge of prosecuting those involved in the Providence (Ky.) airplane bombing was made today by Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson. He ordered District Attorney Thomas J. Sparks to begin an immediate investigation.

After receiving his instructions in court today, District Attorney Sparks said that he would ask the Department of Justice office at Cincinnati to assign a special investigator to the case. He called attention to a Federal statue that forbids transportation of explosives from one State to another for unlawful purposes, providing a maximum punishment of $10,000 fine, ten years' imprisonment, or both.

Two more men, Carroll Vaughn and Angus Merritt, were arrested in Webster County today, bringing the total arrests in the bombing case to eight. In addition to Montgomery and Malone, others charged are Essel Grant, Harvey Davis, James Harvey and Ewing Riley, all of Webster County.

Peshawar Front Still Regarded as Serious

London, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—An official communique on the Indian situation during the week ended August 16, issued by the viceroy's government and made public here by the India office, reports the situation in the northwest frontier province is still grave.

Detachments of the main force of the Afridi tribesmen remain at varying strength in the Peshawar district. Numerous large bands lie concealed in the thickly wooded belt south and southwest of Peshawar and among the ravines to the east. British troops find it difficult to find and punish them and they are a constant source of trouble.

"These gangs undoubtedly are receiving shelter and food and some active assistance from the villages in the Peshawar neighborhood," says the government statement.

The main body of the Afridi in the vicinity of Khajuri plain has decreased in number, but other tribes to the north and south of Peshawar present potential dangers. The agitators employed by the Indian Nationalist congress are making strenuous efforts to arouse the tribesmen of the Kohat district.

Although the government statement does not say so, unofficial advices indicate that Peshawar is virtually ringed about by detachments of hostile tribesmen.

Dyer Act Plane Sentence Upheld

Court Rules Transportation of Stolen Aircraft Violates Measure.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today held interstate transportation of a stolen airplane constitutes violation of the Dyer act hitherto applied only to automobile thefts.

Federal officials said it was the first such construction placed on the Dyer act by the Court of Appeals. The opinion was written by Judge Orie L. Phillips, of New Mexico, and concurred in by Judge George T. McDermott, of Kansas. Judge John H. Cotteral, of Oklahoma, dissented. The decision upheld the western Oklahoma Federal district court in the case of William M. McBoyle, sentenced to three years' imprisonment and fined $2,000.

Boy Is Injured by Auto.

Darting out onto the pavement in front of his home at 1138 Twenty-first street northwest, 9-year-old John Taper, colored, was severely injured about the head last night when he was struck by an automobile operated by John B. Dillion, 65 years old, of Columbus, Ohio. Dillion took the youth to Emergency Hospital, where his condition was reported as serious. Third Precinct police said the accident was unavoidable.

Optometrists Honor Dr. Silver

Dr. Edward H. Silver, of 1416 G street northwest, has been appointed as chairman of the National Advisory Commission on Vision for Motor Drivers. The Motor Vision Commission was organized by the American Optometric Association to cooperate with the National Street and Highway Safety Conferences which were inaugurated by President Hoover during his incumbency as Secretary of Commerce.

FLORIDA PLOT HELD 'BID FOR PUBLICITY'

Accused Editor Freed on Bond, Denies Planning Governor's Death.

BAIL IS FIXED AT $500

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Charges and counter-charges reverberated today as an aftermath of the arrest of three men in connection with a reputed plot to assassinate Gov. Doyle E. Carlton, of Florida.

Fred O. Eberhardt, publisher and editor of the Tallahassee State News; Frank Ralls, former political campaigner for Carlton, and Henry Halsema, Jacksonville real estate operator, were named in a warrant charging conspiracy to procure the assassination. They were arrested here Saturday night.

Before leaving his cell after posting $500 bond on the charge which is a misdemeanor in this State, Eberhardt declared the arrests "part of a political plot." The publisher, who has waged a continuous and bitter editorial campaign against the Carlton administration, termed the case "just a cheap bid for publicity."

Meanwhile Sheriff W. B. Cahoon, whose deputy, C. E. Hooks, swore to the warrant accusing the three men, remained silent about details of the reputed plot. The warrant charged that the trio "with divers other persons whose names are unknown," plotted to hire a gunman to kill the governor. While admitting that the investigation was going forward the sheriff said he expected no more arrests immediately.

Justice of the Peace J. C. Madison, before whom the warrant was sworn, set the preliminary hearing for next Monday. He fixed the bonds at $ each. Halsema and Eberhardt made bond immediately. Ralls remained in jail until tonight.

Death of Two Blamed On Ship's Paint Fumes

San Pedro, Calif., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Chemical reaction between fresh paint and the sides of the hold of the British tanker Tascalusa was believed by police to have caused gas fumes that killed two workmen and affected thirteen others.

The dead are Gudalupe Escalanti and J. Montoya. Three others dragged unconscious from the hold and the other ten men were taken to a hospital. The Tascalusa was docked at the Bethlehem Ship Yards for interior cleaning and painting. Joseph Belentano, foreman of the painting crew, said the paint used was of a kind commonly employed for ships' tanks. He reported also that blower fans were operating to draw fresh air through six ventilating ports.

HOSPITAL HEAD GETS CALL IN SWIFT QUIZ

Nurses and Detectives Also Subpenaed for Today's Suicide Inquiry.

PACKER TO SAIL FOR U. S.

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—In an effort to learn more of circumstances surrounding the suicide of William E. Swift, sno of the Chicago meat packer, Chief Medical Examiner Charles Norris today subpenaed Dr. Edward S. Cowles, head of the sanitarium where Swift shot himself, for questioning tomorrow.

Rudolph Heitmanek, nurse assigned to wacth swift, two detectives who investigated the case, Assistant Medical Examiner Fischer, and Miss Engle, chief nurse at the hospital, also were summoned. Dr. Norris said he wanted to learn whether Dr. Cowles knew swift had the weapon, whether it was smuggled into the hsopital and why Swift was permittted to possess it.

A second autopsy was performed today on Swift's body. As soon as it was completed Alden Swift, a brother, took the body back to Chicago for funeral services and burial tomorrow.

Swift killed himself Saturday night in a Park avenue sanitarium with an antiquated revolver. The gun had been in his possession, and an attendant had been instructed to get it as soon as Swift went to sleep. As the attendant sat by the bed, Swift suddenly pulled the revolver from a shoulder holster and shot himself through the head.

Swift, who was 35 years old, had been a patient in the sanitarium for eight months, but was allowed entire freedom, going in and out as he liked. Mrs. Swift suffered a nervous breakdown and was in Johns Hopkins Hospital, in Baltimore, when her husband died. She was not told. Their 5-year-old son is with an aunt at Lake Forest, Ill.

Dr. Norris did not announce why he decided on a second autopsy or why he considered an investigation necessary. He took this action shortly after Alden Swift said he had no complaint to make against any one at the sanitarium and indicated the Swift family saw no reason for any further inquiry.

Louis F. Swift, father of the suicide, was notified by cable at Deauville, France, of his son's death and cabled back to Alden Swift his approval of funeral arrangements. The father is sailing for home tomorrow.

SHOUSE FLINGS TARIFF CLAIM BACK IN TEETH OF REPUBLICANS

"It implies either that he had no opinions of his own or that he was so deficient in leadership that he permitted his congressional leaders to override him."

The President's speeches during the 1928 campaign stressed the prosperity of the two preceding Republican administrations, Mr. Shouse said, and pledged continuance of this prosperity if Mr. Hoover were elected.

Soup Kitchens Instead.

"And yet," he continued, "within nine months after Mr. Hoover became President, we witnessed the amazing spectacle of soup kitchens and bread lines in practically every great city of this country, and a degree of unemployment and of distress that has not been known for more than 30 years."

Mr. Shouse said that he did not entirely blame the President for the cause of the "Hoover panic," but that the Republican party hould in justice assume responsibility for present depressed conditions, in view of the fact that the Republicans claimed credit for prior conditions of prosperity.

"It is now a little more than 17 months since Mr. Hoover has been elected," Mr. Shouse said. "He has not lacked opportunity, with his party in complete control of the legislative branch of the Government; he has not lacked time, for Congress has been in session for 15 months continuously, and yet what do we witness in America today, after this trial period of the Great Engineer in Government?

Farmers Held Desperate.

"Business depression that has not been approached since 1907; unemployment that finds no counterpart in 30 years; anxiety and distress and absolute want such as the country did not face in the panics of the nineties; fear in the hearts of the masses; hopelessness on the part of farmers that amounts to absolute desperation; the hatred of other nations because of our selfish economic policy that will influence them to buy nothing from us that they can buy elsewhere."

In replying to Mr. Shouse through the Republican national committee, Mr. Tilson said: "Save for this abuse and criticism, this spokesman of John the Democratic organization, stood before the microphone empty handad."

He charged Mr. Shouse with failing to offer a definite program of relief from any of the evils blamed on the Republican party. "If the Democrats have a constructive program in the congressional campaign," he added, "why did not Mr. Shouse present it?

"Instead of offering a constructive program as his listeners had every right to expect him to do at this time, he presented the regrettable spectacle of at least verbal leader of a political party gloating over the economic distress of the country."

Mr. Tilson warmly defended the tariff, especially the flexible provision under which the President may adjust rates that appear ill advised, and attributed the present period of depression to the workings of economic laws with world-wide effects.

In conclusion, he predicted continued success for the Republican party, despite "obstructive tactics of the Democrats under the leadership of Mr. John J. Raskob."

King Abroad, Hebert Points Out.

The Raskob issue, of which so much was heard during the 1928 campaign, was also touched on by Senator Hebert in his reply to Senators King and Connally. He said that since Mr. King was abroad during the months the Democrats in the Senate deliberately delayed the tariff measure, and "thus contributed to business uncertainty and unemployment," the Utah leader could have no definite knowledge of tariff rates that were pending.

Mr. Hebert accused Senator Connally of being "about as high a protectionist as there was in the Senate."

If the Texan had had his way, Senator Hebert said, he would have placed a duty on petroleum, gasoline and other products that the Republicans succeeded in keeping on the free list.

Air Collision Kills Two at Kelly Field

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Two students of the advanced flying school Kelly Field, were killed in an aerial collision at an altitude of 200 feet during attack maneuvers near Von Ormy today.

The men killed were Donald Dewitt Campbell, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs George C. Campbell, of Anadarko, Okla., and Cadet Robert Lee Scott 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Scott, of Bethany, Ill.

A corps of detectives competed with anxious gangsters today in the search for the Zuta holdings still unfound but believed to rest in secret niches somewhere in the city. Authorities said they have information that two trunks containing ledgers and a $250,000 emergency fund were hidden by Zuta before his death. Authorities also sought to locate a number of persons and offices named in the papers already impounded.

Drought—Water —Pumps!

TODAY'S vital problem is water and how to get it.

Anxious farmers and dairymen are conserving every drop of available water. Many cities and towns prohibit its use except for the most necessary purposes.

We can help relieve your situation with a

Deep Drilled Well

which is much less affected than surface supplies. Towns and individuals who pump their water supply from deep wells are the least troubled by drought.

We also carry a large stock of standard grade Pumps of every kind to draw water from springs, streams, shallow and deep wells.

"YOU COULD NEVER SWITCH ME TO ANOTHER OIL SINCE I LEARNED HOW CONOCO PERFORMED IN THOSE PIKE'S PEAK AND RACING TESTS"

The story of Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil, as told in the advertising, and proven on Pike's Peak, at the Indianapolis Speedway and Altoona Flag Day races, has paralleled the story which this oil has been telling in hundreds of thousands of motors.

Conoco's original announcement stated that the virtues of the Germ Process were so radically different from any other refining method, that this lubricant would outperform other popular and nationally known American motor oils. You were told that the metal-penetrative safety factor of this oil was so vital that the film in the "pores" of the motor metal would protect your engine in emergencies where other oils have failed.

Well, it has all been proven in the past 8 months. In addition to sensational achievements on Pike's Peak and at the Indianapolis and Altoona races, scores of satisfactory tests have been made on private cars by enthusiastic users. Now that summer heat is here to intensify and increase motor heat, remember that one of Conoco Germ-Processed oil's outstanding characteristics is heat resistance.

We invite you to begin using this first really new oil today. Just say "Germ-Processed" .... at the Sign of the Conoco Red Triangle.

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

CONTEST BOARD AAA CERTIFIED TEST

Following the Pike's Peak Tests, where Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil was tested side by side with three other popular, nationally known oils, the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association issued Certificate of Performance No. 2268, comprising 14 points, of which the point below is one.

POINT NO. 2

"That a reduction in the rate of wear occurring during the use of CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil over that occurring with the other oils used to the extent of 76.4 per cent was shown during these tests."

LAWYERS CRITICIZED AT BAR CONFERENCE

Profession Put on Low Level for 19 Centuries, Says Minnesota Justice.

CONVICT AID IS URGED

Chicago, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Kind words for prison inmates and harsh ones for lawyers were spoken today at preliminary conferences of the American Bar Association, which formally opens its 1930 convention Wednesday.

The kind words were spoken by Attorney General Percy Saint, of Louisiana, who ventured the belief that the prison population could be reduced 25 to 30 per cent under the parole law, and that it would be for the good of society.

Known during his first two years on the Louisiana pardon board as its most "hard-boiled" member, Mr. Saint observed that experience had modified his views.

Hard Labor Believed In.

"I still believe that hardened criminals should be segregated and kept at hard labor in prisons," he told the national conference of State attorneys general, "but there are others who had to be sentenced according to the law who could be released to the benefit of society."

He proposed that pardon and parole boards be combined into single boards of clemency and that these boards be instructed to investigate the character of accused men and the circumstances of their crimes in order to learn if they are genuine criminals.

At another group meeting, by attorneys seeking a closer union of bar associations, the harsh words were spoken by Justice Royal A. Stone, of the Minnesota Supreme Court. He told of attending a play where the audience showed audible approval of a character's declaration that: "If I had a son preparing to be a lawyer, I'd kill him."

Profession Put in Low Plane.

"It wasn't the actor's saying this that disturbed me particularly," Justice Stone said. "It was the marked approval of the audience around me that bothered. No profession is put on a lower plane than ours. There have been nineteen centuries of constant criticism, with no real effort at counter-propaganda."

The result, he said, has been that other professions have capitalized on the criticism, causing much business once handled by lawyers, to go to banks and trust officers.

"The answer," he concluded, "is intensive, efficient local bar associations. Let us put our profession so high in ethics and efficiency that no other can equal it."

Trio Saved as Launch Is Swamped in Sound

Northport, N. Y., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—A man and two women were rescued from the motor launch Ann How in Long Island Sound last night after their craft had sprung a leak and swamped.

The three, George W. Eiseman, Hicksville automobile dealer; his wife and a sister-in-law, were taken aboard a sailboat and were landed at Manhassett early today. A Coast Guard patrol boat came across the Ann How this morning half-submerged off the coast, and clothing found on board led officers to believe its three passengers had been drowned.

Passing of Chivalry For Women Decried

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The first woman ever to be accepted as a member of the American Bar Association today vowed that "If I had a daughter I'd raise her to be a clinging vine."

The speaker was Miss Mary Lathrope, of Denver, and she told newspapermen:

"Women have gained rights, but they have lost privileges. They receive no more courtesy and chivalry. Personally, I'm rather tired of rights. I'd love to have a few privileges."

OKLAHOMA GUSHER PUT UNDER CONTROL

Cement Halts Flow of Oil and Gas After Fight of 25 Hours.

CURB TEST SUIT ASKED

Oklahoma City, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The latest wild oil well to shower Oklahoma City's south suburbs with petroleum, thereby creating a serious fire hazard, was placed under control today after it had gushed unbridled for 25 hours.

Cement pumped into the well, known as the C. C. Julian Oil & Royalty Co.'s No. 2 Houser, stopped the flow of oil and gas. The cement was forced into the hole under high pressure.

The gusher developed a cellar leak Sunday, oil and gas from between the 6 and 9 inch casings escaping in clouds which rolled close to the ground, enveloping nearby dwellings and small business houses.

Families in the imperiled area fled their homes, a fire guard maintained a constant vigil, others producing nearby were stilled, and traffic was shunted off a paved highway near the well. The escaping vapor, unlike that from the wild Mary Sudik, and other rampant gushers of the past, did not blow high into the air but lingered in the vicinity, hanging low and adding to fire dangers.

The oil flow was 200 barrels an hour. Gas was estimated at 50,000 cubic feet daily.

C. C. Julian, owner of the rampant gusher, for several days has been at odds with other operators in the local pool over conservation questions. Advised that the attorney general's office plans legal action to compel him to obey the State corporation commission's proration order or place his company in receivership, the oil man, a newcomer to the field, invited a test suit and declared his company had no intnetion of entering into a curtailment agreement.

Four Die, 42 Injured In German Train Crash

MARSHALL FIELD 3D WEDS NOTED BEAUTY

Both Civil and Religious Ceremonies Take Place in Quick Order.

FEW FRIENDS PRESENT

London, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Marshall Field 3d, of Chicago, whose grandfather founded one of America's greatest retail mercantile enterprises, and Mrs. Dudley Coats, heiress through her soldier-husband's death to one of the many fortunes built by the great English thread manufacturing concern of that name, were married here today. Both civil and religious ceremonies were performed before most of their society acquaintances were aware the impending nuptials had taken place.

With his intended bride, the beautiful and popular friend of the Prince of Wales and other royalty, the young Chicagoan early today motored to the marriage registry at Marylebone.

Eluding newspapermen after a hurried civil union, the couple proceeded to the ancient church of St. Ethelburga the Virgin in the old Roman section of London, where a religious ceremony took place shortly after noon.

Two Ceremonies Brief.

The two ceremonies, each principally conspicuous for its brevity, lasted together not more than twenty minutes, in strong contrast with the scene of magnificence in which the bride was wedded in 1922 to Capt. Coats, an officer of the Scots Guards and a conspicuous figure in London's social life.

Only half a dozen friends attended the wedding. Among them were William Rollo, Mrs. Alexander Faucus, Mrs. Margaret Brassey and Edward F. J. James, youngest brother of the bride, who before her first marriage was Miss Audrey James, daughter of Mrs. William James, a prominent London hostess.

In the official record Marshall Field gave his age as 36 and his bride's was entered as 28. Her husband of the previous union was 29 when he died at Cannes, France, in 1927.

Bride's Costume Blue.

The bride wore a blue costume of georgette with a blue hat and navy suede shoes. Mr. Field lured the newspaper photographers away from his bride after the civil ceremony while Mrs. Field sped away in a motor car.

On the steps of the church, however, when the religious ceremony had been completed, the beautiful Mrs. Field restrained her husband while they posed for many photographs. Most of their honeymoon will be spent on the continent, and their journeys will be made largely by air. Mr. Field recently having shipped his personal plane from the United States for the purpose.

After several months, probably in midwinter, the couple will take up residence in Chicago.

32 India Mill Hands Drown as Boat Upsets

Calcutta, India, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Thirty-two jute mill workers were drowned and 22 others rescued by a launch when a ferry boat in which they were crossing the Mugli River, western arm of the Ganges, was caught in a strong tidal current and capsized.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

IT just goes to show the disadvantage of being first with the news.

The new week was blasted open by the afternoon press yesterday with lengthy comment upon the impasse that seems to have been reached in the negotiations between the Washington motion picture theater owners and the musicians' union, whic' will result, if things are allowed to stand as they are at present, in the abolition of orchestras and stage shows on August 29.

In view of the dearth of other news of importance this early-week, it is a source of some inconvenience that all that contract controversy should have been published in this column last Saturday morning, slightly more than two days ahead of that dear, dilatory, old front page!

But then, there are always the current attractions to fall back on. "Dixiana," for example, probably will be as much talked about as any light muical screen diversion that has been presented locally in many long months—and for various reasons. Some there are, of course, who will think it is not so hot because it violates practically all of the rules of good picture making. It is my own private belief that it violates at least that many, if one is to base his judgment wholly on strict adherence to the mechanical perfection of screen dramaturgy and technic. On the other hand, it is my equally emphatic conviction that the Anne Caldwell-Harry Tierney confection is one of the greatest ENTERTAINMENTS that have come along.

If it were viewed on the stage as a musical comedy with its present cast and production, it would be ranked way up at the top along with Ziegfeld' best. Or so it seems to me.

And if you think "Common Clay" is not packing them in at the Fox, try and find a seat. If this keeps up the way it has started, a second week, by all the rules of past custom and good showmanship, will be inevitable.

But don't take my word for it, because they might yank it anyhow, and I'd hate to be the cause of your missing so fascinating a symposium of social errors!

Having been snatched from a hot suburban sidewalk and driven downtown in the family surrey by Dick Leibert, a compassionate and thoughtful neighbor, I now find it possible to reply to many queries to which I have not heretofore known the answers.

Yes, Dick originates and writes—even to the rhyming—all of the organlogues and piano specialties with which he rolls the customers in the aisles and piles them up in the promenades. His ability to move large crowds to song is not accidental, but is based upon an intelligent study and deft application of mass psychology. Dick's method of appeal is as carefully thought out and as specific in effect as a doctor's prescription.

Yes, his previous engagement as organist at the Palace ended almost exactly three years ago, in the late summer of 1927.

Yes, his present engagement as guest-organist at the Palace terminates tomorrow, on a split week, in time to open with the new bill on Friday.

Yes, other things being equal, it is expected that he will play an early return engagement as guest-organist at the same theater.

Yes, he certainly can play that melodeon!

order that he may reach Cleveland in

As I have remarked before, dancing up and down a flight of steps is not so new a terpsichorean creation as many of the hip-flask and rumble-seat generation seem to think, my first recollection of this particular device for inspiring audience ahs and ohs having been offered on the old Kohl and Castle circuit out in Chicago shortly after the fire—the town was just getting cool, as I recall it—by Al Leech and the Three Rosebuds, a standard vaudeville dancing act, but never have I seen any one who could execute this tricky routine with such unerring precision and flawless tempo as Bill Robinson, the sepia hoofer in "Dixiana," at RKO-Keith's.

While I do not agree with Mr. Sheilds that "Bill makes the show," he sho' makes a lot of other dancers look foolish when it comes to pickin' 'em up and layin' 'em down.

Of all the queer pets in John Barrymores aviary a vulture is the oddest. It is tame and answers to the name of "Maloney." They tell me it likes to untie onlookers' shoe laces, pull them out and walk away with them. Smart bird.

It probably has heard how most of the present-day movie magnates got their start!

Pursuing a thought once expounded here relative to limited acquaintanceship among members of the film colony, Lillian Rich and Irene Rich have been in pictures for a number of years both in this country and in England and both have been on the stage, but they have never met. Not that it matters.

Not so many years ago one of the screen's most popular stars of Westerns was Roy Stewart. You will see him this week at the Fox in the tiny role of the raiding cop in "Common Clay." Tst, tst, tst!

If you must know, those Tom Thumb coumes you hear so much about originated in a certain restaurant I could name, but won't!

Tear Bombs Used To Subdue Slayer

Chicago Police Vainly Use Machine-Guns Against Barricaded Man.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Hundreds of passersby on busy West Madison street looked on today while a dozen policemen poured pistol and machine-gun fire into a combination restaurant-saloon in a futile effort to rout a vagrant who had slain the proprietor during an argument. Tear bombs finally brought out the slayer, who gave his name as George Hoffman, a Mexican. His victim was Isaac Protkin.

Witnesses said the men had argued and that Hoffman had suddenly drawn a pistol and shot Protkin through the head. The patrons fled and called police, while Hoffman barricaded himself in a rear room.

Two other men who, like Hoffman, appeared to be part of the motley crowd that gives West Madison street its sobriquet of "street of forgotten men," were also brought from the place, blinded by the gas.

POTOMAC POLLUTION.

With the completion of the Chevy Chase sewerage system the pollution of Rock Creek was lessened considerably. The pipe line extends as far as Chevy Chase Lake and is connected with a special line of the District system, which carries the sewage through the city and into the Potomac. The village of Kensington is now the only nearby community that dumps its sewage into Rock Creek Park, but plans are under way to extend the new system to Kensington, whereupon there would be no further pollution of Rock Creek.

The polluted condition of Rock Creek has long been a cause of concern. It is by no means uncertain that cases of disease have not been contracted from this stream that flows through the city's most beautiful and popular public park. The clean-up of Rock Creek, however, promises to increase the pollution of the Potomac. The material that was dumped into the creek lost its evil nature through the process of aeration as it was carried forward to the Potomac; now it is dumped directly into the river, where its presence will create an additional menace to those who dwell on the Potomac banks or who swim in or boat upon its surface.

The last general pollution survey of the Potomac was made in 1925, at which time the river was branded as unfit for bathing. The worst situation was found to be below Long Bridge, although the report pointed out that the river above the bridge was by no means clean. There is no doubt that conditions that obtained in 1925 have become worse in the intervening years, and it is for the purpose of finding out definitely whether or not the waters of the Potomac have come to be an actual menace that the District government and the Park and Planning Commission have requested the Public Health Service to make a comprehensive survey of the entire sewerage system in the metropolitan area. The survey is designed to provide answers to the questions: To what extent is the river polluted; does the pollution constitute a menace to health; can the river be freed of pollution and how?

The story of the pollution of the Potomac is essentially a familiar story to every city situated on the banks of a river or other body of water. A New York newspaper, for example, said recently: "The spectacle of the largest and richest city in the world complacently resting in what amounts to an open sewer, calmly surrounding itself with oil refuse, garbage, floating trash and sewage which has defeated even the sun's great powers of purification, is one which is both tragic and disgraceful."

Everywhere in the vicinity of cities the waters have been polluted, partly as a result of public apathy, but largely because of the difficulties and expense attending the satisfactory disposal of sewage. It is easy and comparatively inexpensive to dump sewage into streams and, when population was small, the natural action of the sun and air carried through the purification process. It is expensive to build sewage disposal plants in which fire and chemicals are the catalytic agents. But the time has come when the American city must handle its sewage otherwise than by dumping it into the nearest waters. Washington should take the lead in this movement for health and decency.

FEMININE EQUALITY.

What is the legal status of women? In these modern times anything that distinguishes the female from the male sex smacks of discrimination, and, of course, can not be tolerated. The feminists are out after a legal status, and the mossback might just as well compromise by letting them have it.

The League of Women Voters has been looking into the legal status of women in all the 48 States, and the results have been compiled in a single volume. To the great indignation of the feminists the league reveals that not a single State allows a wife to collect for services performed in the home, or to determine the choice of a family dwelling. Of course, the investigators were not concerned with the percentage of women who collect the whole pay check every week or every month, or with the weight of woman's subtle influence in choosing the place of domicile. They were merely concerned with legal status, and since woman has been in the habit of winning her rights throughout the centuries without much aid from the law, it is not surprising that deficiencies were brought to light.

The general aim of the feminists is equality of women with men. But opinion differs widely as to how that prerogative can be attained. One group seeks new laws giving women protection against male competition. Another would reduce equality to its elemental terms and abolish all distinction in law between the sexes. But this causes no bewilderment to the crusaders. They are all traveling toward the same goal, even though their routes take them in opposite directions.

It may be assumed that women will some day achieve the legal status they seek, on the general principle that they usually get what they go after. But when that bright era dawns the feminists may find that the hand that rocks the cradle, and not the hand that writes the law, rules the world. And in that event a crusade against the mossbacks who try to keep women bound down by a legal status that also applies to men could be expected.

RESCUED FROM THE TAHITI.

Skill and courage of the heroic kind were exercised by the ship captains who effected the rescue last Sunday of passengers and crew of the sinking steamship Tahiti, in the South Seas. Capt. Toten, of the Tahiti, was faced with appalling alternatives, and was compelled to change plans in the midst of deadly dangers from sea and sky. He first ordered every one to the boats when the Tahiti was seen to be sinking, but the threat of a terrific tropical storm caused him to countermand the order and await the arrival of the steamship Ventura, which was picking its way toward him through dangerous shoals on an uncharted course. The Norwegian freight steamer Penybryn first arrived at the scene, and stood by during the doubtful hours before the Ventura appeared. But for the wireless the Tahiti and its personnel would probably have been lost, and even the nature of the disaster would have remained a mystery.

Few men are ever placed in a more agonizing position than that which confronted Capt. Toten. He was responsible for the lives of 315 persons, and it was up to him to decide whether they should take to the lifeboats to avoid being carried down with the ship, or be kept aboard in the hope that the Ventura would arrive before the hurricane would send the Tahiti to the bottom. In the meantime the bulkheads were giving way under pressure of water which poured into the hold through a hole caused by the breaking of one of the propeller shafts.

Capt. Toten luckily made the right decision. The Tahiti lasted long enough to enable the Ventura to make the rescue. This was difficult enough, in the face of high seas, but it probably would have been impossible if the lifeboats had scattered and a storm had occurred. Capt. Toten was making his first trip as a commander. He magnificently performed his duty.

CHICAGO GANGLAND REVELATIONS.

When Jake Lingle, Chicago police reporter, was murdered by a gangster bullet the cry went up that the Chicago underworld had finally gone a step too far—that by challenging the press it had set in motion a force that would destroy the organized crime system. As the investigation of the affair progressed, however, it began to appear that Lingle himself was a racketeer who used his position as a cloak to hide nefarious transactions with gangs and officials. Lingle, there no longer is doubt, was the go-between through whom gangsters negotiated their protection. The exposure of Lingle's duplicity might have resulted in the abandonment of interest in his murder had the public not been aroused as a result of the earlier outcry against the attack on the press. The investigation into Lingle's murder has led to the uncovering of important evidence against Chiago gangs and the liaison that exists between them and city officials and politicians.

Whether or not the murder of Jack Zuta was linked with the murder of Jake Lingle has not yet been fully developed. Zuta was the brains of the North Side mob, a gang of bootleggers, hijackers, murderers and thieves, which was suspected of having committed the murder of Lingle. Days before Zuta was killed, Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, had raided the Zuta headquarters and had taken possession of a ledger listing payments made by the gang. Roche was on the trail of other ledgers at the time of Zuta's murder, and when the gang chieftain was put out of the way one of the early acts of the investigator was to gain access to certain of Zuta's safe deposit boxes, from which several ledgers were recovered. The books indicate that large sums were paid to high officials; that certain police were on the gang's pay roll; that in one week more than $100,000 in "dividends" from a gang-controlled race track were paid out to police and politicians, and that the gang was able to pay off at the rate of $75,000 a week, or almost $4,000,000 a year.

For once, as a direct result of the Lingle and the Zuta murders, it appears that the authorities have one of Chicago's major gangs on the defensive. Whether or not it will be found possible to press the investigation and prosecution through to the destruction of the gang remains to be seen. Those whose names appear on canceled checks signed by Zuta make vigorous denial of any connection with the gang, and offer ingenious explanations as to how their names happened to appear under such incriminating circumstances. A committee of business men is pressing an investigation, and its activity may serve to keep the official investigators on their toes. But even if the North Side gang is wiped out, Chicago will not have been delivered from the gangster menace. The Capone gang is many times more powerful than Zuta's outfit. Its tentacles, judging by the records of the North Side gang, must be sucking at the very lifeblood of Chicago.

AMERICAN APPETITE FOR TOBACCO.

Year by year the American appetite for tobacco becomes sharper. In 1922 the tobacco tax brought into the Treasury a total of $270,000,000, and by 1929 the total contribution of the tobacco industry to the Government came to $449,000,000. By far the largest contribution was made by the cigarette manufacturer. Last year he turned out a record total of 127,400,000,000 cigarettes, and this year a new production record will be established. The 1929 cigarette tax revenue, which represented an increase of $40,000,000 over that of the preceding year, was sufficient to offset the loss in revenue from other tobacco sources and to produce an increase of almost $38,000,000 in the total tobacco revenue for the year.

The phenomenal growth in popularity of the cigarette dates from the time when manufacturers began to advertise on a large scale. The huge expansion of cigarette output came about largely when the social ban against the use of tobacco by women was lifted. This movement was born out of the war, but it was skillfully marshalled by the cigarette manufacturers themselves through their advertising. When milady acquired a taste for tobacco the potential market for cigarettes was doubled, but now the question arises as to whether or not the "effeminacy" of the cigarette may result in a shift of masculine preference back to the cigar and pipe.

The 1929 production figures indicate as much. In 1928 a total of 6,500,000,000 cigars were manufactured in the United States, an increase of 100,000,000 over the production of the preceding year. Production of the higher priced domestic cigars fell off, however, as is proved by the fact that production of cigars to be retailed at 5 cents each or less was increased some 200,000,000. But the emphasis in cigar advertising has been on the less expensive brands. The production figures seem to prove that there is an increasing demand for a good inexpensive cigar—if there is such a thing.

The report that a woman stole a wedding ring from a local store is curious. Most women seem intent on getting rid of those things.

GOLD

HIRAM L. JOME,
In the American Bankers Association Journal.

Gold is produced in 61 countries, but more than one-half comes from the South African fields, in the Transvaal, popularly called the Rand. The mining even in those rich fields is being done at great depths and with very expensive machinery. Though the product of the Rand has increased by about 25 per cent in the past ten years, the greatest growth has occurred in the "New Rand." There is some evidence that the ore of the "Old Rand" contains a decreasing percentage of gold. The production in the United States, as in most of the other sources, has fallen, while the output of Canada and Russia has greatly increased.

Though the "moving picture methods" of gold production seem to be obsolete, it is not known how much surface gold is available in newly explored regions or in Russia and Siberia. Moreover, scientists generally believe that we have just scratched the surface of knowledge. The possibility of synthetic production is ignored by those who fear a gold shortage.

Engineers and industrialists presented to pioneers in inventions the same type of "unanswerable" argument which many economists today advance against the idea of increasing the supply of monetary gold.

The amount of gold available for money can also be increased by means of a shift from the arts to coinage. According to the director of the mint, the world output of gold in 1928 was $407,000,000, of which about 57 per cent found its way into coin and bullion. A downward commodity price movement would tend to reduce the quantity of gold used for plate, ornament, jewelry, and other industrial purposes, since the cost of competing metals, such as silver and platinum, would presumably also fall while the price of gold remains the same. Thus a greater amount of gold is released for monetary purposes during a time of falling prices than in periods of rising prices.

The possible shift in "old gold" is even more a powerful factor. The total gold production from 1493 to 1930 is estimated to have been almost $22,000,000,000, of which about one-half is today in the form of available coins and bullion. Undoubtedly a great portion has been lost, but about $5,000,000,000 is hoarded in India and the Orient, while from $3,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 is in ornaments, jewelry and plate, in forms which can readily be converted into monetary uses. Who knows but that part of the gold in Solomon's temple is jingling in the reader's pocket? For a price people may sell their gold plate or jewelry. For a price patients may ask their dentists to pull the gold out of their teeth. A falling price level, indicating an increased value of gold, may furnish such inducement for substituting other materials in dentistry and the arts, thus releasing huge quantities of "old" gold as well as "new" gold for monetary purposes.

In certain parts of India and the Orient men put their savings on their women. The wives of the opulent are heavily laden with bracelets and jewels. Much hoarding is also done in Silas Marner fashion. When the people of these countries become commercial minded, these private hoards will give up hundreds of millions, even billions of dollars worth of old gold. The potency of this factor is fully realized from the possibility that hidden in these countries today is a quantity of gold estimated to equal almost one-half of the total world's monetary supply.

If the worst should come to pass, however, and we should face a long continued depression because of the gold shortage, it would be possible to look again with favor upon silver, the rejected rival of gold. The price of silver is rapidly falling while the value of gold would be rising. If conditions of this kind should be aggravated by a gold shortage, we may again be urged to adopt bimetallism, the agitation for which has generally come in times of falling prices and a rising value of gold.

The United States lost her great opportunity in 1919 and 1920 to rid her monetary system of silver. At that time we could have disposed of all our silver dollars at more than 100 cents each. Perhaps future generations will regard this omission as fortunate.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

The landlord wouldn't paint the place
Or keep it in repair,
Yet at the window panes was lace,
Though every board was bare,
And those who passed it by could trace
The tenant's tender care.

And those who passed it by could see
A blossoming plant or two,
Despite the tenant's poverty
A little garden grew,
Lovely and gay and orderly
The blazing summer through.

The landlord life at times seems cold
And deaf to every plea,
Yet to our dreams we still can hold,
Courageous we can be
And 'round the place plant marigold
For passersby to see.

We, too, with faith, can plant a rose
Where all is bleak and bare
And fashion pretty furbelows
For windows of despair,
And work, till our poor dwelling shows
A tenant's tender care.

There Is No More Breaking of New Ground When Vanity Is Content With the Harvest.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A CERTAIN executive who controls a great industrial organization is nearing the end of his career because of his appetite for flattery.

His organization is honeycombed with insubordination, inefficiency and negligence, but he thinks all is well.

He hears nothing but praise, for those who surround him know the measure of his vanity and not one of them has the courage to offer a criticism.

He has only himself to blame, for success turned his head and blinded him to all unpleasant truth.

His downfall will come with the shock of complete surprise. Those who should warn and save him look on silently, afraid to speak, or hide their contempt and hasten his fall by continued flattery because experience has taught them that flattery will make their own place more secure.

How long has it been since you heard a helpful criticism?

You have faults, of course—faults that hold you back or threaten disaster.

They are hidden from you, else you would correct them, but they are known to your intimates.

Why does no one point them out? Is it because you can't bear criticism? Are you so vain and so resentful of unpleasant truth that those who depend on your good will dare not attempt to help you lest they give unpardonable offense?

If you hear nothing but praise, there is a reason—and the reason isn't your own perfection.

If it is because your intimates know you cannot bear criticism, nothing but a new birth of humility can save you.

The man who sees no fault in himself or his work and dismisses all criticism as the yapping of the envious or the unfaithfulness of his friends has climbed as far as he will go and is ready to slide back.

A career never is static. When growth stops, decay begins. And growth stops when you think you have reached perfection.

When a head swells, all entrances are blocked.

IMAGINARY INTERVIEW BETWEEN KING CAROL AND HELEN.

Carol—Now be reasonable, dear, and . . .

Helen—If you're going to bring up that reconciliation stuff again you're just wasting your breath.

Carol—But, honey, you're ruining my coronation.

Helen—That's it; you just want me long enough to go through with a nice pleasant orthodox coronation. I'm just to help dress the windows!

Carol—Now, Helen, after all you are my wife, and . . .

Helen—I'm glad that little fact has occurred to you.

Carol—Please don't be sarcastic. I know I've made mistakes, but . . .

Helen—That makes the knowledge unanimous, my dear.

Carol—There you go again! Always rubbing it in! Can't a fellow do a few foolish things without ever turning over a new leaf? Can't I reform?

Helen—That's what I'm waiting to find out.

Carol—Helen, I'm really very fond of you . . .

Helen—Of me and who else?

Carol—Aw, be nice, Helen!

Helen—You've got that Lupescu woman around where you can keep in touch with her, haven't you?

Carol—Now let's drop the Lupescu woman.

Helen—Drop her, by all means. That's one point I insist on.

Carol—What makes you think I haven't dropped her? Have I seen her at all since I got back? Have I even communicated with her?

Helen—Please don't ask me riddles, Carol. I've a dreadful headache.

Carol—Now listen, Jessica—beg pardon—I mean listen, Helen—I'm King of Roumania and you're a queen . . . There's got to be a coronation . . . It's part of the rules . . . And you know how it looks for a king to be coronated with the queen missing.

Helen—Everybody knows the situation between us. Why can't you go through with the coronation alone?

Carol—It's bum etiquette. Gloria . . . beg pardon . . . Helen Helen—If you're lonesome, take one of those other women to the coronation with you. They'd be crazy to go.

Carol—And I'd have to be crazy to take them, Hazel . . . Helen, rather . . . Now be nice and let me issue a statement that we have made up and that everything's nice and pretty.

Helen—Issue any statements you like. You're king, aren't you?

Carol (pleadingly)—Aw, now, Clothilde . . . beg pardon . . . Helen. Don't be like that. Even if you don't like me any more, you don't want to get me in bad with the populace, do you?

Helen—The people seem to be satisfied to have you back.

Carol—Yes, but they wouldn't like to see a coronation with the queen out of it. It's tradition. Just say you'll come so everything will look all right. After it's over you can go right back to your apartment and . . .

Helen—And whose apartment will you go back to?

Carol—Aw now, Yvonne!

Helen (sweeping from the room)—You might at least try to remember my name!

No Food Shortage, and No Need to Hoard Foods, Says Firm Whose Territory Covers Washington, Northern Virginia and Maryland.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Allow us to compliment your paper on the way you are handling the present news of drought and food conditions, which is so much better for the country than the way many papers are treating same.

We need level heads in this so-called crisis and to try to keep the public from getting it into their heads that there will be shortage of every food commodity. By not playing up in headlines that the country will not have any corn, or any item, you have stated conditions as they are, and made it plain that the United States has plenty of food to take care of every one.

Keep up the good work and we feel sure that all of the brokers and the other branches of the food trade will appreciate same, and the only knocker you will have will be the fly-by-night speculator.

Intercity Radio-Automobile Patrol Would Head Off Many Long Distance Getaways by Bandits.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The editorial in today's Post on "Why Crime Thrives" is correct in the statement that the authorities "should have worked out plans long ago for the use of motor cars as police agencies." I agree with The Post that it is hard to understand why police departments hesitate to avail themselves of agencies of which the criminally inclined have been quick to take advantage. Police cars should patrol the entire District "and every car should be in touch with headquarters by radio," says The Post. In addition to that, I think an adequate radio-automobile patrol of highways between large cities might help a good bit in blocking the long-distance getaway upon which the modern criminal largely depends for immunity from arrest.

Pennsylvanian Suggests Tax Relief for Farmers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have followed with much interest your valuable editorials on the drought and your loyal support of President Hoover in his endeavors to alleviate the drought situation.

All efforts to help the farmer are to be commended, but it must be remembered that the drought is only a climax that brings to glaring publicity the depression in the business of farming. Our taxation has been the main trouble for both the tenant farmer and the landlord farmer.

At Martinsburg, W. Va., the county officials have decided to lighten the taxes and, perhaps, exempt the unproductive farms. Such a move will bring quick relief and encouragement. In Cumberland County, Pa., an increased assessment of property and lands was levied by the county commissioners about three years ago, at the same time the salaries of the commissioners were doubled. To add to the farmers' woes a State law was passed that all taxes had to be paid on a certain date or property could be seized. This law puts the farmer, who is rarely trained to cope with a tricky law, in almost as bad a situation as a return to "debtor prison" days might suggest.

If the farmer has no crops to sell how can he pay taxes? Would it not be a logical expedient in this day of investigation to investigate the tax system of which the farmers are complaining and when justifiable follow the West Virginia plan?

Give the small farmer, who, of course, belongs to the "backward class," some tangible relief and tangible evidence that the Nation is not bent on bleeding him to death, but has his welfare and prosperity at heart.

Zoning of Street Car Fare Objected to by Outlying Sections.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Displayed in the cars and buses of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. is the following:

"Notice—In effect July 23, 1930—Fare of this company in the District of Columbia on car and bus lines is 10 cents, or a token sold 4 for 30 cents: Except Burleith, Hyattsville-Laurel, Rhode Island avenue, fare 10 cents, or a paper ticket sold 6 for 50 cents; Massachusetts avenue Foxhall Village, Anacostia-Congress Heights, fare 10 cents cash."

As a sample of the professional expert's meticulous efficiency this economic conglomeration is interesting. But what I do not understand is how under its charter the street railway is permitted to zone its transportation system in this outlandish manner. Why in the name of public convenience, in the name of common sense and in fairness to us citizens in outlying sections, is not the fare made uniform by striking a general average?

Terrible State of Affairs in Chicago Saloons.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A writer in the Chicago Tribune tells of unbelievable conditions in the windy and wicked metropolis. The tale, just a regular newspaper story, reads in part:

"There were 400 young men and girls in the place; and nearly every one was drunk. Fights were sporadic in the crowded room. Liquors were sold steadily."

Aren't these prohibition blind pigs terrible? Yes! But this was not in a blind pig and was not under prohibition. It was in one of Chicago's 7,000 licensed saloons, long before prohibition. The time was after 1 o'clock in the morning. And it was a fair sample of what was going on in all of the 7,000. The law required all saloons to close at 1 in the morning. But the saloon keepers paid no attention to any law, any time.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Many Fetes Planned for Law Groups

Envoys to Conference Will Be Lavishly Entertained.

By JEAN ELIOT.

HAPPY memories of the American Bar Association's visit to England and France in 1924 are revived by preparations now being made for entertainment of the delegation of distinguished members of bar and bench from Great Britain and France, who are coming to this country as the association's guests. After attending the annual meeting of the American Bar Association in Chicago, the visitors are to come to Washington on August 26 for a three-day stay, which, with business out of the way, will be devoted entirely to a round of festivities.

Lavishly feted both in London and in Paris on their trip abroad a half dozen years ago, association members are determined to make fitting return for the hospitality showered upon them by British and French dignitaries; and the stately festivities which have been arranged for the last few days of August will have much of the brilliance usually associated with the heart of the winter season in Washington.

Mr. John W. Davis was president of the American Bar Association when its pilgrimage to England and France was planned, but three days before he was due to sail he was nominated as Democratic candidate for the Presidency. Consequently Mr. Charles Evans Hughes, then Secretary of State, was drafted to "pinch hit" for him and headed the great delegation of American judges and lawyers who foregathered in London and later visited Paris.

Now it can be told that, although Mr. Hughes' presence in London on some matter pertaining to the Dawes reparations plan was greatly desired, it was not deemed advisable for him to go abroad in his official capacity as Secretary of State. However as acting president of the bar association he could—and did—visit England without causing any international complications.

Mr. Hughes—now Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court—and Mrs. Hughes have been abroad since early summer, but are expected to return in time to attend the bar association meeting, and will be in Washington to take part in the entertainment for the visitors. The Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson, who have been enjoying a holiday visit at their home on Long Island and a motor trip into New England and Canada, will return to Woodley in time for the festivities here and will give a garden reception at Woodley on Wednesday August 27, from 4:30 to 7 o'clock, in honor of the foreign delegation and their womenfolk.

Much has already been written about the garden party at the White House, which has been arranged for Tuesday afternoon, August 26, which, with the Stimsons' reception, a reception at the French Embassy and a fete at the French Embassy on the evening of August 27, will be the most colorful events of a brilliant program. To Washingtonians there is special interest in the proposed reception, with the British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay as hosts, as it will be the first great function to be held in the new British Embassy.

With delegates from England, France, Scotland, the Irish Free State and Canada included in the group of visitors, there will inevitably be entertaining at several other foreign establishments. The Attorney General, Mr. William De Witt Mitchell, will entertain the delegation at dinner at the Pan-American Union on August 26 and the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams will be hosts to them aboard the Porpoise for a cruise to Mount Vernon. On the evening of August 27 and 28 there will be many dinners for groups of foreign guests, with individual members of the District Bar Association and their wives as hosts. Mr. J. Miller Kenyon is president of this group.

For the ladies accompanying the delegates the ladies committee of Washington is arranging a luncheon at Wardman Park Hotel on Tuesday, August 26, at 1 o'clock, which will be one of the pleasantest events of the program. Mrs. Edward Everett Gann is honorary chairman of the committee, of which Mrs. William P. MacCracken, jr., is chairman; Mrs. Frank Bright, vice chairman, and Mrs. F. Regis Noel, secretary. Other members of the committee are Miss Grace Kanode, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Miss Annabel Matthews, Mrs. Sidney Taliaferro, Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, Mrs. Howard Le Roy, Mrs. Ralph Van Orsdel, Mrs. Lee Warren and Mrs. Charles F. Wilson.

Allan Hoover Visiting At the White House.

The President and Mrs. Hoover have with them at the White House for a few days their son, Mr. Allan Hoover, who came from New York the latter part of the week to pass the week-end at the presidential camp on the Rapidan.

The Speaker of the House, Mr. Nicholas Longworth, was the guest in whose honor Mrs. D. H. Holmes, of New York, gave a dinner at the Empire Restaurant at Hot Springs, Saturday Evening. The other guests were Baron and Baroness Rosenkrantz, jr. and Mrs. George Warrington, Mrs. Georgine Thomas, Dr. J. H. Garvin and Mr. and Mrs. Fay Ingalls.

Admiral and Mrs. Mark L. Bristol were the guests of honor on Sunday at a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Newton P. Hutchinson, at Narragansett Pier, where they are staying with Mrs. Hutchinson's mother, Mrs. R. Frederick Taylor.

Brig. Gen. Edward L. King, assistant chief of staff of the U. S. A., in charge of operations and training, will leave tomorrow for an inspection of overseas departments in the Pacific. He will visit headquarters of the Ninth Corps Area at San Francisco, Honolulu, Manila, and Tienstin, China. He will return to Washington in November.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke have returned from Old Point Comfort, Va., where the Assistant Secretary inspected the midshipman practice squadron including the battleships, Arkansas, Florida and Utah, just returned from a European cruise.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, who are passing the summer at their villa, Lookout Hill, Gloucester, Mass., are entertaining the former's sister, Miss Elizabeth Hammond, who returned recently from Europe. Mrs. Charles Hoyle, of Washington, a sister of Mrs. Hammond, is also at Lookout Hill.

Mrs. Louis Frothingham, widow of Representative Frothingham, has joined the group of Americans enjoying the grouse season in Scotland and has taken a shooting preserve and lodge not far from Blair Castle in the Trossachs, which has been leased by Mr. and Mrs. Axel Wichfield, formerly Mrs. Clarence Moore, of Washington.

Former Ambassador Gerard Guest in Newport.

Mr. James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, was the week-end guest of Mr. Edward J. Berwind at his Newport villa.

Mr. William H. Beck, assistant to the Secretary of State, Mr. Henry L. Stimson, and Mrs. Beck and their daughter, Betty, are at Rehoboth Beach, where they will stay a week.

Mr. J. Upshur Moorhead, jr., and Mr. James M. Carlisle are guests of Mr. C. Alan Hudson at Rumson, N. J., for the Gold Cup races. Later they will return to the cottage of Mr. Moorhead's mother, Mrs. J. Upshur Moorhead, at Spring Lake, N. J., for the rest of the summer.

Former Attorney General and Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer are staying at the Aspinwall in Lenox, Mass.

Mrs. Samuel A. Kemball and Mrs. Lincoln A. Clarke are leaving for their home in Allenhurst, N. J., after passing ten days with Mrs. John F. Powell.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gans have returned from a trip to Old Point Comfort and Williamsburg. They were there during the reception and dance given to the midshipmen on their return from the European trip, which was their summer cruise. Mr. and Mrs. Gans were entertained by Capt. George B. Landenberger on the United States ship Utah. They also motored to Williamsburg, Va., and were entertained and shown all the historical places of interest in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Petty are in Atlantic City for a few days, where they are guests at the Hotel Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Weaver are passing some time at the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall in Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Arnold Meyer, of Montclair, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Meyer, to Mr. Alfred Poole Duffy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Duffy, also of Montclair. Miss Meyer attended Martha Washington Seminary in Washington and Dana Hall. Mr. Duffy was graduated from St. John's Preparatory School at Danvers, Mass., and later attended Georgetown University. He is a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

Mr. John C. F. Tillson, jr., U. S. A., has come from Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex., and is visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Col. and Mrs. Edward Clifford, in Georgetown. Maj. Tillson will be on duty at the Army War College in Washington.

Jardines Are Preparing for Stay in Egypt

Will Tarry in Paris and Alexandria Before Going to Cairo.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Jardine have given up their apartment at the Mayflower preparatory to sailing on September 6 on the S. S. Leviathan, bound for Cairo, Mr. Jardine having been appointed United States Minister to Egypt. While Mr. Jardine is traveling in the West, arranging his affairs prior to his departure, Mrs. Jardine and her daughters, Miss Marian Jadine and Miss Ruth Jardine, are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moyle, at their Washington residence.

Accompanied by their daughters and by Miss Katherine Lowman, whose engagement to Mr. William N. Jardine was recently announced, Mr. and Mrs. Jardine will go to Paris for a ten-day stay when they land in Europe. They will also spend some time in Alexandria, Egypt, before going to Cairo. Plans for the wedding of Miss Lowman and young "Bill" Jardine will not be made until her return from Egypt and Mr. and Mrs. Jadine propose to keep their daughter-to-be with them until she has had some experience of the gayeties of the winter season in Cairo. Business interests will detain the junior Mr. Jardine in Washington while his family and his fiancee are abroad, but he visited Cairo two years ago in the course of a trip around the world, so he is familiar with the interesting scenes to which they are to be introduced.

Miss Mowatt Married To Mr. James L. Darby.

A charming wedding took place yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock in Burrall Hall, Calvary Baptist Church, when Miss Ethel Eleanor Mowatt, daughter of Mrs. James Mowatt and the late Capt. Mowatt, became the bride of Mr. James Laurence Darby, son of Mrs. James P. Darby and the late Mr. Darby, of Pularosa, N. Mex.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Homer J. Councilor. The church was decorated with palms and flowers, and Miss Myrtle Barnes sang "At Dawning" before the ceremony. Miss Evelyn Wells played the wedding march.

The bride's dress was of champagne chiffon and lace, with a tight-fitting bodice and long full skirt. Her large picture hat was champagne colored to match her moire slippers and silk mitts. Her only ornament was a string of crystals and pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Her shower bouquet was of talisman roses and lilies of the valley.

The only attendant of the bride was Miss Anne Dennis. Her gown was of tourquoise blue chiffon, fashioned on close-fitting lines, with cape collar. She wore a large hat and satin slippers of tourquoise blue and carried pink roses and blue larkspur.

The best man was Mr. Emmit Brandt and the ushers were Mr. W. Frank Lau and Mr. Gordon C. Bent. Mrs. Mowatt's gown was of black chiffon with a velvet jacket. She wore a close-fitting black velvet hat and a corsage bouquet of yellow roses.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Darby left for a honeymoon trip to Virginia Beach, the bride wearing a peach colored knitted suit, with felt hat and accessories to match.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Darby will be at home at 204 Channing street.

Miss Alma Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Ferguson, has gone to Syracuse, N. Y., and will visit the Thousand Islands, where she will remain until her school reopens in the fall.

Miss Marie H. Edwards and Mr. Roger Winfield Lusby were married yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. Dr. Chesteen Smith officiating. Miss Edwards is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Edwards.

Mrs. Ernest J. Higgins was the matron of honor and the bride's only attendant. Mr. Wallace C. Powell was best man.

The bride wore a gown of dark blue chiffon with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses, delphinium and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Higgins' dress was also of chiffon in brown with accessories in the same shade. She wore a corsage of yellow roses, delphinium and lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lusby will take their honeymoon in Yellowstone National Park and in Canada and will be at home after September 15 at 5707 Fourteenth street.

Fourth Child Born to Head Of War Office

Mr. and Mrs. Hurley Are Rejoicing at Birth of Daughter.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley announce the birth of a daughter yesterday afternoon at Columbia Hospital in Washington. The little girl is the fourth child of the Secretary and Mrs. Hurley, the other children, Patricia, Ruth and Wilson Hurley being with their grandparents, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Henry B. Wilson, in Atlantic City, where the Wilsons have a cottage. Mrs. Hurley has passed a part of the summer with Admiral and Mrs. Wilson, having gone to Atlantic City in July.

The new baby girl joins the magic group of youngsters who "rule" the Cabinet members, representing the ninth child of really youthful years who claims affection of the Cabinet group. Beside the Hurley quartet there are the five interesting children of the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. James J. Davis who, with Patricia, Ruth and Wilson Hurley, have had things pretty much their own way in the matter of securing what they want from administration chiefs.

Debutante daughters of Cabinet members and collegiate sons claim the spotlight of news from time to time and several of the Cabinet members have engaging grandchildren. But only the Hurleys and the Davises have juvenile sons and daughters. The newest addition to the Hurley family has not yet been named.

Popes From Philippines In Capital En Route.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Pope and daughter, Grace Stewart, are stopping at the Carlton for a few days, having come from their home in the Philippine Islands en route to Scotland where they will be guests of Mr. Pope's mother. They will sail from New York on Saturday. In Seattle Mr. and Mrs. Pope and daughter were guests of Mrs. Pope's parents, Col and Mrs. Stewart Griffin, with whom they motored down the Pacific Coast to Mexico. They will continue their trip around the world by the Suez Canal, arriving at their home in December. Mrs. Pope was formerly Miss Grace Griffin, of Washington.

Miss Patton Is Much Feted In Bay State

Debutante Is Popular in Washington Colony on North Shore.

Prior to her formal presentation in Washington next winter, Miss Beatrice Ayer Patton, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. George S. Patton, jr., is being much feted as a member of the Washington colony on the Massachusetts North Shore. Maj. and Mrs. Patton and their daughter are spending the summer at their estate at Hamilton in the Myopia district. Nearby is Avalon at Prides Crossing, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Merrill, of Washington, the latter a sister of Mrs. Patton. The first of a series of fetes planned for Miss Patton was recently given by Mr. and Mrs. Merrill.

This was a garden tea at Avalon and Miss Patton had the look of a garden flower—a frock of white organdie embroidered in yellow blossoms, with a sash of green velvet. On October 3 Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer, of Juniper Ridge, Hamilton, also an aunt of Miss Patton, will give a dance in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. George Faber Downey left New York yesterday for Murray Bay, Canada, to remain the rest of the season. They have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fairfax Lanstreet, at Southampton, Long Island.

Miss Catherine Carr and Miss Helen Carr, daughters of Col. and Mrs. Daniel J. Carr, left Saturday for Virginia Beach, where they are staying at the Hotel Pocahontas.

Car Installment Sales For June Show Drop

(Associated Press.)

Installment sales of automobiles in the United States for June fell considerably below those sold in previous months. Commerce Department figures issued yesterday showed June financing of such deals involved 332,852 machines, and meant the advance of $141,888,000 to purchasers. In June last year such selling affected 384,520 cars and involved $178,983,000 in advances.

More than half of the June auto sales on time were second-hand cars. The amount loaned on the second-hand machines, however, for installment purposes was over $48,000,000.

HIDE IN THE DARK - - -

By FRANCES NOYES HART
Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

Gavin Dart did not stir, only his eyes narrowed for a moment, bleakly. "Are you by any chance implying that I murdered Doug King?"

Sherry glared back at him, somewhat staggered by his unshaken calm. "Are you by any chance implying that you didn't?"

"I'm implying nothing whatever. I am assuring you that the first intimation that I had of harm having arrived to Douglas King was after I opened the door from the service quarters and saw you all standing there with the lights on."

Sherry, stupor still claiming him as its own, waved this aside with a frantically derisive gesture.

"Ah, tell that to the marines! Tell it to the judge and the jury and the whole world if you want to, but don't try to pull it on me! What were you stringing us with all this rotten rigmarole about Doug and poisoned powders and agonizing jealousy for if you weren't getting ready to alibi yourself out of the electric chair with a lot of hokum about the unwritten law?"

"I was trying to explain why Hanna had had ample reason to think that I was likely to make a fool of myself and therefore took refuge in some rather damaging lies in order to protect me. Evidently I haven't made a success of my explanation."

"I'll say you haven't! You may sound damn noble to the rest of the world, but you sound damn suspicious to me. I loved Doug better than a brother and I'm not going to let any——"

"Hey, you're drunk," said Kit Baird critically.

"A lot you care who murdered Doug King. For a plugged nickel you'd have murdered him yourself."

"Sherry, listen to me." Lindy's voice struck across the ugly fever of his clamor as quietly and coolly as rain. "You're destroying everything that we've tried to build up in this last hour of order and decency and fairness. You simply can't do it. You can't afford to do it and we can't afford to let you. We'll all go raving mad if we don't keep hold of ourselves. Kit, I think that it was outrageous of you to say that Sherry's drunk and to make fun of him. He's obviously knocked to pieces by Doug's death and you owe him an apology."

"Oh, a dozen of them, if they'll help to restore law and order," acquiesced Kit obligingly. "But I'd take it kindly of you, old boy, if you'd withdraw that little bit about a plugged nickel."

Sherry glowered darkly, subdued but unappeased.

"All right—all right—but you didn't waste any love on Doug and you damn well know it. And who started all this inquiry stuff, anyway? Dart started it himself, didn't he? I'll say he did and not an hour ago at that! And it was Dart that said that all we had to do was to find some guy equipped with the means, the motive and the opportunity for murdering Doug and then sic the police on him, wasn't it? I'll say it was! Well, we've found one, not two feet away from where I'm standing, haven't we? I'll say we——"

"Sherry, what's that on your arm?" Hanna asked.

"What's what on my arm?"

"All that white stuff, just below your elbow?"

"That stuff. Search me—dust or powder or something. I probably brushed against one of you girls."

"It's much too white for dust and much too thick for powder. What should you say that it was, Gavin?"

"Looks like flour to me. You might have picked it up in the kitchen—or no, that's out! You weren't in the kitchen, were you? Any flour scattered around the house, Lindy?"

"Only the bowlful that we were going to do the ring trick with."

"Oh, yes—the ring trick." He swept the room with a softly appraising eye. "Now what became of that bowl?"

Trudi shook her head at him with a dispirited grin.

"Nothing doing, Sherlock; you can't pin anything on my lawful wedded husband that way! I swept the pile of flour back into the bowl and stuck it in the lacquer cabinet over there. No, you're still the boy with the means, the motive and the opportunity, if that means anything. If it's any consolation to you it leaves me fairly cool. Pretty, but cuckoo—too darned pat."

Gavin Dart said equably: "I'll grant that it leaves something to be desired as a formula; still, it prove serviceable as a starter. I'll head the line of suspects that is about to form to the right, naturally; but I think that we'll have some more recruits before we're through. And before we abandon the flour theme entirely, I wish that you'd show me just which table you brushed it off of."

"The little one over in the corner—by the tub that has the apples in it."

"By the tub that had the knife in it," corrected Gavin Dart gently. He crossed the room leisurely and stood inspecting the table with more than perfunctory interest. "You're right—this is undoubtedly the table. You didn't make a very tidy job of sweeping off your flour, though, Trudi, there's quite a bit left. Baird, come here for a moment will you?

"Why in heck do you suppose it makes that funny little track down the center of the table?"

"When you came back through this room groping your way along the wall you collided with the tub just short of this table, didn't you, Joel?"

"I'll tell the world I did"

"Did you run into the table, too?"

"Nope—I stopped groping after that and lit out catty-cornered for the hall."

"But if you had been coming from the hall, groping your way along this wall, what would of happened then, I wonder? Or even if you had been crossing from the sofa? Just try this, will you, Joel? Close your eyes and start from anywhere over there by the door. No—wait a moment—get this before you start. You're supposed to know that this tub is here and that there's a table just short of it, too.

"Remember, it's pitch dark and it's vitally important to you that you shouldn't make a noise, but it's also vitally important that you should get to the tub as rapidly as possible. Got all that straight in your mind? All right—start."

The circle about the fire leaned forward, tense and bewildered, watching the tall figure with the conscientiously screwed-up eyes and the young excited grin groping his cautious way along the wall, absorbed as a small boy on a game of blindman's buff.

"Here's the table," muttered Joel, the grin deepening. "Check! And about a yard or so farther on there ought to be that double-damned tub—righto—check again!" He opened his eyes, shining with excitement. "Now will some one step up and tell me just why any one in his senses would want to head for that confounded tub if he knew it was there? Why, for Pete's sake, wouldn't he——"

He bit off the end of his sentence with a sharp sound of enlightenment as his eye fell once more on the reddened water at his feet.

"By golly, the knife! You mean that some one planned from the very begininng to get rid of it there, so that there wouldn't be any fingerprints or anything—got all the landmarks worked out, and——"

"Lift your arm, will you, Hardy? No; the left one."

Joel lifted it obligingly, and a little sigh of incredulous wonder rose from the circle about the fire. Even across the room they could see it quite clearly—the long, thick, white slur, running from cuff to elbow against the black sleeve of the dinner jacket. It was Sheridan who saw it first.

"Her—what is this, anyway? What's all this stuff about flour got to do with who killed Doug King? You aren't going to get your neck out of the halter by trying to put mine in it, let me tell you; and you won't put mine in it by finding a white spot on my sleeve. Are you telling me that I——"

"I'm not telling you anything just now, Sheridan." Gavin Dart spoke a little absently, as though his mind were on more important matters than halters. "You weren't in this room before Jill screamed, were you? I mean after the game started, naturally."

"I told you where I was."

"The attic, wasn't it? Way up on the fourth floor in the attic—the farthest away of any of us from what is popularly referred to as the scene of the crime. So, naturally, you couldn't have been here after the gong sounded. No; it must have been before. Jill, would you mind coming over here for a minute? Come with her, Larry, if you want to. It's all right, I promise; you don't have to go near this thing. Now, Jill, can you remember where you were when Doug told you that he was going to hide on the sofa?"

"I was standing here by this window. I was trying to see what the wind had done to those trees."

"About eight or ten feet from where we're standing, then. And you were whispering, weren't you? Can you remember what he said to you?"

"He said——"

"Just whisper it, will you?"

"He said——" the whisper wavered for a second and then resumed, steadily: "He said: 'How about the sofa in front of the fire? Nobody in God's world will ever think of that!'"

"Thanks—that's just what I wanted. Could you hear that, Baird?"

"Perfectly."

"You, Hardy?"

"Sure, I could hear it."

"How about you, Sheridan?"

Sherry said with the uncanny distinctness of one to whom distinctness has become a somewhat onerous effort: "I may be drunk, but I'm not anywhere near drunk enough not to see what you're driving at! Now get this straight, once and for all, will you? The first time I heard that Doug was going to hide on the sofa was when Jill was answering one of your famous cross-examinations, an hour or so ago. I wasn't eavesdropping on Doug to find out where I could murder him; and I'll bet any one in God's world $10,000 that you don't even think I was, you——"

"It would be a little difficult to prove what I'm thinking, even by me," remarked Gavin Dart, dryly; "so let's stick to outward and visible signs. And will you start in again by telling us exactly where you were when——"

"I'll tell you just exactly nothing," shouted the luckless Sherry, hysteria once more clutching at his shoulder. "If you want to try to save your rotten neck by pinning this murder on some one else, try to pin it on someone but the only friend Doug's got in this room, will you? Try pinning it on Joel Hardy or Kit Baird or Tom Ross—every last one of 'em out after his scalp—sure, you fellows all belong to the same union—Doug told me so himself—he told me so tonight." He struggled for a moment, brushing aside chilled disdain of Trudi's "Oh, Sherry, for the love of the Lord!" with a gesture of despairing vehemence.

"Trudi, lay off me just for once, will you? Go ahead, Dart; ask some of these boys what they thought of Doug—just ask them, will you? Ask Larry Redmond for a starter. You weren't so damn fond of Doug, were you Larry?"

"No," said Larry, explicitly.

"I'll say you weren't! And neither were you; were you, Kit?"

"And neither was I," Kit agreed.

"You were in this room about two minutes before Jill screamed, Joel. Why don't you go ahead and tell Inspector Dart how you loved Doug?"

Joel said in a tone that matched Sherry's for violence: "You know darned well what I thought about Doug King. I thought he was a bounder and a rotter and a cad—and I still think so. But I don't go around bumping every one off just because I think they're bums. I'd have a swell time if I did! If you weren't up to any more mischief in this room than I was you're sitting pretty."

"And just cut that room stuff out, will you? There isn't a soul in the world that can prove I was anywhere near this room! Just because I've got some flour on my cuff—for all I know you've all got flour on your cuffs or your skirts or your elbows! Look at Chatty Ross; she's got some on her shoulder, hasn't she? Does that make her a murderess or doesn't it?"

Chatty echoed in a stupefied voice, twisting her curly head in a vain effort to verify his statement: "On my shoulder, Sherry? How could it be on my shoulder? I haven't been near the flour—not once, truly. Not even when Jill was trying to do the ring trick."

"Well, there you are; there's Chatty's explanation of how she got it! And while you're playing grand inquisitioner around here, Dart, why not try it on some of the girls? Or are you thinking that Lady Macbeth was the last lady to stick a knife into a gentleman?"

SELF-CONFIDENCE

Bright eyes—a clear mind—belief in oneself and the power to do characterizes the red-blooded man!

IMPORTANT in this picture are the red-blood-cells! You cannot count your own red-blood-cells—that is technical! But you should know that they are the "ships" that sail in the blood and carry nourishment to all parts of the body. They fight infection and disease!

Body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils are symptoms of a low blood count. These may indicate that you need S.S.S.

S.S.S. restores the red-blood-cells to normal. Your appetite picks up, your whole body is strengthened, invigorated! Your skin clears up. Self-confidence returns. You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. Get the large size. At all drug stores.

When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are not yourself—60% is dangerous

S.S.S. is the tonic that is daily helping thousands of weak, rundown, nervous people regain their strength and charm.

If you feel yourself slipping—your confidence weakening—why not try S.S.S. Its successful record of over 100 years is a guarantee of satisfaction.

Husband Had to Do Her Work
"When my baby was a month old, I took a heavy cold and after that I felt miserable. Could not lift anything. My husband had to help me with the housework. I was so weak I could not do a washing. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Kittaning paper and I gave it a good trial. Before I had taken half a bottle, I found the difference. I do all my own work now and I have told others how much this medicine helped me."—Mrs. Alice Bassett, Cadogan, Pennsylvania.

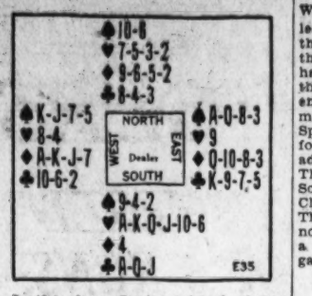
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



In the above Contract hand, at one table South made a preemptive bid of four Hearts and obtained the contract; at another, South bid three and was not jumped; and at the third, a three-bid was advanced to four. North's justification for the jump was the fact that the hand contained four Hearts and a doubleton—hardly sufficient to justify the risk even when partner had started with a bid of three—North might have found himself leaning on a broken reed.

At Auction South probably would make a preempting bid of three Hearts and succeed in obtaining the contract at that figure.

The play at two tables follows: West led a Diamond; when it won he led another, which South ruffed with the Six of Hearts. South then led the Ace and King of trumps, exhausting the adverse trumps, and then a Spade. This was won by the enemy, and a third round of Diamonds forced South again. A second Spade from South was followed by a fourth round of Diamonds from the adversaries and a third ruff by South. Then came the third Spade from South, ruffed by North, followed by a Club lead from North and a finesse. The finesse won; but as South was not able to give North the lead again a Club had to be lost and therefore game was not made.

Could you have done better?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

At the third table where the hand was played correctly, South when ruffing used one of his honors. There was a total of only three adverse trumps, so they could be drawn without difficulty even if all were in one hand. Ruffing with an honor would enable North's Seven to become a second entry if the probable 2-1 division existed. North, as in the above play, obtained his first entry by ruffing a Spade and after the first lead of Clubs he was put in with a trump to lead toward South's Clubs a second time. This was the game.

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF August 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 5:30 a. m. to 7 a. m. and 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

Astrological indications on this date are unfavorable until after 8:30 p. m. Do not take any unnecessary risks and avoid travel. Think twice before you sign your name to important papers. Formative plans for possible change.

The child born on this August 19 will have an active and often a little abrupt nature. It will be somewhat liable to vacillation, change and irresolution. Its judgment and memory should both be good. It will be overly excitable and will suffer from "nerves."

Very effeminate women and very manly men (he-men) will be born on an August 19, and they will display the proper traits and characteristics of their sexes. If you be a man you will live for your business or career, and a large percentage of your interests will be centered there. You will, however, go in for the ordinary recreations, sports and hobbies. You must either be hard at work, or equally engrossed or active in some game or amusement. You fidget when you have nothing to do, or nothing to see. Outside of the daily news, you are not much of a reader. You take a pride in your home, but you are not a handy man therein, and you do not want to be bothered with the details of its care. As a rule you are of a genial nature, although it is generally known that you can not be run over. You have a naturally compelling manner, and you win respect and admiration without any effort.

If you be a woman, you belong in a home as a wife and mother. You have too much intelligence to fail in a career, but your proper place is within a home. You are so loyal and have so much devotion, that you will be married to your job, if not to a man. Your maternal instincts are strong, and you must "mother" something or somebody. You have deity, artistic tastes about yourself and surroundings, and you demand cleanliness and neatness. You dislike weak men, and you would expect your husband to be your lord and master. You are extremely affectionate.

Successful people born August 19:

1. Henry I. Cobb, architect.
2. Fred Stone, actor.
3. Elsie Ferguson, actress.
4. Bernard M. Baruch, capitalist.
5. George Evan Roberts, former director of the mint.
6. Lillian Bell, author.

A Interprets the Mode

Chiffon and lace, both in light blue, make a delightful dress and intricately fashioned jacket. (Courtesy of Martial et Armand, Paris.)

Paris, Aug. 17.

COLETTE: Pierre, I have taken a decision!

Pierre: Be merciful, Colette!

Colette: Do you imply that my decisions are ever foolish?

Pierre: They lack a sense of economy, at least.

Colette: For once I want to be economical, Pierre. I thought of substituting a new all-tube plate and trellis metal furniture for our old set—something rational, practical and hygienic.

Pierre: Excellent idea. Only what is going to happen to you? If I change my furniture, I want a wife to match. Not a darling, rosy and blond and delicate creature like you. How about a handy, nonrusting tin wife?

And if he hadn't smiled!

* * * *

I thought that was good. Because I always sorta felt that way about tin furniture myself. When you go modern, be careful how you go about it—for you can spoil some charming effects and replace them with cold and unfeeling ones. Think whether modern furniture becomes you or not, and if so, what type of modern furniture. Tubes and machine wheels and brass railings are all right for smart cafes, but they are not an appropriate background for a lovely lady. His den, perhaps, and one or two rooms in the hall, that's all. There are other modernistic twists to be given the sitting room, and especially your boudoir.

* * * *

Unless you sit down and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet telling you how to make several parts of a fall ensemble achieve innumerable complete costumes, you know perfectly well that you are going to be able to afford only one or two fall outfits. Wouldn't you like, for exactly the same price that you would have paid for the one or two, to have twelve or fifteen? Well, you can, with the proper figuring out—and that's what we do for you so that you won't have to!

* * * *

Chiffon and lace can be namby-pamby unless it is in the hands of an expert. And the light blue lace and chiffon I have sketched for you today most assuredly came from an expert, because it was anything but namby, let alone pamby.

And then besides the dress being as lovely as it was, there was an adorable jacket that went on front first, as it were, and then tied in a sort of a tricky way—well, you just have to see for yourself because it can't be explained!

* * * *

Wouldst stick a comb into the curls at the back of your neck—if the comb matched the necklace you were wearing, 'n' if both comb and necklace were made of crystal plaques set in gold or silver? I wouldst!

* * * *

And wouldst know in advance of the new autumn campus tags? Then see the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post.

Au revoir!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

I AM coming to you for some advice concerning my front lawn and also my back yard. I sowed some grass seed early this spring and now my whole place is filled with black ants. They are making hills all over the yard and are destroying the grass. I wish you would tell me how to rid my garden of these unwelcome pests. I also have a seed bed of asters which were almost entirely ruined by cutworms. Please also tell me how to get rid of these crawlers.

MRS. WILLIAM F. T.

If you care to write again, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I shall be glad to send you the names of two proprietary preparations that will, if used as directed on the containers, soon rid your lawn of both ants and cutworms.

I have a newly planted rhododendron which has black spots on each leaf. Please tell me if you would advise me to remove these leaves? The plants are kept well watered.

MRS. G. H. D.

Better spray your rhododendrons with a spray made of 5 pounds fish-oil soap and half pint nicotine extract to 10 gallons water. This spray is to be used in May, June and September. Your shrubs probably have been attacked by the lace-wing fly. Be sure to use a nozzle with an angle, making it possible to hit the under side of the leaves, as this is the favorite haunt of this fly.

Please tell me the name of the tree of which I am inclosing a leaf.

MRS. JOHN D.

Catalpa.

Please tell me what to do with a poinsettia which bloomed last Christmas and has been growing ever since.

A CONSTANT READER.

In February, or whenever the plant had spent its bloom, you should have gradually ceased to water it and finally set it aside (dry) to rest. From time to time you should have examined it, and when it showed signs of growth it should have been brought to a light, sunny place and you should have begun to water it regularly. Your plant is not likely to bloom without some rest. Better cut it back almost to the root, then gradually cease to water it. After ten weeks or three months, or when it shows signs of life, begin to water it. It may send up five or six shoots. Remove all but two or three of these. In the winter keep it in a well-ventilated, sunny place and water it every day.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed slip. It is a vine I am very anxious to secure.

MRS. JOHN N. C.

Your vine is a March clematis (C. Crispa), one of the bell-shaped sorts with lavender flowers. This vine grows wild from Virginia to Texas and blooms all summer. This variety requires a well-drained soil of light, loamy texture. Each season the soil in which it is growing must be enriched with well-rotted manure, carefully forked under the surface. All varieties of clematis are lime lovers.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

HONEY RISSOLES.
(Bureau of Home Economics.)

1-3 cup lard.
2 egg yolks.
1 egg white.
2-3 cup water.
¼ cup brown sugar.
Flour.

Mix together all the ingredients but the flour and add enough of that to make a stiff dough. Roll out as thin as a knife blade, cut into round or square pieces, taking care to avoid the necessity of rolling out the second time, as this is likely to make the dough very tough. A honey filling is used with this dough and is made as follows:

HONEY FILLING FOR RISSOLES.

1 cup honey.
2 ounces candied orange peel.
Rye bread crumbs.
Aniseed.

Bring the honey to the boiling point, remove from the stove, and add as much bread crumbs as it will moisten while it is hot. Add the orange peel and enough powdered aniseed to give a decided flavor. Roll this filling into small balls and lay one in the center of each piece of pastry; fold the pastry over and press the edges together. Bake in a hot oven.

Coast Guard Moves To Treasury Annex

The United States Coast Guard headquarters yesterday began moving from the Darby Building, Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, into enlarged quarters in Annex No. 1, of the Treasury Building, Madison place and Pennsylvania avenue. The transfer will require about 10 days.

The Coast Guard is about the last unit to move from the block of buildings, between the new Department of Commerce Building and Pennsylvania avenue, to be razed for Federal projects. Annex No. 1 was occupied until recently by a part of the Internal Revenue Bureau, now in a new plant.

A Meal . . . . in Nine Minutes

Here's a meal that you can be proud to serve—yet you can cook it in nine minutes. Mueller's Spaghetti has a distinctive taste that never failed to tempt an appetite even on the hottest and most humid day. It cooks up amazingly light and fluffy—yet it is a real energy food.

Order a package of Mueller's Spaghetti from your grocer today—he has it or can get it for you. Serve it tonight and see how delighted your family will be. Avoid the common mistake of overcooking spaghetti. Boil it for nine minutes—though one or two minutes more may be allowed if extra tenderness is desired.

HADLEY HURLS NATS TO 5-4 VICTORY OVER TIGERS

Westbrook Pegler Says

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 18—Yesterday was a day of repining and self-reproach in Saratoga on account of that 100 to 1 shot, Jim Dandy, which came slogging along through the puddling out at the horse track to beat Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Travers Stakes. Approximately 50,000 people felt the same emotions as those parties in the fable who detoured their ox carts around the rock in the road and presently heard that a very humble member of their community, who was supposed to be not overly bright, though kindhearted, had heaved the rock aside, to discover a satchel of gold, which became his own by the rule of finders keepers.

This once seemed a highly preposterous story, but as one thinks over the episode of Jim Dandy, it takes on credibility. It seems almost as though the bookmakers on the lawn and hovering around their appointed stanchions under the stands had devised this dreadful affair as a rebuke to thoughtlessness, cupidity and pride. The sophisticated horse betters were most unkind to Jim Dandy, many harsh and derisive opinions of him being voiced as he went to the post, a gawky critter with a funny sheepskin strap across his nozzle, presuming to match his get along against the speed of Gallant Fox and Whichone.

Odds Were Insult To Any Horse.

And up to the very instant that the man up in the starter's pulpit snapped the garter with a stirring yell of "Hy-yah-git!" the bookmakers had been offering from $50 to $150 to $1 or almost any price one cared to name against him. It was an insult to any horse with four legs beneath him not to bet a few shillings on him in a four-horse race at such odds as that, and your correspondent, personally, has learned a lesson in manners and will never insult a 100 to 1 shot again. Ten dollars' worth of kind consideration for Jim Dandy would have paid $1,000 or $1,500 a few minutes later, and assuredly this thought was uppermost in the reflections of the many citizens who sat upon the verandas of the cottages and hotels or on the fire plugs along the main street of Saratoga, whiling away the longs hours of the Sabbath.

Very few parties have been discovered who actually wagered on Jim Dandy, but the town was positively stuffy with people who intended to buy a few dollars' worth of his stock and were actually on the way to do so when they stopped to have a sandwich or pass the time of day to one of the Whitneys.

One Touching Case Is Recounted.

One very touching case has come to your correspondent's notice. There was a party of fourteen at a table, twelve ladies and two gents. The ladies, due, perhaps, to the feminine instinct to order by the big numbers on the bill of fare, were fascinated by the price of 100 to 1 marked against Jim Dandy's name on their programs, so they put up $20 apiece and sent their gents off to post the same with a gambling man just by. They persisted in this folly over the protests of the shrewd and dominant mates, who almost decided to pocket the money themselves and underwrite the bet, but, providentially didn't. Before they left the horse track the ladies were waited upon by a courteous agent of the bookmaker and handed checks for $2,000 each, and the two gentlemen were still babbling and pouring themselves stiff shocks of sedative at noon Sunday.

It would have been an inexpensive act of kindness to the horse and cheap insurance for their domestic prestige to make the bet unanimous, but the bookmakers do say that the males generally regard the long shot as something effeminate and shun the same as being akin to the slave bracelets, crepe de chine underwear and perfume. The story of the $1,000 bet by Samuel Rosoff, the New York contractor who built the new Eighth avenue subway, has been revised in the direction of moderation, and it is now reported that Mr. Rosoff put only $5 on Jim Dandy to win and $50 to place at joint odds of 75 to 1.

Time Heals All, Fortunately.

Fortunately, time heals all, and as Sunday wore along toward dinner time the citizens were beginning to see humor in the disaster. The Negro hallboys in the old United States Hotel, doing their vast miles of road-work down the quarter-mile corridors with tinkling pitchers or trays of tomato juice for reviving sufferers, had learned to put the question in capsule form:

"Did you " said they. "Me neither, boss."

Out at the Whitney barn a shiny, seal-black colt tossed his head all day and hobbled on a ruined left foreleg in a stall that smelled of hospital odors. Whichone had taken all the run out of the great Gallant Fox, but when the Negro grooms led him off the track, bobbing his head in his awkward three-legged walk, he vanished from the turf for always, though, of course, he will reappear in his progeny a few years hence. Tom Healy and Jimmy Rowe, the trainers of the Whitney forces, sat on the stoop of their little green cottage a few yards away talking—of all things!—baseball, and particularly John McGraw's dismal travels about the minor leagues in search of one more pitcher.

Healy said Whichone was a gone racehorse now. Earlier in the season he was lamed by a quarter-crack, which seems to be a superficial split about the point where the hoof joins

NATIONAL MUNICIPAL NET PLAY WITNESSES DEFEAT OF YEOMANS

Bows to Baltimorean; Five Other Capital Hopes Remain.

Castle, No. 3 Seeded, Beaten by Simmons, of Louisville.

By JACK ESPEY.

FIVE of the six Washington players entered remain in the running for national public parks tennis titles as a result of yesterday's developments in the championship tournament at Rock Creek courts which saw one major upset in which Jack Castle, of Buffalo, third seeded player, was defeated by Arnold Simmons, of Louisville.

Eddie Yeomans, cohoder of the local parks doubles championship, was the lone Washingtonian eliminated. He bowed to Alex Keiles, municipal singles champion of Baltimore, in a furiously contested match, 5—7, 8—6, 6—4, 5—7, 6—3.

Those who still carry the Capital colors are Bob Considine, District of Columbia champion and former parks title holder; Dooly Mitchell, present parks singles champion; Mrs. Ruth Martinez, winner of the local women's parks singles crown, and Dorothy Kingsbury and Louise Omwake, who paired to win the parks doubles title.

All Five Listed To Play Today.

This quintet will play today. Considine, who advanced by the default of Walter R. Hicks, of New York City, will oppose the winner of the Robert Lake-Edward Phillips match at 3 p. m., while at the same time Mitchell, who drew a first-round bye, will engage James Keenan, of Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Martinez has for her second-round opponent Ethel Haas, 15-year-old Buffalo sensation, the favorite to win the title, and Miss Omwake will play Helen Germaine, of New York City. These contests also will take place at 3 o'clock. Miss Kingsbury will swing into action one hour earlier against Ann Lindemann, of St. Louis, this match having been postponed.

Prominent among the others surviving are George Jennings, jr., of Chicago, the defending men's singles champion who drew a bye; Jack DeLara, of Los Angeles, who was singles runner-up last year; Ted Drewes, of St. Louis, four times winner of the singles crown and undefeated in national parks tennis; Charles Lejeck, a member of the famous brother doubles team of Chicago and Helen Rupp, of Baltimore, who is regarded a dangerous contender for women's honors.

54 Men, 17 Women Comprise Field.

Fifty-four men and 17 women comprised the field as play started at 2 o'clock. Preceding the start the entire group accompanied by tournament officials were received by the President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House, where they were photographed.

The following were seeded in the men's singles: Jennings, first; DeLara, second; Castle, third; Considine, fourth; Drewes, fifth; Lejeck, sixth; Monte Tiller, of Louisville, seventh, and Robert Hall, of Louisville, eighth. No seeded group was named among the the fair stars as this is the first year they have been allowed in the tournament and there was not sufficient knowledge of their records to form a basis for ranking.

The Castle-Simmons match provided the biggest surprise of the day, but for sound, thrilling tennis the Yoemans-Keiles match occasioned the most discussion. Most of the 800 spectators surrounded the latter contest and remained in their places on the grass covered slopes adjoining the courts until the last point was counted.

Castle Beaten by Simmons' Control.

Castle, a 34-year-old veteran of national parks tournaments, who reached the semifinals last year, was bested at his own game by Simmons. The Buffalo star, wont to rely on steady driving and waiting for his foe to err, found the Louisville contender in superb control.

Yeomans, who defeated Considine in the local parks tourney last month and who has been playing fine tennis all season long, fought Keiles neck and neck for the decision. His blistering forehand drive and uncannily accurate backhand constantly kept the Baltimorean worried. But Keiles had more cleverness about him and

Robins Beaten in 9th On Double by Bartell

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Dick Bartell's double to deep left in the ninth with the bases loaded sent Paul Waner and Adam Comorosky scampering across the plate with the runs that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-3 decision over the Brooklyn Robins today. As a result of the defeat the Robins' lead over the third place Giants, who were idle was reduced to one-half a game.

Glenn Wright put Brooklyn ahead by one run when he slammed out a homer in the first half of the ninth. Clark, who gave Ervin Brame a great mound battle, weakened in the ninth, however, as P. Waner singled and Comorosky and Bool walked.

MACKS ROUT STEWART OF BROWNS

Stage 4-Run Rally in 8th to Win, 6-4; 19th for Earnshaw.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—A four-run rally that drove Walter Stewart out of the box in the eighth inning gave the Athletics their second straight victory over the St. Louis Browns today by a score of 6 to 4. The champions' uprising wiped out the Browns' lead of 4 to 2.

George Earnshaw, who lasted the distance for the Mackmen, was credited with his nineteenth win of the season. Mickey Cochrane's eighth home run of the season started the winning rally in the eighth and was followed by three doubles and a single. Ralph Kress hit for the circuit in the sixth.

By their victory, the Athletics retained their lead of 8½ games over the second place Washington Club which beat the Tigers.

Yanks Have Monopoly On Individual Honors

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees are 10½ games back of the Athletics in the American League pennant race, but they are well on their way to name a few of the individual championships. Of the eight individual leaders, six wear New York uniforms. Lou Gehrig holds down the batting, the most hits and most runs batted in divisions, while Babe Ruth has scored the most runs and pounded out the largest number of homers. Combs completes the Yankee domination, with the most triples leadership.

WILSON'S 42D HOMER AID TO CUBS

Take 3½ Game Lead, Beating Phils, 17-3, as Robins Lose.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The Cubs accomplished more constructive work on their job of building up a lead in the National League pennant battle today, mauling Philadelphia, 17 to 3, for their third straight in the series, and giving them a three and one-half game margin over Brooklyn, which lost to Pittsburgh.

Perce Malone held the Phillies to eight hits and accounted for his fifteenth victory of the season. The Cubs belabored Hensen and Phillips for 17 safeties and used nine bases on balls to advantage. Woody English walked four times, hit once and scored five Cub runs.

Hack Wilson slammed out his forty-second home run of the season to open a six-run rally in the eighth, and was only one circuit drive away from the league record set last season by Chuck Klein, of the Phillies, who saw the drive sail into the bleachers. Malone also hit for the circuit, getting his with a man on in the fourth.

Nose Decides Feature at Saratoga

3d Place in Consolation Claiming Race to Joanne E.

Valenciennes Beats Choice in Handicap for Mares.

By GEORGE DALEY.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, Aug. 18 (N. Y.W.N.S.).—After the tumult of last Saturday the racing at the Saratoga Association's course today was rather tame. Horses of the cheaper class filled the six events and put up a fairly good show, but there were few thrills.

The Consolation Claiming Stakes, a well-named event, for 2-year-olds, that had been nominated for the United States Hotel, Grand Union Hotel, Spinaway and Hopeful Stakes, but had been declared out because they proved not to be top class, had the place of honor on the program. It was won by Sydka, a chestnut filly by John P. Grier—Pay Girl, which beat E. R. Bradley's Burgoo, by a nose, and it was the best race and finish of the card.

Burgoo Closes With A Rush.

Sydka was the favorite and she showed a smart turn of speed. However, in the stretch Burgoo closed with a thrilling rush and just lacked a nose of getting the purse of $2,430.

Joanne E., which was closest to the pace most of the way, was third, three lengths behind. The time was 1:06 3-5.

Mrs. John D. Hertz's colors were carried to victory in the Waterblossom Handicap for mares at 7 furlongs. Valenciennes, the daughter of Stefan the Great, beating W. R. Coe's Sweep Out, the 9-to-10 favorite, by a length, while the Wheatley Stable's Erin, with Sande up, was third. The time was 1:24 4-5.

The afternoon's card started off with a surprise when Mrs. Clyde Phillips' Zeal, a 15-to-1 shot, came down in front in the claiming race at 1 mile. Tony Joe taking the place by as much from Moonstruck. The time was 1:39. Chatover, the favorite, led to the stretch turn, where he tired badly, and the placed horses ran over him.

44 Grid Candidates Will Report at V. P. I.

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Aug. 16.—Forty-four men will report to coaches Orville Neal and Lyal Clark on Labor Day to begin four weeks of preliminary football training at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. The season will open September 28 against Roanoke College in Miles Stadium.

Coaches Neal and Clark are new pilots of the V. P. I. grid ship, replacing Andy Gustafson and Lee Frank, whose Pitt tactics sent the famous Pony Express and other sets of Gobbler backs on scoring sprees up and down the Atlantic Seaboard. The new mentors will install the Penn State style of play.

Almost everything in the way of football will be new at V. P. I. this fall. Not only are the system and the style play new to the squad; the majority of the candidates for the team will be sophomores on the threshold of their first year of varsity ball. To these and to several reserves of last year the coaches are looking for talent to replace the eleven lettermen who graduated last June.

Candidates expected to report are:

Myer's Miscue Paves Way for 3-Run Rally in 6th Inning.

Hadley Allows Only 6 Hits; Nats Still 8½ Games Behind A's.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

IRVING HADLEY yesterday pitched the Nationals to a 5 to 4 victory over the Detroit Tigers to make it two wins out of three games for Washington in the series so far, this triumph enabling Manager Walter Johnson's charges to hold their own with the Athletics, who are eight and one-half games ahead, and with the challenging third-place Yankees, who are but two games behind, these two teams also turning in victories.

The Nats hopped on Elam Hogsett's slants for an early five-run lead and just managed to hold it, although the fault was not Hadley's. He allowed but six hits, walked only one and struck out six, and only one of the Tigers' runs was earned, the trio garnered in the sixth coming after Myer had kicked in with a costly error. Kuhel and Cronin also were charged with miscues during the pastime, but all three more than made up for their fielding lapses by their work with the willow.

Myer led the Washington attack with three singles, Cronin was credited with a triple and double, while Kuhel had a double and single to show for his trips to the tee, with each of the latter pair driving two mates home. Gehringer and McManus, with two hits each, led the Tiger attack.

Triple by Cronin Scores Myer.

Although Hogsett had plenty of "stuff" and fanned two in the first round, he also was scored on twice. Myer led off with a scratch single past Koenig and, after the next two went out, Cronin tripled him home and scored a moment later on Kuhel's double.

With two out in the fourth, the Nats molded another marker. McLeod, playing third while Bluege was resting, doubled sharply to right-center and tallied on Ruel's liner to the middle pasture. Two more native runs were scored in the next session and then the Johnsons hardly threatened thereafter, Whitlow Wyatt, who took the hill against them starting round 6 holding them to but two wasted hits over the remainder of the route.

Washington's runs in the fifth frame resulted from Myer's opening single, Manush's sacrifice after Rice had hit into a force-play, Cronin's double and Kuhel's single.

Tigers Threaten In First.

Despite the fact that Hadley held them hitless, the Tigers threatened in their first. Kuhel's error giving Funk, lead-off man, life at first and his theft and Koenig's sacrifice advancing him to third with only one gone. McLeod came in fast for Gehringer's roller, however, and nipped Funk trying to score on the tap.

There were no more threatening gestures by the Jungle Cats until the sixth, when they scored three times. Bases on balls always seem to be costly to Hadley and he issued his only one of the game to Funk, first up in this round. With a double play in sight, Myer let Koenig's grasser skid through his legs and all hands were safe. Gehringer doubled one home, another scored on Alexander's useful out, while McManus' single propelled the final run over the counting block. Cronin pegged wildly past first trying for a double play on Stone's tap, but this miscue did not figure in the run-scoring.

Detroit's final run came in the eighth, which Gehringer opened with his second double of the day. He advanced on an out and scored when McLeod threw late to the plate after fielding McManus' slow grasser. Hadley then checked this baby rally pronto and breezed through the rest of the game, fanning Stone in that round and Hayworth and Funk in the final.

ARGYLES WANT GAME.

The Argyles want unlimited class opposition for Sunday. Call Manager Hollis at Georgia 2747-M. Practice is booked on the Reservoir Field tomorrow at 5:30 o'clock.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

JOE KUHEL inserted his second error in as many straight games when his fumble gave Funk, Tiger lead-off man, life opening yesterday's game. He made up for this on the next play, however, when he made a fine one-hand catch at arm's length on Hadley's weird toss after fielding Koenig's sacrifice.

Heinie Manush must have stopped to pick dandelions while running out his tap to Gehringer in the first, with Myer on first at the time. The Tiger second baseman had time to run toward second trying to catch Myer, and although his toss there was late Koenig's throw to first still beat the Nats' left fielder.

Chief Hogsett fanned two Nats in both the first and second innings. Rice, West, McLeod and Hadley were the victims.

Although the Tigers managed to get a man as far as third in the opening round, their first hit did not come until the third, when Hayworth led off with a single.

Myer singled his first two trips up while opening the first and third. Both blows were scratch ones, but they coun

NATS SEEK TO HALT WHITEHILL'S WINNING STREAK

SouthpawAce Has Won 10 Straight

Brown Due to Face Star of Tigers' Box Staff Today.

McLeod Plays Third With Rest Ordered for Bluege.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

IN seeking to win today's game, which the Nationals must take in order to gain the series edge over the Tigers, the Johnsons also will be trying to break Southpaw Earl Whitehill's winning streak, which now has reached ten straight. These victories have been no flukes, for Whitehill has both started and finished all of these games, which is believed to be an all-time record.

Other pitchers have won more successive games, of course, Walter Johnson once stretching a victory string to sixteen, while Rube Marquard's record of nineteen stands as a National League mark. In both of these strings, however, some of these victories either were turned in while Marquard or Johnson were filling relief roles or they had to call for help themselves.

While hanging up his 10 total, Whitehill granted only 34 runs, only 24 of which were earned, giving him an earned run average of but 2.2-5 per game. On three occasions, twice against the Athletics and once against the Chisox, the little southpaw retired the side on strikes. His present record is thirteen victories against nine defeats, Whitehill having won eleven of his last twelve starts.

The Nationals, however, have beaten him twice in their three starts against him and are confident that they can do so again today, especially if Lloyd Brown, scheduled to do the mound work for them, is as effective as he was his last time out when he went the route while downing the White Sox.

McLeod Plays While Bluege Rests.

Sammy McLeod played at third in yesterday's game and may be seen holding down this berth for the next few days. "Bluege is the only one of our regulars, except Cronin, who has been playing day in and day out and is pretty well worn out. Besides, he has been complaining that his left leg, the one on which an operation was performed last fall, is slightly stiff," said Manager Johnson yesterday, "and I thought it best to give him a little rest. I'm confident that 'Mac' can put up a good game at third and believe that this experience will do him lots of good. At the same time it will give me an opportunity of getting a true line on his ability."

Catcher Roy Spencer is handicapped by a sore arm and gave way to Muddy Ruel yesterday.

Guy Cantrell, former Nat, who was one of those taken away from the Washington Club and declared free agent by Baseball Commissioner Landis in the spring of 1929, pitched to the Tiger batters in pregame stick practice yesterday. The big fellow won fourteen while losing but four while with Toronto this season and was bought by Detroit. He has been pounded off the hill in his only starts since joining the Harrismen.

Scout Joe Engel showed up again at Washington Club headquarters, as usual reporting that he saw no talent not already tied up that he thought would do the Nats any good.

The Tigers, who trained at the Nats' old stamping grounds at Tampa last spring, are going to do their 1931 conditioning at Sacramento, Manager Harris stated yesterday.

You can't keep a good man down. Sunday night a physician was called for Tiger Third Baseman Marty McManus in the belief that he was suffering from an acute attack of appendicitis. Yesterday he was on the job again just as peppery as ever.

iastic fan who was sleeping near the Nat dugout.

Easterling's first chance of the game was Cronin's liner in the seventh, which the left-fielder turned into a double-play, getting the ball to second before Manush, who had doubled, could get back to the cushion.

An epidemic of two-base blows has been raging in Griffith Stadium since Sunday. In the Sabbath engagement with the Tigers, they poled out seven two-baggers and the Nats one. Yesterday, eight more were registered four for each team.

West's liner to Funk in the eighth was the first chance accepted by the Tiger center-fielder.

"Pinky" Hargrave, former Nat, batted for Wyatt in the ninth. Hadley's first three offerings were balls, but he finally got the batter out, forcing him to foul to Ruel.

Match of Jim Dandy, Reveille Boy Planned

Chicago, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—A match race between the two biggest upset winners of the racing season—Reveille Boy and Jim Dandy—may feature Hawthorne's fall meeting.

John Schank, president of the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association, is negotiating for a race between the pair. Reveille Boy popped up to win the American Derby at Washington Park, and paid $113.08 for $2, while Jim Dandy scored an even more stunning upset last Saturday in defeating Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Travers at Saratoga, N. Y., paying around $100 to $1.

Churchill Downs Race Dates Moved Ahead

Latonia, Ky., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—A change in Kentucky fall racing dates so that the Churchill Downs races at Louisville will be run prior to the Latonia meet was sanctioned by the State Racing Commission meeting here today.

Under the new schedule Churchill Downs will open October 4 and close October 16, having eleven days of racing. Latonia will open October 18 and close November 15, with 25 days of racing.

Fall racing in Kentucky will begin with the Lexington meet, opening September 13 and closing September 20. All opening and closing dates will be on Saturdays, except the closing at Churchill Downs.

—Saratoga Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 18.—The Sanford, for 2-year-olds, features the Saratoga program. There is tragedy, so far as horses go, in mentioning renewals of this stake. In 1919 in the roll of past winners appears the name of Upset. It marked the only defeat, an undeserved one, of the greatest horse by common consent this country ever saw, Man o' War.

The lunging chestnut was turned the wrong way of the track when the starter shouted "go," and in a twinkling Upset was on his way, far out in front, a good horse, with light weight. Finally Johnny Loftus righted Man o' War, then a 2-year-old, unbeaten, and one of the short-odds horses of history.

The way Man o' War ate up the ground and drew alongside of Upset lives in the memory of all who saw it. But he made up this ground only to be pocketed. When he worked his way out of the tangle, he was pocketed again, and this defeat was never charged to the dazzling superhorse.

In this renewal of the Sanford, there appears no match for Upset, much less Man o' War, but among the season's juveniles, the field is a good one, with thirteen on the card to start. SUN MEADOW, a stake winner here as well as in Chicago, may repeat in this 6-furlong test. B'AR HUNTER figures high in the race, and also was a Chicago winner, as well as at Belmont Park. The race appears largely between the two on the best races of each. CONDESCEND is very fast and should be in the money, on first glance. CONCORD must be set down as dangerous. SURF BOARD is a good one, but seems anchored with weight, and ORMESBY, not believed in top form, will have a following. But SUN MEADOW has run a better race than any juvenile in this field.

FIRST RACE—This is for 3-year-old fillies, and victory should perch with SPELLBOUND. Garner will ride. Her best race was at Belmont Park and, if repeated, will win more easily in this field. FLOSSINE, a winner at this meeting, her only start recently, will be the contender at this meeting. FLOSSINE probably will be the favorite. KEEP ON can not be overlooked.

SECOND RACE—CEYLON PRINCE is in fine condition, according to the workout sheets. The old campaigner is picked to win in the second at a mile and a furlong, just his distance. He has little weight and will have an apprentice in the saddle, but is a horse easily managed. PUNISHMENT and RECEDE have more early speed, but the distance is in CEYLON PRINCE'S favor. SANFORD has an outside chance, as has SCOT'S GREY.

FOURTH RACE—This race has three horses entered for the mile Chestertown Purse. CURATE will be the favorite. He has just missed in two big stakes, one at Chicago. The Widener horse was beaten by his former stablemate, MARINE, in one of the hardest fought races of this meeting. He will have CARUSO to whip in this race, and on the recent form of the Coe horse he should do so easily. ELECTA is the other starter, and she has speed for a mile.

FIFTH RACE—ADEQUATE is selected in the fifth race, a handicap at a mile, in which he has been well treated by the handicapper, having 107 pounds including apprentice allowance. ALDERSHOT, scratched yesterday, should offer the strongest opposition. CHARON has the best chance for the show money.

SIXTH RACE—Twenty-one maiden 2-year-olds start in this race, barring withdrawals, and a few would help the race. BONNIE BARD is selected, and her work bears this out. RUSTICUS and EXALT seem to be the contenders. MORROLL may surprise.

Gallant Fox Tampering Denied by Woodward

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—William Woodward, owner of Gallant Fox, took cognizance of reports that his champion 3-year-old had been tampered with at Chicago and denied emphatically today that he had ever intimated or that it had crossed his mind that all was not well with his star prior to the running of the Arlington Park classic.

The vice president of the jockey club spoke for his trainer, James Fitzsimmons, as well as for the other employes of the stable. He said that such a thing was unthinkable and that the Arlington Park Jockey Club had protected the horse at all times.

ZEAL broke very slow, but worked his way up and, closing with a rush in the stretch, won going away. He fought his way through between MOONSTRUCK and CHATOVER in last furlong. TONY JOE, outrun for six furlongs, moved up fast on the outside and, closing gamely, was next best. MOONSTRUCK slipped through on inside and stood a long drive gamely. CHATOVER had plenty of early speed, but weakened fast. MONTFERRAT ran well for six furlongs.

MADIOLA was much the best. She was rated off early pace and, fencing well, moved up very fast in last half mile to take the lead and won in a gallop. LIGHT TOUCH moved up with a good burst of speed, but stopped badly after clearing last fence. REASON WHY trailed far back, but easily disposed of BANNER DAY for third money. The latter was a dull favorite, but ran dully throughout and finally stopped to a walk. COQ GRIS lacked speed and fenced poorly.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $7,500. The Consolation. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:11½. Off at 4:14. Winner, John Speed's ch. f. SYDKA, away fast, was rushed to front, raced JOANNE E. into submission and then withstood the determined challenge of BURGOO. The latter, going in much improved form, closed with a great rush. JOANNE E. broke fast, showed good speed and held on gamely. BRANDON DARE, away slowly as usual, closed with a good rush. ALPINE GIRL closed a big gap. TRANSFORMATION had no mishaps.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,200 added. The Water Blossom Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:37½. Off at 4:37½. Winner, W. VALENCIENNES broke slow and was badly outrun for the first half mile, came around field in stretch, closed with a rush and won going away. SWEEPOUT was rated along all the way and failed to open her customary wide lead in early part. ERIN, well ridden, kept well up and had no mishaps. LADY CAPULET followed fast early pace all the way and held on gamely. MY SIS was knocked out of it by ERIN.

SPINACH was much the best. He was allowed to gallop back of the early pace to the far turn, where he took command to win galloping. FORTUNATE YOUTH was well up from start and ran a good, game race. BUCKEYE POET moved up fast on inside in stretch and held on well. BUD BROOM was pinched back at far turn and never recovered. MARTIS could not keep up.

YANKS WIN, 11-4, OVER CHISOX

Gehrig Hits Homer, 2 On; Pennock Tight in Pinches.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Aided by some timely hitting on the part of his teammates, Herb Pennock won his tenth game of the season today as the New York Yankees clubbed out a 11-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox. The victory gave the Yankees their sixteenth triumph of the last 22 starts.

Pennock was hit hard, but, as usual, was stingy with the blows with men on bases, and he did not give a base on balls. Lou Gehrig drove out his thirty-fifth home run with two aboard in the sixth, while Reynolds, who made four hits for the Sox, cleaned the bases with a double in the seventh. The honor of leading the Yankees' attack, however, went to Ben Chapman, who pounded out four hits in five times at the plate.

Umpire Moriarty chased Manager Bush of the Sox from the park in the first inning for arguing over a questionable hit by Byrd.

the leg, but the new injury is in another leg and deep inside, a rupture of the sheath in which the big tendon operates. He will have to mend quickly to be well enough to leave for the farm by the time the Saratoga meeting ends.

Whichone and Gallant Fox ran a horse race as stirring in its way as the first round of the Dempsey-Firpo prize fight. They went by the stand in the first leap for an advantage amid such a creak of leather, rumble of hoofs and coughing of breath, pierced by the yelps of the jockeys, as fictioneers often tell of, but the patrons seldom hear up in the stands. This horse race was a fight and the two animals seemed to recognize only one another, ignoring Jim Dandy and Sun Falcon until they had run themselves weary and the 100-to-1 shot slid by. Just as Fred Fulton might have knocked out Dempsey when Firpo finally flopped down and out.

Mr. Healy said it was a suicide race. He saw Whichone go lame in the back stretch when the horse seemed to lose a stride and Sande's color, on Gallant Fox, suddenly went about a quarter of a length in front from a neck-and-neck position.

Just what the horse race proved as to Jim Dandy is not quite plain. Mr. Healy says it might even prove that he is a race horse, but the obvious moral of the case is that nobody should think or speak unkindly of 100-to-1 shots.

NAVY YARD DEFEATS NAVAL HOSPITAL IN SERIES

Kuhnert Star As Sailors Bow, 6-3

Southpaw Halts Late Rallies of Hospital Nine to Win.

Yardsmen May Clinch Government League Title Today.

LEFTY KUHNERT, who was pitching baseball when some of his sailor opponents were launching paper boats in the bathtub, hurled the Navy Yard Club to a 6-3 victory over the Naval Hospital Team yesterday in the opening clash of a three-game series for the Government League championship and the right to represent that circuit in the weekday leagues titular series which gets under way on Thursday.

But the nine other Navy Yard players shared the glory with Kuhnert. They gave the southpaw good support, aiding in pulling him out of several rather embarrassing situations. In all, Kuhnert turned in a neat performance, allowing six hits, scattered for the most part and fanned four batters.

Ingram Hurls for Sailors.

Ingram climbed the South Ellipse mound for the Sailors and was in creditable form. He was nicked for 10 hits and hurled well enough to win a majority of ordinary games.

Navy Yard was first to score, shoving over three runs in the second inning. Naval Hospital made its first tally in the fifth which the Yardmen matched in their half of the frame. In the sixth, Navy Yard Made it 6—1. Naval Hospital scored one in each of the seventh and eighth innings.

Candle and Mattingly led the Navy attack with two singles each while Reigleman came through with a double in his only time at bat. Payne was the only sailor to get more than one hit.

The second game of the series will be played today on the South Ellipse field at 5 o'clock. Crews is expected to carry the pitching hopes of the Sailors today. Ray Harover or Swygert will do the hurling for Navy Yard.

played good tennis to turn back Mrs. K. J. Sherber, of England, 7—5, 6—4.

Penelope Anderson, of Richmond, Va., kept the South in the running by overcoming Dorothy Andrus, a sturdy young player from Stamford, Conn., 11—9, 6—4, but the Far West and the East were the sections that captured most of the 32 places in the second round.

Nine of California's best were still in the battle and intent on keeping the title in the Golden State despite the absence of Mrs. Moody and Helen Jacobs the first and second ranking players of the country.

Eastern hopes for the championship rested primarily upon Sarah Palfrey, Eleanor Goss, the New York veteran, who easily subdued Eleanor Cottmann, of Baltimore, 6—2, 6—2, and Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., who drew a bye and will not see action until tomorrow.

Tomorrow's feature matches, to be played on the stadium center court, follow:

Singles.

1 p. m. (Eastern standard time)—Miss Morrill, Dedham, Mass., vs. Clara Zinke, Cincinnati.

2 p. m.—Baroness Levi vs. Florence Leboutilliere, Westbury, N. Y.; Sarah Palfrey vs. Mrs. B. F. Stenz, New York.

3 p. m.—Betty Nuthall vs. Mrs. A. J. Lamme, Rye, N. Y.

FIRST ROUND.

Carolyn Roberts, New Rochelle, N. Y., defeated Theodosia Smith, Chicago, 6—2, 6—0; Mrs. Mary J. Lamme, Rye, N. Y., defeated Mary Z. McHale, Dallas, 6—1, 6—1; Carolyn Babcock, Los Angeles, defeated Virginia Cross, Providence, 6—1, 6—1; Elizabeth D. Warren, Richmond, Va., won from Mrs. Beryl Cape, Bermuda, by default; Edith Sigourney, Nahant, Mass., defeated Mrs. F. M. Letson, New York, 6—2, 6—0; Catherine Wolf, Indianapolis, defeated Mrs. K. J. Latona Retains Net Crown In City Playground Finals

MUNICIPAL PLAYGROUND tennis champions were determined yesterday with the honors going to individuals in widely scattered sections of the city. Anthony Latona won the boys' senior singles for the second consecutive year and Clyde Smith captured the junior singles. Grace Taylor and Catherine Griggs won the girls' doubles championship. Latona is from Georgetown Playground, Smith from Bloomingdale, and the Misses Taylor and Griggs are from Hoover.

Latona gained his title by defeating Robert Smith, of Happy Hollow, in straight sets, 6—1, 6—1. The Georgetown champ was superior in every department of play and the match had progressed but a short time before there was little doubt as to the final outcome.

Quite the contrary was true of the Hunt-Smith match. Although the Bloomingdale courtman defeated Hunt in straight sets, 6—2, 6—2, there was but little difference in the brand of game played by the pair. Nearly all of the games went to deuce and Hunt, who got but few of the breaks, made a valiant fight until the final point was settled.

Miss Taylor and Miss Griggs won the coveted girls' title by defeating Zabeth Miller and Betty Brook, of Montrose, 3—6, 6—1 and 6—4. This match was also a thriller and it required all the skill that the Southwest lassies could summon to gain the verdict over the Georgetown racket wielders.

Texas Cowboy Plays With U. S. Polo Team

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Herbert W. (Rube) Williams, a Texas cowpuncher, galloped today right into the midst of the battle for positions on the "Big Four" of American polo, being groomed to meet the British for the international cup this September.

As a result of Williams' sensational performance among the substitute forces, reaching a climax in his brilliant play at Port Washington yesterday, Capt. Tommy Hitchcock today announced a shake-up in the "Whites" or varsity combination by which Williams replaces Earle A. S. Hopping at No. 2 for the next test match, Wednesday afternoon, at the Piping Rock Club.

Mandell and Kane Part; To Manage Self

Chicago, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Sammy Mandell, former world lightweight champion, and Eddie Kane, his manager for nine years, came to the parting of the ways today.

Mandell will continue to box, but not under Kane's management. Kane's contract with the Sheik of Rockford, Ill., does not expire until July 6, 1931. He says he will enforce it to the extent of collecting his share of Mandell's ring earnings until the expiration of the contract.

Kane is authority for the statement that Mandell has earned $400,000 during their nine years of association. Mandell plans to handle his own affairs, with the assistance of Teddy Bodkin, a friend.

England Gets 405 Runs In Cricket Test Battle

London, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—England completed its first innings today in the cricket test match with Australia, scoring 405.

Herbert Sutcliffe, who held the team together when collapse threatened on Saturday, carried his score from 138 to 161. R. E. S. Wyatt, England's captain, scored 64.

The tailenders were soon disposed of, and the Australians commenced their reply. Thirty-six runs for the loss of no wicket had been scored by lunch time by W. M. Woodful and W. H. Ponsford, the opening pair of batsmen. At the close of play for the day Australia had scored 215 for two wickets.

YEOMANS DEFEATED IN MUNICIPAL PLAY appeared to be the steadiere, this latter advantage factoring prominently in the fifth set.

Returning intermission trailing in sets, 1 to 2, Yeomans rallied strongly and took the fourth set at 7—5. This hard effort exacted a toll in strength and the Washington youth, after breaking through in the first game of the final set, rapidly faded from the picture. Keiles took the lead never to be headed by making good his own service at love in the fifth game, following which he broke Yeomans' delivery in the sixth and won at love on his own in the seventh.

Keiles Throws Away Match Point.

Keiles reached match point in the eighth game, but through a sportsmanlike gesture failed to end the struggle there. The referee had decided that Yeomans double faulted to make the score 40—15. As there was some doubt about the point, Keiles purposely dropped the next point by hitting outside, and Yeomans subsequently pulled the game out of the fire. The match closed in the ninth game with the Baltimorean whipping over two placements and his for twice driving out.

Thomas "Bud" Markey, with whom Yeomans won the local municipal doubles title last month, but who was found ineligible to represent Washington and was chosen to play for his native Indianapolis, advanced to the second round by deefating Pat Deck, representing Leesburg, Va., 6—2, 6—3, 6—4.

Mrs. Martinez was given a terrific struggle by Ann Slatmeyer, women's champion, of Lakewood, Ohio. Miss Omwake scored over Frances Rousse, of Detroit, displaying an effective chop stroke, for an 8—6, 6—2 victory.

Police Nine Defeated By Ft. Humphries

Infield errors cost the Police Department Nine a game yesterday, Fort Humphreys winning by 12 to 11 in a battle at the fort. The work of Outfielder Speiss featured the contest. He knocked a homer in the first inning with the bases loaded and contributed the feature catch, robbing Hartis of an extra-base blow and doubling a man off second. Hartis and Henry led the winning attack with three hits each, the former getting a homer.

The police play a second game with the Lorton Prisoners on Thursday. Friday they meet the St. Elizabeths Nine on the hospital field and Saturday journey to the Skinker diamond for a battle with the Eagles.

The first hole at the Argyle Club is a par 5, so that if three players had a total of fifteen strokes they could truthfully be said to be good golfers. Last Sunday the hole was negotiated in ten strokes—two eagles and a birdie.

The golfers were William P. DiEste, John J. Lynch and M. E. Oliveri. Their drives went a long distance down the fairway, almost to the ditch which is supposed to penalize a missed second shot. It was then an easy iron to the green. DiEste, twenty feet from the cup, holed out his 3. Oliveri had a 15-foot putt and missed his 3 by the proverbial hair. Lynch, twelve feet away, ran his ball into the cup for another eagle 3. Two eagles and a birdie by three players on the same hole is some record.

PLAYGROUND HONORS TO JOHNSON

Wins Conference Title With 101½ Points; Osias Stars

NOTICE was served yesterday on the various playground track teams that the Johnson-Powell aggregation coached by Tom McCarthy is a serious contender for the city championship when the boys from in back of the Arcadia swamped their opposition to take the Northwestern Conference title with 101½ points in the annual meet at the Cooke Playground.

The New York Avenue Ground, exhibiting a game little group, was second, with 21 points, to 19 for Cooke, and 12½ for Twin Oaks. Other grounds to score points were: Weightman, 11; Mitchell Park, 10; Happy Hollow, 6; Chevy Chase, 3; Bancroft, 3.

The Johnson-Powell Team took 15 of the 21 first places and virtually swept the field in the 115-pound and unlimited classes, taking first place in every vent. The winners took the majority of points in every class except the 70-pound division, where the New York Avenue Team accounted for three firsts.

Among the Johnson-Powell stars were Sweeney, Graves, Osias, Admire, Blaine and the Cusmano Brothers. The Ellwood brotehrs were prominent in the point-scoring for New York Avenue.

Graves, of Johnson-Powell, won the half-mile race in a close finish.

The feature of the day was the 115-pound relay won by Johnson-Powell. Admire, the first man, fell at the turn, but got up after losing more than 10 yards to the field. He made up some ground. Fernande and Trundle gained and then Camilo Osias, anchor man, gave his team the victory by inches in a thrilling finish.

70-POUND CLASS.

50-YARD DASH—Won by Ellwood (N. Y. Avenue); second, Williams (Bancroft); third, Reese (Cooke).

Tilden Battles Limp to Win Match From Vines, 9-7, 6-2

Defeat Looms for Veteran, Bothered by Painful Injury, But Coast Youth Bows to Experience at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden, suffering from injuries that made every step a painful one, today called upon his great wealth of tennis experience to turn back Ellsworth Vines, rising young Californian, in the veteran's first match in defense of his Newport Casino invitations singles championship.

This match was the most thrilling encounter of the 36 first and second round matches that were completed before an early evening shower put a stop to the play. The small opening day gallery saw the seven times national champion who had been top seeded, limp through a fierce 24-game battle with the cool youngster before overcoming him by margins of 9—7, 6—2.

Defeat Looms For Veteran.

Many times during the opening set Tilden appeared doomed to humiliating defeat. His injured hip prevented him from making any kind of an attempt to cover his court, and during the early games he was forced to use all of his great stroking skill to stay even with Vines.

Service was held for a dozen games before Tilden's terrific service and returns became annoying to the Californian. The veteran's furious speed seemed to dull Vines' sense of accuracy, for there were many times when he belted an overhead smash to the sidelines, catching Tilden off balance on the other side of the court. Most of these shots failed to result in earned points by fractions of inches and it was the close "outs" that enabled Tilden to break through Vines' service in the fifteenth game and save his own in the following one for the set.

Limp More Pronounced In Second Set.

Tilden's limp became more pronounced during the second set, but at this stage Vines was greatly upset by his narrow misses, and he was completely overwhelmed by the grim veteran, who broke three of his four second set services.

All of the other seeded players on the American list were able to survive their opening matches and the only setback that was unexpected came when John S. Millen, of New York, a newcomer to major tennis tournaments, defeated Keith Werner, of Los Angeles, in a grueling extra set match, 3—6, 6—4, 9—7.

George Kelly to Cubs In Minneapolis Deal

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—"Long George" Kelly's baseball travels have brought him to Chicago, where his famous uncle, Bill Lange, played more than 30 years ago for Capt. Anson.

George Lange Kelly today was obtained from Minneapolis of the Western Association, by the Cubs in a trade involving Malcolm Moss, left-handed pitcher, and another player to be named later this week. Kelly will report tomorrow and probably will be sent to first base to play until Charlie Grimm recovers from a spike wound, suffered Saturday.

Kelly spent fourteen seasons of baseball in the National League, most of them with the New York Giants. He went to the Cincinnati Reds in 1927, where he remained until about a month ago when he was released. He signed with Minneapolis and in 33 games had compiled a batting average of .352.

GRID DRILLS AT W. & L. SEPT. 1

44 Men, Including 14 Lettermen, Expected to Report.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Aug. 18.—Enthusiastic letters and reports of summer activities which will prepare them for the strenuous ten-game football schedule of the Washington and Lee Generals this fall have already been received by Head Coach Eugene Oberst from many of the 44 men who will report here for practice September 1.

A number of the Generals have chosen the hardest of outdoor work to fit them for their strain on the gridiron which begins with a game with Randolph-Macon at Lexington, September 20. To find this exercise some of them have traveled many miles from home.

Tilson, guard and center, reports that he is driving mules in a Texas construction camp. F. D. Williams, half back, sends word that he has been punching cattle in Montana. Others write of jobs as camp counselors. And from the bush leagues throughout the country come messages to Oberst that his proteges are working out on the diamond.

Enough Lettermen to Make Team.

If necessary, Coach Oberst reports, an entire team can be made up of the fourteen letter men who will return this fall, all of whom are good players. The letter men returning are Groop, center; Day, end; Jones, half back; Faulkner, tackle; Thibodeau, half back; Williams, end; Bailey, tackle; Bledsoe, end; Harris, guard; Holstein, guard; Gene Martin, quarter back; Mattox, half back; Mitchell, full back, and Bob Martin, guard.

Because of a Southern Conference ruling, this year's squad can not report for practice until Labor Day. This will allow Oberst and his back field assistant, W. E. "Bus" Malone, less than three weeks in which to prepare their team for the opening game of the season. Strict training rules will go into effect the first day of practice. The squad will be limited to four teams this year, in order that the coaching staff may devote a larger amount of time to each man.

MEDICINE FOR WORMS.

WHAT is the best worm medicine? That depends on the kind of worm you have in mind. The medicine that is best for one kind may not be even moderately effective against another. Again, even with the same species of worm, a medicine that is most effective against females is not so against males. Other factors may enter. Therefore, the answer to the question with which we started must be something of a compromise.

In his very comprehensive book entitled "Hookworm Disease," Dr. Asa G. Candler give his answer to the question as it relates to hookworm. It is a mixture of 4 parts carbon tetrachloride and 1 part ascaridal. Ascaridal is an extract of chenopodium. Chenopodium, known as wormseed, grows abuntantly in many parts of America. It has long enjoyed a reputation as a remedy for round worms. If ascaridal is not available, Dr. Chandler advises 4 parts carbon tetrachloride and 2 parts oil of chenopodium. Of this he advises 30 minims, or 2 c. c. He gives either the two medicines together or else he gives the carbon tetrachlorida dissolved in a solution of water containing an ordinary dose of ordinary salts, and fifteen minutes later the oil of chenopodium is given in capsules. This figures out, say, 20 grains or minims of carbon tetrachloride and 10 minims of oil of chenopodium.

Both carbon tetrachloride and chenopodium are good medicines for hookworm. But by combining them we get a safe mixture that is more efficient than is either of the ingredients taken alone, and the doses are smaller than they would otherwise need be. It is advisable to repeat this dose in about ten days. A third dose is sometimes advised.

The cautious are against giving castor oil or any other oil or alcohol within 12 to 24 hours after taking carbon tetrachloride.

Pregnant women, invalids and children tolerate this mixture well. Since a dose of salts is given with the worm medicine, it is not necessary to follow up this treatment with any additional purgation.

IT IS A HARMFUL DISORDER.

Mrs. M. R. writes: 1. I am about to be maried to a person who has scrofula. His parents also have it. Is it harmful?

2. Will it have any effect on me in married life?

3. Will it affect our children?

4. Can it be cured?

REPLY.

1. Scrofula is tuberculosis of the glands and sometimes with skin involvement. It is harmful.

2. Probably not.

3. A child can contract tuberculosis from a scrofulous parent if the glands are discharging.

4. Yes.

STOCKS REGAIN LOSS AFTER SHARP SLUMP

Bears Apply Pressure, But Business Is Confined to Floor Traders.

EARNINGS ARE REPORTED

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Reactionary commodity markets encouraged the bear faction to apply further pressure to the stock market today, but again the market was found to have been hammered down about as far as it could go.

Stocks sold off sharply for a time in the morning, and a few individual issues developed acute weakness, but pivotal stocks were well supported, no general public liquidation could be shaken loose, so share prices rose almost as quickly as they fell when shorts tried to buy back their stocks. The market closely followed the pattern of Saturday. Most of the activity originated with floor traders, and the day's transactions aggregated only 1,413,610 shares.

The price index of 90 leading shares showed a net loss for the day of less than a point. The amusement shares were selected by bears as a vulnerable spot and a few issues in this group declined easily, but they regained about half their loss before the finish.

Favorable Earnings Reported.

The day's news included a few fairly favorable earnings statements. Fox Film reported $2.84 net for class A and B shares in the first half, against $2.02 in the like period of 1929, which checked a bear raid on the stock. After dropping 6 points, the stock rallied 3. It was announced that no changes in dividend policy was anticipated. Drug, Inc., reported first half net of $3.01 a share, against $2.10 on about two-thirds as many shares.

There has been considerable bearish gossip in circulation in brokerage circles regarding possible dividend cuts, by Fox Film and others. Kennecott had been expected to announce a quarterly disbursement of 50 cents, against 75 cents in the previous quarter, but the directors' meeting was postponed because of lack of a quorum.

On the whole, industrial news was meager. Early estimates of steel operations for the week indicated that no further curtailment in the Youngstown area was in prospect, but output in the Pittsburgh district appeared to be holding barely steady. S. W. Straus & Co. reported building permits taken out in leading cities for July showed an increase of 1.3-5 per cent over June, as contrasted to a normal seasonal reduction of 13 per cent from June to July, but the July total was about 36 per cent under July, 1929, and last year was a slack year in building.

Radio Regains Loss.

Powerful bear pressure was directed again Radio Corporation common during the morning, and it sold off about 3 points, but the stock was well taken by brokers connected with its market sponsors, and regained all but a point of its loss.

Since only $1.27 per class A preferred share was earned during the first half, against dividend requirements of $1.75, bears argued that the preferred dividend was insecure, but sponsors of the issue feel that the company did reasonably well in the first half, considering demoralized conditions in the radio industry, and look for improvement in the last half.

Columbia Graphophone was depressed 3 points to a new low at 12¼, and recovered a point. The company is said to be receiving increasing competition abroad, and the stock has been less popular since the merger negotiations with Radio Corporation. Foreign subsidiary appear to have been indefinitely postponed. General Theaters equipment sagged 2 points to a new low.

U. S. Steel Steady.

American Telephone, General Electric, General Motors and U. S. Steel closed about steady. Such stocks as Coca Cola, Eastman, Hershey Chocolate, Western Union, Safeway Stores and Sears Roebuck lost 2 and 3. United Aircraft was sent up 3 points in a large turnover. Earnings for the year are estimated at a little better than $2 a share. Standard Gas, Jewel Tea and Johns-Manville rose about 2, Curtiss Publishing 4 and Ingersoll Rand jumped 7 in a small turnover.

Cotton tumbled about $3 a bale to new lows in selling reflecting weakness of the Liverpool market and bearish weather reports. Wheat and corn futures lost about 2 to 3 cents a bushel.

Foreign exchanges were inclined to sag. Sterling cables again held steady around $4.87⅛, but the peseta recorded another new low, and the Canadian dollar gave up most of its premium.

RAIL BONDS MOUNT TO NEW 1930 PEAK

Utilities Issues Also Rise in Otherwise Quiet and Colorless Session.

FOREIGN LIST IS STEADY

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The listed bond market moved irregularly today in a quiet and colorless session.

Railroad issues were in fair demand at close to their best prices of the year, which also signifies the best since 1928. Utilities were firm and the continued inquiry for investment issues brought out a further list of bonds in this group, with several climbing to new 1930 peak.

Changes in the foreign list were small and of a divergent nature with the price level little disturbed. Expanded trading developed in United States Governments. Liberty issues held firm, while Treasury issues yielded a small fraction.

Rail Bonds Advance.

The daily advance of a group of railroad bonds to new peaks for the year has become an old story during the past few weeks. Today was no exception. A feature was the assumption of leadership in the day's trading by Southern Pacific 4½s. The brisk demand for the bond carried it to a new 1930 high price at 100¼.

Pennsylvania issues were well bought, with the debenture 4½s, general 4½s and 3½s advancing to new peaks for the year, along with Reading 4½s. A. Atchison General 4s, Big Four 4½s, Colorado and Southern Refunding 4½s, Delaware & Hudson Refunding 4s, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s, New York Central 3½s and New York Connecting Railway 5s.

Kansas City Power & Light 4½s, public Service Electric & Gas 4½s, and North American Edison 5s C appreciated to new high figures for the year. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit 6s were quite active and firm.

Pathe Warrants Rise.

A feature of the stock privilege group was the 5½ rise in Pathe warrant 7s. Paramount Famous Players Lasky 6s gained ¾. Amusement convertibles sagged, General Theaters losing ⅜ and Warner Brothers again turning downward, losing 1¼.

Among industrials General Motors acceptance 6s gained ½ to reach a new high. Shell Union 5s and Pure Oil 5½s were firm. Royal Dutch 4s were a strong spot and sold at a new high price for the year.

Leading foreign dollar bonds ruled steady to firm, with most of them attracting little trading. German 7s and 7s the most active of the standard Europeans were steady. Batavian Petroleum 4½s were sold ⅛ lower. South Americans were quiet. Brazil 6½s of '26-57 gained a full point. Chile Republic 6s of May 1963, another active spot, sagged ½ point.

THRIFT INCREASING, FINANCIER ASSERTS

Stock Declines Declared to Be Impetus for Saving of Money.

COLLECTIONS ARE GOOD

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Thrift is definitely increasing in the United States, measured by all signs of economic progress, and a reservoir of wealth is being accumulated which will eventually find its way into high-grade investment securities, it is pointed out by Richard B. Sandrett, jr., chairman of the board of the Fidelity Investment Association.

The lessons of thrift so firmly inculcated in the minds of past generations were largely forgotten in the orgy of spending which followed the post-war prosperity, Mr. Scandrett explained, and the country was on the point of becoming a nation of speculators rather than a nation of investors prior to the drastic declines in the stock market. The sobering influence of the decline turned the mass mind again in the direction of saving money, and the result has been beneficial when viewed from a standpoint of ultimate economic progress of the country.

Savings-bank deposits, life insurance, building and loan associations and all other forms of systematic saving have shown material increases, while many retail stores which appeal to the desire of the consumer for lower prices have shown small increases in sales for the first half year.

Collections Hold Up Well.

Collections of wholesale and manufacturing firms throughout the country are holding up unusually well through the dull season, according to the August trade survey conducted by Credit Monthly, publication of the National Association of Credit Men.

The survey, which covers 100 market centers, shows very little change from last month. Two cities, Cedar Rapids and Waterloo, Iowa, reported collections good, while only one city reported good collections a month ago.

Three cities moved over from the "fair" column to "slow," and of the 100 cities covered, 52 reported collections "slow," 46 reported them "fair," and two "good." Roanoke, Va., was the only city reporting brisk sales, although 61 other cities characterized sales as "fair," and 38 reported them "slow."

Drought Affects Reports.

The continued dry weather and the low price of wheat were repeatedly mentioned as unfavorable factors in reports from the farm States, although reports from industrial sections revealed an undercurrent of confidence that conditions will improve in the fall.

President George O. Walson, Liberty National Bank, has returned to the city from his summer home at Wild Rose Shores, on Chesapeake Bay.

Vice President F. E. Ghiselli, Merchants Bank & Trust Co., is spending his vacation at Healing Springs, Va.

TUESDAY MORNING — The Washington Post. — AUGUST 19, 1930

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

TWO MEN HUNTED IN GIRL KIDNAPING; ONE IS IDENTIFIED

Bootlegger Suspect Also Wanted on Several Other Charges.

MARYLAND VICTIM DESCRIBES ATTACKS

Man Known to Be Enemy of Alleged Perpetrator of Fake Marriage.

An intensive search was being made last night by Maryland police for two men accused by Retha Smith, pretty blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Smith, of kidnapping her on August 10 from the farm home of her parents near Unity, Md.

The girl, who was 15 years old last Monday, was brought back Sunday night when, she said, her abductors became frightened after reading the story of her kidnaping in The Washington Post that morning. One of the men is charged with criminal assault, while both are charged with abduction.

The story told by the girl yesterday to State's Attorney Robert Peter, jr., at Rockville, verified in practically every detail the earlier suspicions of her parents as published in The Post on Sunday, including the identity of one of the kidnapers, said to be a bootlegger and general "bad man" wanted also by the police on several other charges.

Reported Enemy of Higgins.

This man, against whom the criminal assault charge also rests is known to be a bitter enemy of Kenneth Higgins, 23, of Brookville, Md., now out on $3,000 bail pending trial on a charge of victimizing Retha with a fake marriage ceremony last month. Another Brookville man, Jennings Bazzell, proprietor of a garage, also is under similar bond charged with having performed the fraudulent ceremony.

According to the girl's parents, they had been threatened before her disappearance that she "never would get into court to testify" against the men, and in view of the fact of the known enmity between Higgins and Retha's abductor, police are inclined to believe that the kidnaping was not a result of the threats.

The girl told Mr. Peter yesterday that she had gone on August 10 to a spring about 100 yards from her home and there had been confronted by two men, one of whom aimed a pistol at her and threatened her with death if she made any outcry.

They forced her to accompany them, she said, along an unused road to where they had a car parked. She was driven, she continued, to the home of one of the men who got out of the car, while the other, who had been named previously to police by the girl's parents as suspected of kidnaping her, drove the car into the woods and attacked her, repeating his threat of death.

Several Attacks Alleged.

After about two hours, she said, the car was driven back to the house, where the other man rejoined them, and the three drove to an unoccupied house on the farm owned by her attacker's father, near Daisy, Md., in Howard County. Later, she continued, she was taken to a tent near the house and again attacked.

Retha declared she was kept in the tent until Thursday, during which time she was subjected to frequent attacks. Then, she told the State's attorney, she was taken to a "big town," which she did not recognize, but which she said was about four hours' drive from Daisy. There she was left at the home of a woman whose name she does not know.

After the men left, Retha said, she told the woman her story and asked to be sent home, but the woman refused until Sunday, after she had read the story in The Post, when she brought Retha to the home of her sister, Mrs. Florence Wilhoite, in Howard County, and left her at the gate. Mrs. Wilhoite was not at home, however, so Retha walked to the home of another sister, Mrs. Cleo Marshall, nearby, who notified her parents and they brought her home.

Gate Honors Birth Of Virginia Dare

Memorial Erected by U. S. on Site of Ill-Fated Raleigh Colony.

Manteo, N. C., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—A memorial was dedicated here today to Virginia Dare, the first child of English parentage born in the New World.

Virginia Dare was born seven days after Sir Walter Raleigh's little band of settlers set foot on Roanoke Island, after a long voyage from England. Today marks the 343d anniversary of her birth on August 18, 1587.

The memorial, a gateway erected by the United States Government, stands on the site of Sir Walter's ill-fated colony. It was not long after blue-eyed Virginia Dare was born that the little group of settlers mysteriously disappeared. The only clue left was the word "Croatan," carved in the bark of a tree. No trace was ever found of them. Croatan was the name of a presumably friendly tribe of Indians.

Married Man Accused Of Killing Girl's Father

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 18.—Because he denied a married man permission to pay suit to his 15-year-old daughter, officers say, Grove Leeson, 40 years old, father of eight children and employe of a coal company, was shot to death last night at his home at Cherry Falls, a mile south of Webster Springs.

Walley Marks, 44, a boarder at the Leeson home, is being held in the Webster jail charged with shooting Leeson three times with a revolver. He is said to have deserted his wife and four children in Gilmer County.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA was housecleaning; with a vengeance.

Everywhere I went there was somebody busy; a charwoman on her knees scrubbing the kitchen floor; a maid washing windows; a roustabout in the back yard raking the leaves; a painter daubing the radiators.

"Heavens," I cried, "what're you trying to do? Relieve the unemployment situation?"

Luella was happy as a lark, superintending the various jobs: "Cleanliness," she reminded me, "is next to godliness."

Visioning the wage scale, cleanliness seemed to me next to bankruptcy.

* * * *

"WHERE'RE you gon-a get the pay roll for this gang?" I asked, merely for information.

Haven't you got some money on you?" she parried.

"Not a red cent——!"

"Then you can write a check."

"Write a check? Say you'd better not let the cashier of my bank hear you say that."

"What?"

"I'm, I'm——," I stammered, hardly having the nerve to tell her.

"YOU'RE what?" she gasped.

"Overdrawn."

Luella flopped down on a sofa, dismay written on her countenance.

"Say that again," she commanded, just as the cleaners came for the rugs.

The situation was serious. Here was Luella employing a regiment, and the bank account no account.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear, oh, dear," she moaned, settling down again. "Whattum I gonna do?"

"Whatd'ye mean, whattuh y' gonna do?"

"I mean, how'm I gonna pay these people?"

"Search me! Why did yuh hire 'em all, in the first place?"

* * * *

"WELL, after our vacation, the house had to be cleaned, didn't it?"

"Yes, and after our vacation I was cleaned, too—not a nickel left."

Luella laid her head on the sofa pillow and began to cry. It was more than she could stand. The only relief was a pay day in the offing.

"In that case," she cooed, brightening at the idea, "I'll hire these people by the week, instead of the day."

CULPEPER FAIR RACE ENTRIES TO BE FREE

Directors Install Amplifiers for Three-Day Gathering in Virginia.

DROUGHT CUTS PRODUCE

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Aug. 18.—In spite of the drought-caused scarcity of exhibition specimens of farm products and live stocks the tenth annual Culpeper and adjoining counties' fair will be held here on September 1, 2 and 3.

During the past year there has been an increase in dairying and horse breeding in this section, so it is believed that the classes for dairy stock and horses probably will be the best ever seen at this fair.

A system of amplifiers has been installed so that all announcements will be made simultaneously throughout the grounds.

To insure full fields in the races, four of which, three flat races and a steeplechase, are scheduled for each day, the management has eliminated all entrance fees and is offering free stalls to running horse owners.

The officers of the fair association are P. M. Browning, president; Miss Virginia Tinsley, first vice president; Brooke Miller, second vice president; George W. Morris, manager; Miss Adella Yowell, secretary; C. T. Guinn, treasurer, and J. C. Eller, assistant manager. Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Aug. 18.—Thomas A. Belt, 46, of Hamilton, Va., State traffic officer, died in the Loudoun County Hospital here this afternoon as a result of injuries received Tuesday afternoon. When riding on a motorcycle he attempted to pass a horse and buggy and collided with an automobile in Hamilton, Va.

Mr. Belt was born in Loudoun County and was the son of the late Townsend Belt. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Myrtle Shaner, of near Staunton, Va., two daughters and a son, three brothers, Joseph and Samuel Belt, of Washington, D. C., and Benjamin Belt, of this county, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Holton, of Fauquier County.

ADVICE ON PLANTING OFFERED IN VIRGINIA

FALL GARDENS INDORSED

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—With scattered rains loosening the grip of the drought on Virginia, J. J. Owen, assistant commissioner of agriculture and immigration, has approved a list of suggestions to be put into use by farmers when their lands again have sufficient moisture for cultivation.

A fall garden in the face of threats that the food supply may be less than usual, to be planted as soon as rains come, was urged by Mr. Owen, suggesting the planting of lettuce, kale, cabbage, onions, spinach, and turnips.

As a safeguard that live stock will have plenty to eat through the winter, he suggested sheltering and baling all straw from small grain.

Planting of Rye.

Pastures have been hard hit by the dry weather, and the assistant commissioner urged the sowing of crops to be grazed to the extent of one acre for each head of live stock. Rye, if sown within the next two or three weeks, will give 30 days of grazing this fall and an equal time next spring, he said, with time then left for preparation of a corn crop. Abruzzi rye was suggested as the type to plant, with clover or rape seeded with it for hogs or cattle.

For hay needs during next summer he suggested sowing wheat and vetch, one bushel of wheat with 30 to 40 pounds of vetch, after inoculating the soil for the vetch. These crops should be sown in late September or early October. Mr. Owen said, after fertilizing with 200 or 300 pounds of complete fertilizer.

Urged to Keep Cattle.

He suggested also the sowing of grass and clover for hay next summer, predicting the likelihood of a hay shortage a year from now unless this is done.

Farmers were urged against selling their cattle, even in the face of adversity. "If feed is not sufficient to feed for milk, feed just enough to maintain the body until spring," he said.

Corn that is beyond the hope of making grain should be cut at once, Mr. Owen suggested, but should not be shocked in large bundles as damage may result.

He stressed a comprehensive plan and the carrying out of this plan as soon as the drought is broken.

Three Battleships Take Midshipment to Drills

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The battleships Arkansas, Utah and Florida steamed out of Hampton Roads early today with 980 members of the first and third classes of midshipmen from the United States Naval Academy, to engage in a period of short-range target practice at the southern drill grounds.

The midshipmen spent four days in Norfolk while supplies were being loaded aboard their vessels.

ALEXANDRIA SOCIETY DRAFTS 1931 PLANS

Noted Speaker to Be Asked to Washington Fete; Infantry Returns.

REPUBLICANS TO MEET

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Washington Society of Alexandria last night discussed tentative plans for the celebration of Washington's birthday in 1931, at its quarterly meeting at the Hotel Humphrey. The only plan decided upon was the securing of some noted speaker for an address on George Washington, to be delivered in Christ Episcopal Church, of which Washington was a vestryman and pewholder, and in which his pew is maintained in its original condition, and is visited each year by many thousands of tourists. The affair will be held either February 21 or 22, the exact date to be decided upon later.

Plans were also discussed for a fitting celebration of the bicentennial of George Washington's birth in 1932. The society proposes to cooperate with the national organization in the celebration that year in every possible way.

The Alexandria Light Infantry, officially known as Company I, First Regiment of Infantry, Virginia National Guard, has returned from a fifteen-day encampment with the other units of the regiment at Virginia Beach. Intensive instructions in the use of troops under combat conditions were given the regiment, including musketry, first-aid, chemical warfare, defense against aircraft attack, and marksmanship with the rifle, automatic rifle and pistol.

The members of the company who qualified as expert riflemen were Capt. W. Cameron Roberts, Sergt. W. E. Trainor, Privates First Class William H. Brown, Thomas W. McWhorter and Bruce E. Stewart. Those qualifying as sharpshooters were Second Lieut. John S. Arnold, Sergt. Lester E. Scott, Corpls. Frank A. Purvis and Claude L. Sullivan. The marksmen were Sergts. Lewis D. Powers and John P. Strauss, Corpls. Herbert B. Daniels, George J. McDonough and William M. Wilson, jr., and Privates Frank H. Beach, Samuel M. Rambo, James F. Smith and Harry C. Walker. First Sergt. Richard B. Pettit qualified as an expert machine gunner.

A mass meeting of the Republicans of the city will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the George Mason Hotel, to elect sixteen delegates and the same number of alternates to the State convention in Roanoke on August 30. A chairman and secretary for the local organization is to be selected at this meeting.

A delegation of members of the local Elks Lodge, headed by the exalted ruler, James Reece Duncan, will return tonight from Hampton, Va., after attending the two-day session of the State Elks convention.

The Very Rev. Louis Smet, S. T. L., vice rector of the American College at Louvain, Belgium, who was for many years rector of St. Mary's Catholic Church, this city, is again a guest at St. Mary's Rectory, 318 North Washington street, after a tour of the southern and western part of the State.

Inquiry Into Death On Tanker Asked

Widow of Radio Operator Doubts He Killed Self at Singapore.

Mystery surrounding the death of William E. Simpson, 27 years old, radio operator of the Standard Oil steamer Japan Arrow, who succumbed while the ship was anchored on May 15 at Singapore, Straits Settlement, yesterday, led his widow, Mrs. Mary Simpson, of Capitol Heights, Md., to seek an investigation by the State of Maryland.

Mrs. Simpson said the Standard Oil Co. of New York, employer of Simpson, advised her that her husband had "died by his own hand" in his cabin on the ship at Singapore She said she also had seen Singapore newspaper clippings regarding the inquest.

She explained that her husband on several occaions had told her that various members of the crew were jealous of his friendship with the ship's officers She said that her mother-in-law, Mrs. John R. Simpson, also a resident of Capitol Heights, obtained the clothes of the young man, in which was found a note reading, "Mother, I have been ill treated and falsely accused on this ship."

Capital Man Accused In Maryland Accident

Sol M. Andrews, 24 years old, former Naval Academy midshipman and now connected with the War Department, who gave his address as an Oliver street house near Thirty-seventh street northwest, last night forfeited collateral deposited with police at Annapoli, Md., on charges of reckless driving and speeding.

Andrews was arrested after the machine he was driving into West Annapolis at a reported rate of about 50 miles an hour crashed into an automobile driven by John Hornberg, member of the Naval Academy Band, and bearing his wife and three children. All were severely shaken, Hornberg suffering lacerations about the scalp.

Autoist Faces $25,000 In Suits After Mishap

Two suits for an aggregate of $25,000 damages were filed yesterday in District Supreme Court as an aftermath of an automobile collision in which Mrs. Maysie J. Bell, of 5308 Fifth street northwest, is alleged to have been seriously injured. Mrs. Bell and her husband, Earle C. Bell, are the plaintiffs, while James C. Richards, of 22 Nicholson street northwest, is the defendant in both actions. Mrs. Bell seeks $20,000 damages for alleged personal injuries, while her husband seeks $5,000 for loss of her services and medical expenses.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell set out that she was injured June 29 when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a machine operated by Richards, on Kansas avenue northwest, near Buchanan street. Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert, Austin P. Canfield and Robert L. Miller appear for both plaintiffs.

Two Are Injured As Auto Crashes

Child Escapes When Lights of Car Go Out North of Martinsburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 18.—John Bennett is in a local hospital with serious chest injuries, his wife was less seriously hurt, and his young sister escaped injury when the lights on their automobile suddenly went off while descending "S" hill on the State road, 10 miles north of here, late Sunday night and they plunged over the bank.

No one was thrown from the car, but all were extricated with difficulty from the wrecked automobile. Passing motorists brought the three to this city, Mrs. Bennett and the child, Imogen Bennett, were able to go to their homes after emergency attention.

Bennett is known to have a fractured rib and lacerations about the body, and is being kept under observation at the hospital for possible internal injuries. All are residents here.

FAIR EVENT ASSURED BY DIRECTORS' VOTE

RIGHT-OF-WAY GRANTED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The board of directors of the Fairfax County Fair Association met last night at Fairfax and set at rest the rumor that has prevailed during the past few weeks by deciding to continue with the annual fair next month. A large number of persons have believed that on account of the drought that has wrought havoc among the farmers of the county during the past few months the fair would be called off.

The directors decided that it was necessary to hold this year's fair because of the financial condition of the company. Secretary Robert D. Graham points out that the association pays more than $1,000 each year for interest on the capital borrowed a few years ago to refinance the fair after it had been discontinued for two years, and that if the fair was discontinued this year it would amount to a discontinuance permanently, as he did not believe that the stockholders would stand for an assessment to carry the interest and necessary expenses during the coming year and risk insufficient returns next year.

The special committee, consisting of President E. M. Palmer, J. W. Gaines, vice president, and Thomas R. Keith, made its report and the directors voted to grant the State Highway Commission the necessary right-of-way through the fairgrounds for the proposed cut-off of the Lee highway. When the commission decides to build this cut-off the approval of the stockholders of the association will be obtained. This action practically assures the building of the cut-off, as the fairgrounds was considered a stumbling block in securing the necessary right-of-way.

Secretary Graham was instructed to advertise for persons wanting concessions in the grounds during the fair, which will open September 10.

Marriage of Girl, 17, Annulled in Maryland

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 18.—The marriage of Mary A. Cleary, aged 17, of Tremont, Pa., and Charles A. Boe, 24, Pine Grove, Pa., was annulled here today under a decree signed by Judge Frank G. Wagaman.

The ceremony took place here July 14. Boe was arrested a week after the marriage and brought here to face trial. The girl's father instituted annulment proceedings. Boe is now in jail, but may soon be released and the charge dropped.

Bible Conference Holds Open Forum

London Editor Will Address Massaneta Springs Session Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 18.—An open forum on practical church problems from the layman's viewpoint was one of the features of tonight's program at the Massaneta Springs Bible Conference which now is in its final week. Among those offering suggestions were Dr. Julian A. Burruss, president of Virginia Polytechnic Institute; Dr. Charles G. Maphis, of the University of Virginia; W. S. McClanahan, of Roanoke, and D. K. Kellogg, of Richmond.

Dr. John A. Hutton, of London, editor of the British Weekly, arrived at the conference tonight and will speak tomorrow. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, New York City, made his first address today.

Dr. S. D. Gordon, of New York City, continued his "Quiet Talks on Bible Studies" tonight on the "Power of the Holy Spirit in the Church."

Historic Church Burns In Jefferson County

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 18.—The Old Furnace Church, built 90 years ago, 2 miles from Shannondale Springs, Jefferson County, and which was for 50 years the communal as well as church center of an iron works community there, fell a victim of forest fires the past week. The church had not been in use for some years, falling into decay when the iron works project was abandoned.

The church was built with funds from Miss Miria Perdew, Quakeress daughter of the founder of the iron works. Through disuse it had been overgrown with brush, as had the old houses there, and they were easy prey to the flames.

FAIRFAX WILL HOLD NEW CHEST CLINIC

State Specialist to Conduct Examinations Planned in County.

TYPHOID SERUM GIVEN

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Fairfax County will have another chest clinic this summer, it has been announced by the County Health Unit, which is under the direction of Dr. Robert E. Feagans. The second clinic will be held Thursday by a specialist from the State Health Department. Dr. Feagans and Mrs. Fannie Lou Seamons, county health nurse, are urging all persons that have any suspicion that all it not right with their heart or lungs, to attend the clinic and have an examination made free of charge.

The clinic for white persons will be held in the office of the health unit in the county courthouse building in Fairfax from 9:30 o'clock in the morning until noon. The colored clinic will be held in the same office from 2 o'clock until 4:30 in the afternoon. These clinics are conducted by the State Health Department in conjunction with the county Board of Health.

While the typhoid fever situation in Fairfax County is not causing the health office any particular anxiety, typhoid serum is being administered to most all of those who have been exposed to the disease and to the children who have been bathing in the streams that have become unsafe on account of dry weather. The injections of serum are being made by Mrs. Fannie Lou Seamons, county health nurse.

Approximately 60 persons, women and children, have received the first inoculation. Three injections of the serum are necessary at intervals of a week or ten days to give immunity from the disease. Two new cases have been reported this week at Colvin Run, both patients being adults. This brings the total number of typhoid fever cases to three, the other case reported last week resulting in the death of Manuel Hirst, at Annandale, the 14-year-old son of Mason Hirst.

The Fairfax County police were kept busy answering calls over the weekend. Hampton Hurley and Wade Pollen, of Alexandria, received serious injuries when the car in which they were riding overturned on the Franconia road. Both men received broken legs and cuts and bruises about the body. The car was driven by Hurley. The other passengers in the car, William Mazingo and Dewey Creegan, also of Alexandria, escaped with minor cuts and bruises. The men were taken to the Alexandria Hospital for treatment. The case was investigated by Capt. Haywood Durrer and Policeman Lewis Finks, of the road police.

A large number of minor collisions also were investigated by the police, but no court action was taken, the parties agreeing to settle their differences among themselves.

Donnie Falcone, 23, of M street, near Fourth street northwest, and Rex Lowen, 35, of the 5400 block of Ninth street northwest, Washington, were lodged in the Fairfax County jail, charged with driving while under the influence of ardent spirits, transporting ardent spirits, destroying evidence and reckless driving. They were given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace John T. Noling at Falls Church, who imposed a fine of $18 and costs on the reckless driving charge, and held them for the action of the grand jury at the September term of circuit court on the other charges. Their bond was set at $500 each. The arrests were made by Deputy Sheriff W. A. Wheeler and Town Sergt. Walter Mitchell.

Daniel Mullan, 24, of First street, near Ninth street northwest, Washington, was fined $14 and costs for reckless driving. George Clark, of Fourth and H streets southwest, was lodged in the Fairfax jail on a charge of being drunk and disorderly on the Washington-Richmond highway near Accotink.

The Groveton Community Club will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight in the Groveton Schoolhouse. No president has been elected as yet to succeed the late George K. Pilkett, who had held this office for several years before his death.

The Pioneer Grange at Masonville will hold its meeting tonight in the Grange Hall. The lecturers' hour will be devoted to the completion of plans for the chicken dinner to be served tomorrow evening for the Alexandria Kiwanis Club and guests. The grange plans to serve 100 persons. The lecturer, Mrs. Milton Hartley, has received a picture of Oliver Hudson Kelly, the founder of the National Grange, and if the picture is framed by tonight, it will be unveiled with appropriate ceremonies The master and secretary of the local grange will deliver addresses and musical selections will be given.

The pioneer class of girls of the Presbyterian Church at Falls Church will meet at noon today in the church parlors to continue the study of the mission study book and to sew for foreign missions.

Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, will attend the meeting this afternoon of the Annadale Home Demonstration Club to demonstrate the use of a pressure cooker in the cooking and canning of fruits and vegetables.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Herndon will hold its meeting this evening at the home of Mrs. J. T. Tavenner.

The Farmers and Mechanics Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, at Andrew Chapel will hold its meeting this evening.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church at Dranesville will serve a fried chicken dinner tomorrow in the Dranesville Tavern on the Alexandria-Leesburg pike for the benefit of the church fund. The officers of the society recently elected are: Mrs. Fannie Corner, president; Mrs. John W. Hensly, vice president; Mrs. Katie Fleming, secretary, and Mrs. Frank Hammond, treasurer.

Clarence Coates, 38, colored, of Falls Church, is in a critical condition in the Georgetown Hospital from carbolic acid poisoning. He had been in ill health for some time. Physicians hold out no hope for his recovery.

Secretary Davis Loses Dog.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis yesterday asked police to look out for his dog, a white Spitz, which strayed from the Davis home at 3017 Massachusetts avenue northwest Sunday. The animal, a pet of the Davis family, answers to the name of "Snooky."

Ten Years Given For Theft of Safe

Third Member of Quartet Robbed Restaurant Is Sentenced.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 18.—James Scott, 25, Negro waiter, was sentenced to ten years in the State Penitentiary today by Judge H. W. Bertram, in Rockingham Circuit Court, on a burglary charge.

Scott pleaded guilty to participation in robbery of Priddle's Restaurant last March, when the safe was carried from the establishment, broken open and $1,400 in cash and $1,000 in checks removed. The safe was dumped in the North River at Bridgewater.

Scott was employed at the restaurant at the time. He was arrested at Harrisburg, Pa. Two of his companions in the burglary, Medford Hooks and William Gaines, are serving five and two year sentences. The fourth member of the quartet has not been captured.

FAIR AT ROCKVILLE OPENS GATES TODAY

Montgomery County Exhibition Expects One of Most Successful Events.

FIRST DAY CHILDREN'S

The seventy-seventh annual exhibition of the Montgomery County Agriculture Society opens today at Rockville, Md.

Clarence L. Gilpin, president of the association for the last twelve years, announced yesterday that all concession space had been sold and the prospects for one of the most successful fairs in the history of the organization were exceedingly bright.

The last few days of cool weather and brief showers have offset the ill effects of the drought and combined with the measures taken by the fair association will insure the fair visitors against dust and heat.

Today, according to the fair traditions, will be children's day, with the youngsters of the State and District of Columbia attending as guests of the association officials.

In place of the usual horse show, omitted from the fair program this year, a pony show will be staged at the fair grounds today with the added attraction of pony races in which the youthful owners of the diminutive steeds will ride.

The program for the week is:

Today.
9 a. m.—Judging cattle at pavilion.
10 a. m.—Pony show begins.
1 p. m.—Judging Boys' and Girls' Clubs exhibits.
1:30 p. m.—Pony show and pony races. Free acts and music between classes.
Night show—Fireworks, midway, free acts and music.

Wednesday.
9 a. m.—Visit cattle and poultry exhibits and exhibits of Boys' and Girls' Clubs.
10 a. m.—Visit flower show.
1 p. m.—Races called.
2:30 p. m.—Cavalcade.
Night show—Fireworks.

Thursday.
9 a. m.—Visit Women's Building and automobile and machinery exhibits.
10 a. m.—Baby show.
1 p. m.—Races called.
2:30 p. m.—Cavalcade.
Night show—Fireworks.

Friday.

Auto races for the afternoon.

Motorcycle Kills Man, 72, in Swing

Rider of Vehicle Is Accused of Felonious Assault in Maryland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Thomas, W. Va., Aug. 18.—Art Keener, 22 years old, of this place, is in jail at Morgantown, charged with felonious assault, pending investigation into the death of Henry H. Thorn, 72, retired farmer, yesterday. Keener's motorcycle crashed into a swing in which Thorne was sitting, in the side yard of the store premises of Tony Teso, at Everettsville, 7 feet from the highway.

According to the authorities Keener could have passed between a parked ice truck and a pleasure car, but he darted between the truck and the right side of the store building, crashing into the swing.

Thorn, who weighed 240 pounds, was carried 13 feet. Spouting on the store was torn away. Thorne died from concussion of the brain, shock and hemorrhages. Keener was but slightly injured.

West Virginia Town Plans Water Supply

Special to The Washington Post.

Paw Paw, W. Va., Aug. 18.—Preliminary moves by the taxpayers here for a city water system were made the past week with a petition to council and a public meeting at which council was asked to name an advisory group of five to consider plans for the project.

The plans probably will involve pumping water from the Potomac River by electricity for distribution to the houses. The town has no public supply system whatsoever now. The danger in case of fire, with no pressure available, is a factor urging the project.

Selby Files in Race For Maryland Senate

Special to The Washington Post.

Oakland, Md., Aug. 18.—Dr. Henry W. McComas, former Mayor of Oakland, who several months ago announced himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for State senator from Garrett County, is to have opposition. N. R. Selby, former member of the House of Delegates, who resided at Selbysport, has filed papers with the board of election supervisors. Mr. Selby is a business man and farmer of Selbysport.

Dr. McComas, in his platform, says he will support any measure for State-wide enforcement of the prohibition law and he will not support any measure for issuance of bonds for Garrett County without a provision calling for a referendum.

ARLINGTON COUNTY LEADS IN SCHOOLS

WATER LINES EXTENDED

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Leading the 100 counties in the State in educational accomplishments, Arlington County continues to develop its school system by making further additions to a number of school buildings from the $674,000 bond issue authorized seven years ago.

The principal addition being made is at the Washington-Lee High High School, where 32 new classrooms are now in course of construction. The building, when erected seven years ago with 25 classrooms, was considered adequate until 1933, at least. Built with a capacity of 850 pupils, it closed in June of this year with a total enrollment of 1,250 students. With the additions completed, which, according to the contractor, will be on the eve of Christmas, Arlington County will be able to boast of having the largest high school building in the State, with 52 classrooms, an auditorium seating 1,500 persons and all other modern facilities.

Work is now being pushed on additions to four elementary school buildings, located at Bon Air, Lyon Park, Aurora Hills and Aurora Heights. Each of these buildings will have four rooms added and will be finished November 1.

The two bond issues totaled $1,314,000, of which $223,000 has been used to pay off current short loans. The work on the buildings will not interfere with the fall opening of school. The county school board has not announced the opening date as yet, but it is expected that it will be determined at the meeting of the board Wednesday evening, September 10.

Election of officers will be the principal business at the monthly meeting of the Ashton Heights Citizens Association, to be held tonight in the Woman's Clubhouse, Clarendon avenue, at 8 o'clock.

Continuing its policy of making extensions to the county water system as rapidly as possible, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier announced yesterday that the extension along Mackeys Hill, a distance of 2,800 feet and serving a total of sixteen homes, has been completed.

Work is now progressing on extensions in Virginia Highlands section, where 33 homes will be added to the present line, extending the lines in that section 3,300 feet. Another extension is being made on Virginia avenue and Latterner avenue in Lyon Park, a distance of 1,800 feet and giving service to 25 homes.

In addition to making these extensions, Engineer Kinnier stated that the office of the water department is receiving applications for connections at the rate of four a day.

Indications are now, according to Engineer Kinnier, that by December 31 of this year the additional 1,000 water users needed to insure a reduction in the water rate will have been obtained. The proposal is to reduce the rate from $24 a year to $22 a year with a reduction of 50 cents quarterly for prompt payment of water bills which will give a reduction of $4 or
